2 Greenbush People [illegible] in Car Colli[illegible]

Accident on [illegible] County Road [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. A[illegible]

A Greenbush couple [illegible] Friday afternoon when their car and one driven by a Strathcona youth collided at a county road intersection seven miles southeast of Greenbush.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Kaml, both in their late forties or early fifties, were believed to have died instantly when their car collided with a vehicle driven by Robert Nelson, 18, Strathcona.

According to reports the Kaml car was going west on a township road and Nelson was traveling south on County road 35 when the accident occurred. No cause for the crash was given. Both of the Kamls were hurled from their car and Mrs. Kaml's body came to rest in a drainage ditch.

Elsewhere in the state a head-on collision between two cars near Rochester brought death to four persons about 1:55 a.m. Sunday. According to reports the car driven by Gordon Smerud, 21, Rochester, veered into the opposing lane of traffic, colliding head-on with another vehicle.

Smerud and Mrs. Bernice Herman, 38, and Harry J. Wedge, about 40, both of Plainview, died enroute to a hospital and Ralph Herman, 38, died later that morning in St. Mary's hospital in Rochester.

The deaths brought the Minnesota road toll to 318, 33 more than a year ago.

In the city no accidents other than a minor mishap involving about $35 damage to both cars happened over the week-end. The damage occurred when Alvin Randorf hooked the bumper of a car with his pick-up truck as he was leaving a parking space near the Hartz Store here, according to city police.

Neither the sheriff or highway patrol reported week-end accidents.

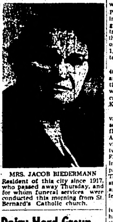
Rites Held Today



MRS. JACOB BIEDERMANN

Resident of this city since 1917, who passed away Thursday, and for whom funeral services were conducted this morning from St. Bernard's Catholic church.

A tour of the crop variety and fertilizer trials is being planned for Monday, Aug. 5, it was announced by county agent Paul Stelmaschuk. All of the important varieties and types of grains are being grown in the trial plots which are located on the Art Rambeck farm, located one mile west on Highway No. 1, one mile north and one quarter of a mile west.

The fertilizer trials include 40 different rates and different analyses of fertilizer. The fertilizer plot is located ¾ mile west and ¼ mile south of the crop variety trials, on the Jens Klerk farm.

The crops included in the variety trials are sugar beets, soybeans, oats, barley, wheat, flax, spelt, and sudan grass. All the characteristics will be reviewed for each of the thirty-two varieties during the tour. Farmers and businessmen are invited to view the trials and participate in the tour Aug. 5. This will be an evening tour starting at the variety plots and the group will move to the fertilizer plats.

Two specialists from the University of Minnesota will be on hand to discuss the effects in the fertilizer trials, which is also a joint experiment with the University, and also to discuss the disease resistance, yields, straw strength, and adaptability of the various crops in the trials. Futher arrangements will be announced as they are completed, says Stelmaschuk.

Farm Safety Week Set for July 21 to 27

Pres. Eisenhower Asks Rural People to Note Occasion

Proclaiming the week of July 21-27 as National Farm Safety Week, President Eisenhower pointed out that farm accidents inflict a heavy loss upon the nation's economy and cause untold suffering among the rural population. He said organized accident prevention programs and the growing safety consciousness of rural residents can greatly reduce these accidents and the resultant loss and suffering.

The President requested all persons and organizations interested in the welfare of farm people to support and participate in the special endeavor of National Farm Safety Week. Theme for the week is "Safety Makes Sense."

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, cosponsor of the campaign with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, emphasized the growing menace of traffic accidents to farm people.

"It is a rather startling fact", Mr. Dearborn said, "that three-fourths of all traffic accidents deaths happen on rural highways and not in the city. Of course, this does not mean that rural residents are involved in all these accidents. But more than 5,000 farm people have been getting themselves killed every year in traffic accidents. Modern highway traffic has many hazards—and your own driving requires constant attention and common-sense caution, because so much of your business and pleasure involves traveling along those rural highways. For the sake of your family and your self, take care—don't take chances."

"When driving," Mr. Dearborn suggested, have a courteous attitude and remember that anger and accidents are close kin. Know and obey the traffic signs and regulations. And be extra cautious in bad weather, after dark, on hills and curves, and at grade crossings. Safety Makes Sense on the highway for everybody—especially you and your family."

Aftermath of Fatal Collision Near Greenbush

The body of Mrs. Anton Kaml lies in a drainage ditch following a collision between the car driven by Anton Kaml and another driven by Robert Nelson, 18, Strathcona, on a Roseau county road about 7 miles southeast of Greenbush. The Kaml vehicle came to rest on its top on the roadway and the Nelson car landed in the ditch below the bridge, near Mrs. Kaml's body. No apparent reason was given for the collision, which orphaned five Kaml children. Black marks in picture are from a flaw in negative.—Photo by Greenbush Tribune.

B. Allen Opposes Rail Rate Boost

Minnesota Commissioner of Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture, Byron G. Allen told commission Wednesday that agriculture "has never been in a position to add freight to the general charges it can make to the public."

He testified in opposition to a petition by 18 Minnesota railroads seeking a 5 per cent increase in intrastate rates.

Seek Drainage Project in W. Pennington Co.

Group Votes to Ask County Board for Work on Jud. Ditch 25

Last Friday night 25 farmers representing six western townships of Pennington elected a committee to present a legal petition to the county board to take immediate action to improve Judicial Ditch 25.

The action took place at the Pennington county courthouse when a meeting was called to review the present drainage problems and to discuss possible action to improve the present inadequate system.

The meeting was a sequel to another held earlier in the week in Norden township. At the Norden meeting Carl R. Anderson, county commissioner from the area, suggested that some action be taken at once.

Three types of legal action were outlined to the group in addition to the possibility of applying for federal aid under Public Law 566 (The Small Watershed Act.)

After several hours of discussion the group decided that legal improvement would be the best action under the circumstances.

Under legal improvement a petition must first be signed by 26 percent of the farmers in the area. Once the petition is signed by those affected by the ditch system the board will appoint a county engineer to investigate the present system and to make recomendations for improvement. As a result the present ditch may be made deeper, wider, longer, or if necessary the location of the ditch may even be changed.

Work on the ditch will not begin until 30 days after the first court hearing. At this time bids will be submitted by private contractors and estimated costs will be made.

To finance the project farmers will be assessed according to benefits they will receive from the proposed system.

Should the farmers in the area later decide to apply for federal grants under Public Law 566, the work and money spent before receiving government aid will be considered at their share of the total cost.

Joe Seidel, county engineer, believed it would be to their advantage to initiate improvement under the legal method and at the same time submit application for federal aid for a small watershed.

Under Public Law 566, each project is a local undertaking with federal aid, not a federal project with local assistance. The initiative for the project must come from the people; the people who live in the watershed carry out the project and control it. On an average at least one-half the cost is paid by local and state groups. Federal funds will be made available up to 50 percent of the total cost.

The farmers at the meeting were in agreement that a small watershed system would be good insurance against future floods and the general opinion favored action under Public Law 566. They decided however, to elect the committee to being legal improvement when it was explained that improvement under Public Law 566 would take 4 or 5 years.

Under legal improvement the ditches and drainage system in the area will be operative by fall 1958.

It was decided to begin legal action immediately and one man from each township was elected to form a committee to begin signing up farmers in the area.

Members elected were: Alvin Lietzow, Norden; Frank Hible, Numedal; Erben Ewint, Bray; Gus Peterson, Sanders; Oscar Mosbeck, Polk Centre and John Steiger, Black River.

Houske Cites Provisions of U. S. Soil Bank

Says Violations of Regulations Will Be Penalized

Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the Pennington county ASC committee, has requested that the important requirements of the Soil Bank contracts be publicized in order that all persons participating in the program might be fully informed of the requirements of their contracts, especially relating to possible violations.

The most important of these requirements are in respect to harvesting or grazing from land placed in the Soil Bank program and harvesting in excess of the acreage of crops as set forth by the Soil Bank contracts. Willful violation of these requirements would result in forfeiture or refund of all payments due as well as enforcement of a possible civil penalty.

Other things that constitute a violation of Soil Bank contracts would be failure to prevent the spread of noxious weeds from Soil Bank land, failure to establish and maintain the conservation reserve practices, breaking up of new cropland contrary to regulations, and unauthorized use of Soil Bank land.

Any persons participating in the program having questions relating to these and other requirements of their contracts are urged by Mr. Houske to contact their local county office.

Burglars Again Invade VFW Club

Get $10 Cash and Liquor in Break-in Late Saturday

About all burglars got for their work in breaking into the VFW club here Saturday night was about $10 in change from the juke box and cigarette machines and a quantity of liquor according to city police.

However, the damage they did in breaking into the machines was of more consequence than the money they took in the break-in, police said.

The burglars were either unsuccessful or gave up the attempt to carry out a small safe used at the club, as it was left on the premises. Acting Police Chief Larry Bunger said the whole job looked very much like the work of amateurs or a very drunk person.

City police and a state crime bureau agent are still investigating the break-in, Bunger reported.

State ASC Director to Submit Report to State Committee

Floyd E. Sjolander, state director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation program, completed his survey of flooded lands in the distress area of Northwestern Minnesota Saturday, according to Pat Culkins of the Pennington county office, and expects to meet today with the state disaster committee to discuss possible action.

In discussing relief measures that have been proposed, Mr. Sjolander said some action might be possible under the provisions of the old soil conservation act to compensate farmers for plowing under destroyed crops. He is checking further on this and will welcome suggestions, he said.

There is little hope for special relief under the provisions of the Soil Bank program, he said. The authority of the agency is strictly limited and any important deviation from present practices would require congressional approval. His survey of the area had satisfied him that the crop damage is extensive, he said, and gave assurance he would cooperate to the fullest extent possible with other agencies in attempting to provide some measure of relief.

Flood Disaster Meeting Held at Grygla Tuesday

Crop Losses Reported by Farmers as Ranging from 25 up to 100 Pct.

About two hundred farmers attended a meeting at Grygla last Tuesday evening called for the purpose of getting views on flood damages and deciding on a plan for action.

S. H. Bjertness, Marshall county commissioner, who presided at the meeting, called on various farmers to report their losses. Losses in crops were reported to be from twenty-five to per cent and up to total loss; inability to cut and bale hay was found in almost all areas, which poses a serious threat to livestock herds. Heavy cuts in dairy production were resulting from the insect situation.

Delmar Hagen of Gatzke stated that the damages were far more apparent when seen from the air. He had flown the area the day before. O. P. Howland made substantially the same observation as a result of a trip over the area in a plane.

Agreement was reached on the following points to be discussed with the state disaster committee:

1. Long term loans with low interest rates.
2. Increased A.C.P. payments.
3. Requesting the Secretary of Agriculture to allow farmers to cut hay on Soil Bank area, without penalizing the payment to the owner.

Delmar Hagen, Oliver Howland and Irven W. Anderson were elected to represent the area at the public flood disaster meeting held at Oklee on Wednesday evening.

Egg Regulations Discussed Here

50 Dealers, Producers at Meeting Thursday

Fifty egg dealers and producers from Northwestern Minnesota attended an area meeting at the court house in this city Thursday evening, at which proposed marketing regulations under the new egg grading law were discussed by G. Thompson of the state department of agriculture, dairy and food in St. Paul.

Principal changes proposed in regulations call for all commercial buyers of eggs to secure licenses and to grade eggs bought by them; and also provides for a new Jumbo grade of eggs.

The meeting here was one of 22 being held preliminary to a statewide hearing to be conducted Tuesday, August 6, by Commissioner Byron G. Allen in the auditorium of the state office building in St. Paul.

LIBRARY NOTES

Without a love for books the richest man is poor—Author unknown.

New books being circulated are:

Silver Platter, by Berlin: It was silver, from one of the richest mines in Nevada, that brought Mackay "the world on a silver platter." The wife of Irving Berlin tells the very entertaining story of her grandmother's life.

Through Gates of Splendor, by Elliot: How five courageous missionaries penetrated one of the last frontiers of savagery—the land of the stonge-age Inca Indians in Ecuador, only to be ambushed and killed.

In the Court of Public Opinion, by Hiss: The author defends himself against charges of communist activities and perjury by telling the story of his trial, and tries to substantiate his claim that there was fraud and forgery in the evidence used against him.

The Lady, by Richter: Set in New Mexico of a hundred years ago, young Jud tells the story of his beautiful half-Mexican cousin. There were rumors she had killed a stable boy and when she clashed with Snell Beasley, her brother, husband and son met violent deaths.

The Return of Gunner Asch, by Kirst: This is the most revealing and significant story yet written of the life and death of the German military machine, as seen through the eyes of a decent human being caught in it, the unforgettable Gunner Asch.

Silver Spoon, by Gilbert: Edwin Gilbert has written a story of great sweep, one that has strength and vigor; local New York, town houses, and offices to their great family estate high above the Connetieut river; John Gowden, the impractical idler of the Gowden clan and Grace Anders, the photographer form the basis for this completely absorbing novel.

The Man and the Book Nobody Knows, by Barton: With unfailing reverence but in most vivid and arresting language the author comments on the Bible's wonders and wisdom. Mr. Barton discovers Jesus as eternally the contemporary of every man and woman by relating the events of his life to today's events and concerns.

How to build a House for $6,000, by Cherner.

Of Sheep and Men, by Robertson.

The Wonderful O, by Thurber.

Three Faces of Love, by Baldwin.

The Awakening, by Oldenbourg.

URGE COMPLETION OF HIGHWAYS 89 AND 12
(The Roseau Times Region)

Completion of work on Highway 89 to the Canadian border, and completion of surfacing on Canadian Highway 12 from Winnipeg to meet U. S. 89 at Pinecreek, were discussed and urged at a public highway conference held at Bemidji last week, according to Torliff Tweet and Helmer Larson who represented the Roseau county area involved.

"The scenic and tourist attraction of this north country, and its potential agricultural development were suggested as reasons requiring the early completion of this highway," they said.

Completion of the work on 89 and Canadian 12 would mean "that by next year one could drive from Winnipeg via Canadian 12 and Minnesota 89 through Roseau on excellent surfaced highway, with the exception of eight miles in Marshall county.

OX CART FOR CENTENNIAL
(Warren Sheaf)

Major project of the Marshall County centennial committee will be to send an ox cart complete with oxen from Marshall county to St. Paul next year following along as close as possible the old historic Pembina trail. Delmar Hagen of Gatzke is chairman of this recreation-of-history project. It is hoped that Mr. Hagen will arrive at St. Paul on the opening day of the state fair.

CRASH GATE OF CEMETERY
(Warren Sheaf)

Someone attempted to get into Woodlawn cemetery at Argyle the easy way Saturday or Sunday night and took the gate and one gate post along.

An automobile was driven through the east gate to the cemetery, smashing the gate, breaking one of the concrete side posts and tearing the other post loose at the base, the sheriff's office reported.

HUNT FOR FARMER LOST OVER NIGHT
(Badger Enterprise)

Relatives, neighbors and friends of Oscar Foss spent an anxious night last Thursday as they searched the area around his home for him. They canvassed the neighborhood and others helped in the search. A thunder storm during the night made matters worse. In the morning, a plane from Roseau joined in the search and in a few minutes located him in a field not far from his home. He apparently became confused in his directions and had gotten mired in the wet muddy field and was not able to free himself.

RECORD CROWD AT STATE PARK
(Lake Bronson Budget)

The Lake Bronson State Park was undoubtedly the busiest place in northwestern Minnesota Sunday. According to Park Sup't C. J. McKinley between 5,000 and 6,000 people from the Dakotas, Minnesota and Canada entered the park during the day. Mr. McKinley bases his estimate on the fact that between 1,500 and 2,000 cars entered the park gates and nearly 400 park stickers were sold.

BILLFOLD AND MOTOR RECOVERED
(Bagley Independent)

Superintendent Andie Peterson, Itasca State Park, in his report to U. W. Hella, Director of State Parks, this week included two incidents of public service deserving of special mention.

"During June one of our boat renters dropped a billfold in the lake while fishing. Ben McClees, our boatman at headquarters landing went out and recovered the purse which contained approximately one hundred dollars."

"Also lost in the lake was an outboard motor which had been rented. Ben also finally located and recovered this motor, thereby saving our guest $100 which he would have had to pay if the motor had not been returned.

MEASLES ON THE RAMPAGE
(The Valley Journal)

Measles have "popped up" in many homes in Halstad and the area during the past several weeks and have caused last minute changes in a number of vacation trips. High temperatures have been prevelant in many cases and the children have been content to stay in bed.

VICTIM OF INSECT STING
(Warroad Pioneer)

Teddy, the 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Lockrem, was the victim of an unusual accident Monday afternoon. A black hornet or wasp stung his thumb and the venom caused him to lose consciousness in about half an hour. He was taken to the hospital, where Dr. Nelson gave him emergency treatment and he was soon out of danger.

Call Grand Jury in Crookston Slaying

Mother of 8 Charged with Killing Husband

A grand jury was being drawn Thursday in Crookston to consider the case of Mrs. Edna Alice Briggs, 52, held on a first degree murder charge in the shotgun death of her husband, Roy, 53 of Crookston.

District Judge J. H. Sylvestre, set July 30 as the date the jury will meet. A preliminary hearing on the murder charge had been scheduled for next Tuesday.

Sheriff Carl Knutson said Mrs. Briggs, mother of eight, said after the shooting Friday, July 5, that she wanted to hurt her husband "but I didn't mean to kill him."

Knutson quoted Mrs. Briggs as saying her husband beat her up prior to the shooting. Briggs died of a wound from a .410 guage shotgun. The charge struck him in the neck.

Apple Pie

If you are planning a picnic for this coming weekend and want something you can prepare ahead of time, why not bake the "family favorite", a delicious apple pie. I am sure that many of you will welcome the apple pie recipie used by Loralea Larson, champion pie demonstrator of the Pennington County Fair. Loralea is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Larson, Route 5, Thief River Falls.

Loralea's recipe is as follows:
5-7 tart apples or enough to make 3¼ cups when sliced, ⅞ cup sugar, ½ tsp. cinnamon, 2 Tbsp. flour, 1 Tbsp. butter.

Heat oven to 425 F. Line a 9-inch pie pan with pastry. Wash, peel quarter, and core apples and cut into eights. Cut eights into thin slices crosswise. Mix all dry ingredients in a small bowl, pour over apples, turning until each slice is covered with dry mixture. Put into pie shell, dot with butter. Cover with tsp. cheese, sealing well on edges. Bake 10 minutes in hot oven 425 F. Reduce heat to 325 F. and bake until done, about 45 minutes.

The plain pastry used includes:
½ cup sugar, ½ tsp. salt, ½ cup lard or other shortening, 1 Tbsp. butter (if desired), 4 or 5 Tbsp. cold water or milk.

Make A Barbecue Pit

Looking for a way to turn an ordinary picnic into an extra-special occasion? Then try a barbecue with chicken, or turkey, suggests 4-H clug assistant Marilyn Balstad.

For a backyard barbecue with the family and a few friends as guests, the equipment can be simple with less than five dollars tied up in a few cinder blocks and some wire for a grill. This portable equipment can be easily placed in the trunk of the car and transported to a picnic site away from home.

Constructing the barbecue pit is a good do-it-yourself project for 4-H'ers and other young people. Milo Swanson, associate professor of poultry husbandry at the University of Minnesota, says cinder blocks, 6 inches x 8 inches x 16 inches are ideal for building a barbecue pit of any size. They are merely stacked in courses without being cemented together. Avoid using cement blocks, Swanson cautions, for they are heavy to transport and are subject to cracking from heat.

Here are Swenson's directions for constructing the pit:

For a family size barbecue, 18 blocks will make a pit large enough to accomodate 10 chicken halves. Select a level site and stack the blocks 2 blocks wide, 2 blocks long and 3 high. This will provide a cooking area enclosed on three sides. The grill for this pit can simply be a 2 foot x 3 foot piece of 1 inch x 1 inch x 2 inch welded wire supported by three 2 foot welding rods.

Charcoal briquets are the most convenient and satisfactory fuel for barbecuing poultry, giving a great deal of heat with little or no smoke. For a family size pit, from 10 to 20 pounds of charcoal will be necessary.

To start the fire, pour the briquets from the bag into a pile, then soak lightly with kerosene and light with a piece of burning paper. When the flames have disappeared and the briquets are burning, as evidence by small white spots on their surface, distribute the briquets evenly over the bottom of the pit so they are no more than one layer deep. A garden rake is convenient for this purpose. Allow time for the odor of the kerosene to disappear before placing the birds on the pit—about 15 to 20 minutes from the time the fire is first lighted.

Keep Your Coffee Pot Clean

If you've had occasional trouble with bitter-tasting coffee, it may be due to the oils that remain in the coffee maker after it has been washed. Even though you wash your coffee maker after each use with a synthetic detergent, you will find that over a period of time a brown coffee stain develops. To remove the stain a non-precipitating water-softener such as calgon or phosphotex, may be used. Use 1 tsp. water softener per pot of water, and let this mixture go through the complete coffee-making process.

Bishop of Berlin to Speak in State

Dr. Dibelius to Speak in Minneapolis Aug. 20

Communist East Germany's favorite target for attack and West Germany's symbol of faith, the Rt. Rev. Otto Dibelius, Bishop of Berlin, will be the main speaker at a public event of the Lutheran World Federation's International Assembly being held in Minneapolis, August 15-25.

The courageous Bishop is also a president of the World Council of Churches and chairman of the Council of Evangelical Churches in Germany. He is coming to Minneapolis to speak on "Our Mission to Those in Need" at 8 p.m. August 20 in the Auditorium. Other speakers from Jordan, Canada, Holland and Venezuela will be on the evening's program.

For the past few years and particularly the past few months, Bishop Dibelius has been bitterly attacked by East German leaders as a pro-NATO (i. e. pro-war) politician and an "old hand at preaching fire and murder, glorifying war and blessing arms as in 1914 and 1933," according to Communist newspaper propaganda. Posters of his face superimposed on an atomic bomb are seen throughout East Berlin. Two-thirds of the Bishop's diocese lies in East Germany.

The Bishop's uncompromising stand for justice and right for the churches in the East has won the respect and admiration of churchmen throughout the world.

Farm Bureaus in State Hold Butter Cookie Contests

Final Winners Will be Announced at State Convention Nov. 18-20

"More than 30,000 dozen butter cookies have been baked in the first phase of the state butter cookie contest", Mrs. Lewis Minion, chairman of the Farm Bureau women's committee, stated after checking on the first 37 county reports. She went on to state, "The statewide butter cookie contest is sponsored by Farm Bureau Women to promote greater interest and use of surplus dairy and farm products, especially butter and eggs.

"Previously, the women had promoted doughnuts, butter cakes and custard pie contests. Other states, including Wisconsin, South Dakota, Kansas and Virginia have followed the lead of the Minnesota ladies of putting surplus foods into use rather than storage."

So far 66 counties have established the date for their county contests, or have had them already. It is expected that 10 more counties will report contest dates later.

Starting at unit or community levels, the winner of each community group competes in a county contest. Such winners then take part in the seven district contests to select the finalists for the state contest to be held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Minnesota Farm Bureau November 18-20. Cash prizes totalling hundreds of dollars are awaiting the state finalists.

The final district contest will be held on Aug. 7th in Montevideo, in the Little Theatre. Districts 1 to 9 will have chosen their winners prior to Aug. 7th.

4H Clubs Sharing in 2 Citizenship, Safety Contests

Club Members Compete Nationally for $400 College Scholarships

Two 4-H Club activities in full swing throughout the state will benefit many families and bring honors to club members as well. They are the national 4-H Safety and Citizenship program arranged by the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work.

Popular with 4-H'ers, participation in the programs enables them to help themselves, their parents and neighbors. Furthermore, they have a good chance to earn well deserved rewards for doing an outstanding job. Records are judged by the state extension service, which conducts the programs.

In safety there are county, state and national awards. To each of the eight national winners will go a $400 scholarship to be used at any accredited college or university. The 1957 state winner will be a delegate to the five-day national 4-H Club Congress in Chicago with all expenses paid. General Motors is donor of these and other awards in the safety program.

Among the many phases of the activity are those which pertain to some of the more hazardous aspects of rural life such as farm machinery, animals, automobiles, swimming and firearms. Under the direction of local 4-H leaders, members also conduct campaigns to correct unsafe conditions in the community.

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the citizenship program, and all awards will again be given in honor of Thos. E. Wilson, pioneer sustainer of 4-H work. National awards are $400 college scholarships for the highest ranking boy and girl, and the best in the state will each receive a laudatory certificate of honor.

Results of the week's games:

Winger, 4, at Thief River Falls, 10.
Red Lake Falls, 6, at Erskine, 8.
Bagley, 5, at Fosston, 0.
Thief River Falls, 10, at Red Lake Falls, 4.
Winger, 0, at Fosston, 8.
Erskine, 7, at Bagley, 4.

This Week's Schedule:
Wednesday, July 24th—
Fosston at Thief River Falls.
Red Lake Falls at Bagley.
Winger at Erskine
Sunday, July 28th—
Thief River Falls at Bagley.
Fosston at Erskine.
Red Lake Falls at Winger.

The week's play in the Northern Minny league circuit was featured by the surge of the Erskine Merchants. The Merchants, bolstered by the presence of Clark (Corky) Johnson, scored a pair of victories during the week, defeating Red Lake Falls on Wednesday night, and then, by a 7 to 4 score, upsetting the league-leading Bagley team at Bagley on Sunday. Erskine is in a solid fourth position in the league standings, and they are threatening Fosston's third place spot. The two teams are slated to play at Erskine next Sunday night.

The Bagley Merchants, although in first place by two games over the runner-up Thieves, aren't the "cinch" to win the league championship that they appeared to be last week. The Merchants took a pair of defeats this past week, losing to Fosston on Wednesday night in addition to their loss to Erskine on Sunday. Bagley has only a one game advantage over the Thieves in the important loss column.

"Chee-chee" Came with Instructions

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Nichols now have a Dachshund named "Maxie"; a parakeet "Pete" and a crazy little monkey named "Chee-chee." It all happened three weeks ago when the Nichols' received a letter saying: "Your monkey is arriving from Tarpon Springs, Florida . . . be sure he gets a well balanced diet and don't forget his bubble bath."

Ward Nichols Family Is Host to Pet Monkey

Three weeks ago Mr. and Mrs. Ward Nichols and their young daughter Barby were a little ahead of most people in the pet department. They had, at that time, a long, low Dachshund named "Maxie" and a colorful parakeet "Pete."

Well, anything can happen to a family in three weeks. And it did. Presently they are not only way ahead of most families in the pet department; but have, in all probability chalked up a first for this part of the country.

They now have added a third member to their household menagerie . . . a fuzzy, crazy little monkey named "Chee-chee".

It all happened three weeks ago when Mr. Nichols received a letter with instructions for taking care of his monkey which was on the way via express from Tarpon Springs Zoo, Tarpon Springs Florida. The instructions stated: Be sure he gets a well-balanced diet . . . and don't forget his bubble bath.

And arrive it did, the next day, complete with cage and more instructions. Young Barby thought it was a birthday present; Mrs. Nichols refuses to say what she thought at the time; and Mr. Nichols, well, he proceeded to make the little bewildered travel weary fella right at home.

Oh, it wasn't an easy adjustment to make. At first Mrs. Nichols had to put on a pair of heavy gloves before she would pick up the squirrel sized animal. And the poor monkey, he had dietary troubles.

Well, that was three weeks ago. Now the family agrees that watching "Chee-chee" go through his acrobatic routine before and after meals is more fun than watching television. As for "Chee-chee" he appears to have completely adjusted himself to the routine of family life.

When it comes to eating "Chee-chee" favors fruits to other foods and considers nuts to be a real treat.

A very sophisticated sort of monkey, "Chee-chee" gets a bubble-bath every three days.

What kind of monkey is "Chee-chee?" Mr. Nichols has been doing a little research on monkeys and their habitat and has decided that "Chee-chee" is a Galogos, or bush baby, a relative of the lemur family found in Africa.

When asked what they plan on doing with the monkey, the family agreed that it would be a little hard to part with "Chee-chee."

Although it was sent to the family as a publicity stunt to help Mr. Nichols promote the movie "Monkey On My Back", it looks like "Chee-chee" will be around long after the movie completes its coming run at the local theatre.

TRF Legion Jrs. to Enter 9th District Tournament

With righthander Bob Hallameck hurling a four-hit twelve-strikeout game, and with Dave Berg and Tony Wald each clubbing out three hits, coach Joey Poole's local American Legion junior baseball team won the sub-district tournament that was concluded here on Friday evening when they defeated Stephen, 9 to 2. By their successful defense of their sub-district title, the local juniors gained a place in the 9th district junior baseball tournament that will be held at Barnesville on Saturday and Sunday, July 27th and 28th.

In first round sub-district tournament games played here on Thursday, Stephen, by an 8 to 2 score, eliminated East Grand Forks, while the locals defeated Hallock, 8 to 5. The local juniors experienced several anxious moments before they were able to subdue the Hallock juniors.

Coach Poole's club, picking up five runs in the 2nd inning and adding a run in the 3rd inning, held a 6 to 0 lead entering the last half of the 3rd inning. Bob Hallameck, who had started for the locals and who had retired the first six men to face him, was replaced by righthander Harlie Drees. The measure was taken to "save" Hallameck for the tournament finals.

Drees, who was troubled by a sore elbow, had difficulty with his control, and before Hallameck could be called back to "put out the rally," Hallock had scored five runs, and were back in the game again. Except for a minor uprising in the 7th inning, when Hallock got a scratch hit and a pair of walks, Hallameck was in control and preserved the win for the locals.

In the tournament finals on Friday evening, Stephen, on a looping single by Paul Rasmussen, a ground-rule double by Bob Thompson, and a pair of wild pitches, took a 2 to 0 lead in the top of the 1st inning. The locals, on a walk, a pair of errors, and a wild pitch, evened the score at 2-all in the last half of the 1st frame.

With two men out in the 3rd inning, Keith Johnson drew a walk, stole second, and scored on Berg's single to center. Wald followed with a single, and when Hallameck shot a single into left field, Berg and Wald tallied to give the locals a 5 to 2 lead.

The locals picked up a pair of runs in the 4th inning, with Berg poling out a double to drive starting pitcher Rasmussen off the mound. Coach Poole's team added single runs in the 5th and 6th innings.

City Golf League Play Continues

There was quite a scrambling of the standings in the city golf league as a result of Wednesday evening's play. Russ Embury's Hardware Mutual quartet — Embury, Bill Watzke, Arnie Lee, and Irwin Mickelson posted the low net team total, a fine 136. The individual scoring of team was as follows: Mickelson, 49-31; Embury, 45-37; Watzke, 40-35; and Lee, 44-33.

Moving into the runner-up spot in the standings was the Soo Line team of John Moum, Harry Ellefson, Ted Hellie, and Roger Nygaard. The squad posted a 137-stroke net total, to trail the league-leaders by two points in the team standings. The Soo Liners scoring had Nygaard with a 44-31, Hellie a 42-34, Ellefson a 42-35, and Moum a 42-37.

The evening's low net score honors were won by Mickelson, with his 49-31, and Nygaard, with his 44-31. Stan Larson of the Brooks Cheese team had the low gross score, a 31.

The erstwhile league leaders, the Piggly Wiggly, posted a creditable 147 total, but they dropped to fourth place in the league standings.

Bridgemans Team Loses to Bjorkman's Thursday

City Softball League

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Bridgeman's	8	2	.800
Len's Tire Service	7	2	.777
Bjorkman's	6	4	.600
T & S Implement	3	6	.333
Cliff's Food Market	2	7	.222
Holsum Bread	1	8	.111

Results of the Week's Games:

Bjorkman's, 14, vs. Cliff's Market, 8.
Bridgeman's, 7, vs. T & S Impl., 4.
Len's Tires, 17, vs. Holsum, 3.
Bjorkman's, 5, vs. Bridgeman's, 2.

July 22, Cliff's Market vs. Holsum Bread.
July 23, Len's Tires vs. T & S Impl.
July 24, Team four vs. team one.
July 25, Team three vs. team two.

The city softball schedule, for 1957, will come to a close on Tuesday evening, July 23rd, with the Len's Tire Service team meeting the T & S Implement team.

The first round league playoff games are slated to begin on Wednesday evening, July 24th, but there is a possibility that the T & S and the Cliff's Market teams will be deadlocked for fourth place. In that event, a fourth-place playoff game will be played on Wednesday evening, and the first round playoff games set back a day on the schedule.

A fourth-place tie could develop if the Cliff's Market team defeats the Holsum Bread on Monday evening, and the Len's Tires defeats the T & S Implement on Tuesday evening.

The week's highlight, of course, was the tilt on Thursday night between the league-leading Bridgemans' and the Bjorkman's, and which was won by the Bjorkman's, by a 5 to 2 score. What was surprising about the Bjorkman's triumph over the newly-crowned city league champions, was the fact that they defeated Bob Carlsons' team without the services of their ace righthander, Milt Peterson, who is vacationing. Del Schobb handled the pitching duties for manager Lowell Collins' club in fine style, giving up but five hits. The Bjorkman's, meanwhile, were touching Carlsons' five-and-dime assortment for six hits.

The key to safety is you.

Gene Says Farewell

Gene Sack, the Thieves' player-manager, and the Prowlers' assistant hockey coach, is busy these days saying farewell to his many friends. And in the short year that he has been here, Gene and his family have made a host of friends.

On August 1st, Gene is to begin his new duties at Bineide high school in St. Louis Park. Bineide is a new all-boy Catholic high school, operated under the supervision of the Christian Brothers, will have an enrollment of 600 this coming school year. That number is expected to reach the 1100 mark next year. Gene, in addition to class-work, will be head coach in baseball and hockey, and assistant coach in football.

In the two seasons that Gene has been catching for the Thieves in the senior baseball Northern League, he has won recognition as one of the best receivers to perform for a local club. And that means that Gene is included in the group consisting of Dutch Haufmeister, Pete Morse, Louie Benson, and Herman Bauer.

Bauer, of course, was tremendous, and it's perhaps unfair to list him as a former Thieves' catcher, for he played here only a few times, being sent over here from the Grand Forks Chiefs on a "loan" arrangement. Bauer was moving up to the major leagues, being with the St. Paul Saints, when World War II interrupted and ended his career. Herman, an older brother of the New York Yankees' Hank Bauer, was killed in action while serving with an armored division in northern France.

The First Shall be Fourth

What a falling off was here. Referring to drop first place to fourth place of the Piggly Wiggly golf team. It's doubtful if all the king's horses and all the king's men can put the Piggly Wiggly together again.

For a couple of weeks they were sitting on top of the league standings, but at the close of Wednesday evening's play, even though they posted a creditable 147 total, the Piggly Wiggly found themselves in fourth place.

We hear that Otis Wold of the Piggly Wiggly claims that a couple of his team members are still out on the course somewhere, and when they come in the score may be different. When last seen, on Friday, these two golfers were in Glen Jorde's oats field north of number six fairway.

Voyageurs

The office dictionary defines the term "voyageur" as being "an intrepid boatman and trapper usually playing Canadian waters." By that description and by their varied experiences, the Prichards, Phil and Jarvis and dad Bill, are Lake of the Woods voyageurs.

Before this boating season concludes, the Prichards will have a bookful of experiences, and they are contemplating writing a book, titled "The Lake and Us," narrating their trials and tribulations.

For instance, last Sunday Jarvis was fishing in the vicinity of the Three Sisters island, in Canadian waters. He had an Ontario license, so he was within his rights fishing "across the line." He noted a boat approaching, and exclaimed, "Look! Here comes Snort Langseth." Like fun it was Snort Langseth! It was an Ontario game warden.

He investigated Jarvis' boat and discovered a minnow bucket containing eight minnows. Minnows which Jarvis had purchased on the American side. It's contrary to Ontario law to bring live minnows from the American side to the Ontario side. Court was held, and Jarvis was fined sixteen dollars.

And two weeks ago the boys had quite a time with the fire-flies. With Phil and Mr. Prichard in one boat, and Jarvis and Roy Oen in another boat, the quartet left Wheeler's Point at 10:00 P.M. on a moonless Saturday night, with the destination being the Prichards' cabin on Magnussen's island.

They cleared the Oak Point light and headed out across Big Traverse, and they picked up the Hooper's Point light on Bigsby island and were on course. They took a bearing to the westwards from the Hooper's light, with the intention of picking up the Driftwood Point light across the lake on Northwest Angle. They cruised out into the lake, and as they attempted to pick up the Driftwood Point light they were mis-led by countless fire-flies that were blinking. Soon the boys were going in circles. And when they attempted to navigate by compass and flashlight, the flashlight failed.

What to do? At one point they were so far to the west that they could notice the glow in the sky from the baseball park lights at Warroad. They decided that discretion was the better part of valor, so they followed the Hooper's Point light, which they had kept in view all the time, to Bigsby Island. And there they anchored until four o'clock the next morning, when daylight began to arrive and they could see to navigate.

Those fire-flies!

L. Shetler Heads TRF Racing Assn.

Other Officers Elected at Meeting Last Tuesday

At their weekly meeting last Tuesday night, members of the newly organized Thief River Falls Racing Association elected officers.

The local association is a chartered member of the Northwest Racing Association.

Officers elected were: Larry Shetler, president; Allan Torkelson, secretary; Bud Manning, treasurer and chairman of the safety committee. Official flagman for the Thief River Speedway will be Bud Mercier.

The association reports that work on the new quarter-mile track is progressing rapidly. Trial races and practice runs will probably start in about two weeks.

By making a few simple changes in the way they prepare air-dropped mines, Navy crews can now be sure 95 per cent will blow up enemy ships. The new procedures were developed by the scientists at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, Silver Spring, Md.

Thieves Win Sunday 10-4 over R. L. Falls

The Lakers took liberties with Sid Vraa's two-base ball on Sunday night, clubbing out five doubles, but the Thieves' rangy righthander had his strikeout ball working as he whiffed fifteen batsmen to pitch the locals to a 10 to 4 win over Red Lake Falls in a Northern Minny league tilt played at Red Lake Falls.

The Thieves, by their victory, continue to hold second place by a one-half game margin over Fosston. Fosston will meet the Thieves on the Fair Grounds diamond on Wednesday night, and the runner-up spot will be at stake.

Sunday's night game at Red Lake Falls found the Thieves and the Lakers opening up with three-run 1st inning outbursts. Three walks, plus singles by Glen Carlson and Joey Poole accounted for the Thieves' cluster. The Lakers ripped back with a looping double by Bozo Emard, a walk to Ron LaChance, a single by Howie Johnston, and a double by Dale Perusse to tally three runs.

The Thieves "insured" the game with a six-run flurry in the 4th inning. Carlson opened with a double, Curly Gasperlin was hit in the ribs by a pitched ball, Joey Poole lined a double into right-center, scoring Carlson and Gasperlin. And when Mickey Hanson drew a walk, manager Jack Poole of the Lakers called in Dale Perusse, a southpaw, from first base to replace righthander Church Kankel. Sid Vraa sacrificed, moving Poole and Hanson to third and second respectively. Ross Sloan singled through shortstop, the ball taking a squirting bounce past Ron LaChance, scoring Poole and Hanson. Duane Glass singled, plating Sloan, and Gene Sack doubled to left, scoring Glass with the inning's sixth run, and giving to Thieves a 9 to 3 lead.

Except for the 4th inning, when a single by Perusse and a double by Mike Newland scored a run, Vraa held the Lakers in check. In three of the innings, the 5th, 7th, and 9th, Vraa retired the side via the whiff route. In addition to showing off his strikeout pitch, Vraa exhibited exceptional control, doling out but two walks.

Oen's Appliance	3	3	0	6
The Times	3	3	0	6

Results of the July 11th Shoot:

Northern Chevrolet, 122, vs. Wilson Bros., 119.
The Pharmacy, 124, vs. Oen's Appliance, 121.
The Times, 121, vs. Johnson Bros., 97

The schedule, July 25th:

Wilson Bros. vs. Oen's Appliance
Northern Chevrolet vs. The Times
The Pharmacy vs. Johnson Bros.

Roy Jorgenson's Northern Chevrolet team moved into a two-match lead in the trap shoot league standings when, on July 11th, they defeated the defending champion Wilson Bros., 122 to 119. The Chevy's can afford to drop one of the three matches they have remaining on the schedule and still retain a claim to the league title.

In last week's "crucial" match against the Wilson's, four "25's" were chalked up by the Northern Chevrolet. Frank Rinkel had a 20-7, Jorgenson a 21-4, Howie Brandt a 22-4, and Walt Jung a 24-5. For the losers, Sandy Wilson had a 23-3 and Fred Mittelstadt had a 19-6 to post "25's."

The Times, with Bob Mattson shooting a perfect twenty-five, and with Clarence Mattson having a "25" on a 23-3 score, defeated the short-handed Johnson Bros., 121 to 97. Gordon Johnson, with a 20-8, and Walt Fisher with a 22-8, had "25's" for the Johnsons.

The Pharmacy squad appears to be starting on its bid for the upper rungs in the standings for, with Ole Ekeren, a 19-7, Stan Ranum, a 23-6, Russ Embury, a 21-4, and Dr. Milt Starekow, a 20-6, the druggists defeated Oen's, 124 to 121. It marked the second successive win for the Pharmacy. Oen's received "25's" from Mel Hyland, with a 23-2, and Orvis Olen, with a 19-7.

Warm Weather in Area Continues

Mercury Readings Late Last Week Ranged up to 85

Grab the ice-cold beverage and head for the shade . . . it looks like the weather man is dishing out another hot one.

Today's weather menu offers little change, with a high between 75 and 85 and a low of 55 to 65, and large helpings of sunshine.

Tomorrow it's the same old "hot dish" . . . only served a little bit hotter.

Looking over the week-end weather, it looks like a "cold dish" would be a welcome treat. Temperature from Thursday to Sunday ranged between 74 to 85 with Saturday and Sunday lows of 55. Last recorded precipitation on Wednesday of last week was .52 inch.

Attracted by the ideal summer weather, crowds of near record proportions gathered in Tindolph park Sunday, with many others visiting Riverside park.

Analysis of Traffic Accidents in State Recorded During '56

Last year the people of Minnesota traveled a total of 12 billion miles on rural and urban roads throughout the state.

According to the Minnesota department of highways' records 55,434 traffic accidents were reported in the state of Minnesota in 1956. Broken down a bit, that's one accident reported every nine and one-half minutes.

In terms of dollars and cents it means these accidents cost the people in the state $76,000,680. Or, more than 25 dollars for every man, woman and child in the state.

And in terms of human suffering and death it means 22,821 injured and 639 killed in 545 accidents.

How did these accidents occur?

One-car accidents were responsible for the greatest number of deaths on Minnesota highways. And almost one-fifth of the victims were pedestrians. Fifty-three of the pedestrians killed were 65 or older.

Where did these accidents occur?

The largest number of accidents, involving personal injury happened in cities (13,190 injured; 145 killed) while the larger number of fatal accidents occured on rural roads.

The fact that 492 or more than three-fourths of the accident deaths occur on rural roads where cars are likely to be traveling faster would seem to indicate that speed is a factor in highway deaths.

Accidents are fairly well divided between the daylight and darkness with the dangerous dawn and dusk period accounting for only 21 of the 545 fatal accidents analyzed.

Who were the people killed? Four hundred and seventy-nine were males and 158 were females. In other words, three-quarters of fatalities were males. It is possible that this wide discrepency between the sexes is caused by the fact that men are exposed to accidents more often because there are more men drivers.

A look at the age of the victims shows that age is not a great factor in determining who will be killed on the highway. One hundred and forty-nine people were killed in the first twenty years of their lives.

One hundred and fifty-six victims were 20 to 35 years old; 152 victims were 35 through 54 years old; 155 were 55 through 74 years old and 36 were seventy or older.

Who were the drivers?

These appear to be the most informative of all the statistics. Six hundred and ninety-four of the drivers were men while only 62 were women. The largest number of drivers involved in fatal accidents are in the 15 through 24 year age group. Although this group makes up only 17 percent of the drivers it is responsible for 37½ percent of the fatal drivers.

Sixty-five percent of all drivers involved in fatal accidents last year had no previous accident on record and 58 percent had no previous accident.

Another factor to consider.

In three-fourths of the fatal accidents the road condition cannot be held accountable inasmuch as it is dry and clear. In 116, or less than one-fourth of the fatal accidents, could the wet or icy road surface be considered a contributing factor in the accident.

After reading the above statistics it may appear that the Minnesota highway problem is discouraging. However, the death rate per hundred million miles in Minnesota is considerably lower than the national average. And, during the first six months of 1957, the death rate per hundred million miles was lower than the annual rate for any of the past 10 years. Today, Minnesotans are driving farther on more crowded highways at higher speeds with less accidents.

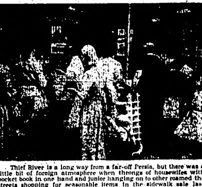
In Persian Bazaar — American Style



Thief River is a long way from a far-off Persia, but there was a little bit of foreign atmosphere when throngs of housewifes with pocket book in one hand and junior hanging on to other roamed the streets shopping for seasonable items in the sidewalk sale last Friday for two hours. More than 35 stores cooperated in the two day sale.

As Mothers Shopped, Kids Talked . . .

It looked like everybody was having a good time last Friday at the sidewalk sale. A typical scene was that of small groups of small-fry huddled together discussing the "marginal utility" of their last five or ten cent purchase.

This group of frugal shoppers were talking over the situation in front of the Ben Franklin store. And where was mother . . . gone shopp'in.

Iron Mines Plan for Open House Aug. 13-15

The iron ore mining industry of Minnesota today announced plans for a special celebration August 13, 14, and 15 in commemoration of the golden anniversary of beneficiation in the state.

Highlights of the celebration will be industry-wide employee and public open houses on the Mesabi and Cuyuna ranges and a dedication ceremony followed by a commemoratives banquet.

The three-day industry-wide observance will get under way on the afternoon of August 13, when a natural stone monument will be dedicated at Coleraine to pay tribute to the early pioneers of beneficiation who proved that Minnesota's low grade ores could be improved successfully.

The first experimental plant was put into operation by U. S. Steel's Oliver Iron Mining Division on the shores of Trout Lake at Coleraine in 1907.

The dedication will take place in Longyear Park near the site of the orginial experimental plant, after which Oliver will be host to approximately 400 state and local leaders at a banquet in Coleraine's new Scofield Memorial Building.

Wednesday, August 14, has been set aside as employee open house day at practically every beneficiation plant throughout the state so that mining company employees will have the opportunity to show their families where they work.

Another feature of the observance to recall the beginning of beneficiation will be public open houses on August 15 to allow every Minnesotan to see the modern, ever changing facilities that will continue beneficiation as a basic and growing industry here for many years to come.

Twenty-two beneficiation plants operated by major companies on the Mesabi and Cuyuna ranges will open their doors to visitors. Everyone is invited to attend—men, women and children—although children under the age of 15 must be accompanied by an adult.

The mining companies participating are: Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company, Haley-Young Company, M. A. Hanna Company, Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, W. S. Moore Company, Oliver Iron Mining Division, Pacific Isle Mining Company, Picklands Mather & Company, Rhude & Fryberger and Snyder Mining Company.

Special routes of travel will be laid out to permit visitors to see the various processes that are currently utilized to treat Minnesota's low grade ores. Present day operations will be a far cry from the first experimental plant begun at Trout Lake in 1907.

Although tremendous sums of money already have been spent to develop beneficiation plants, vast additional investments must be made to improve Minnesota ores to meet the growing demands for better ores by the steelmakers.

State Historical Society Will Be Open Saturdays

For the first time since June, 1953, the Minnesota Historical Society will be open to the public on week ends, Russell W. Fridley, society director, announced that the 1957 session of the state legislature provided funds for this purpose during the next two years as part of the statehood centennial celebration.

The new schedule began on Saturday, July 13. On Saturdays, the historical building, including the reference library and museum, will open at 9:30 a.m. and close at 5 p.m. On Sundays, beginning July 14, the museum only will be open to the public between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. The building will be closed on holidays.

No changes have been made in the weekday schedule, when the hours will remain 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Disturbing to Routine

Commenting on the movement that has made considerable progress in the United States to adopt the hundredweight as the standard of measurement of grain instead of the bushel, the Ottawa Citizen reports that the idea is meeting with favorable reaction in Canada. It observes:

> "There seems general agreement that the advantages of this change would be lasting while the disadvantages would disappear after a period of adjustment. This is no doubt true of many changes designed to bring about an improvement of some kind. The difficulty is to persuade those affected to face the temporary period of inconvenience."

Too often changes that would bring permanent improvement are rejected because they would result in temporary inconvenience. Temporary inconvenience is the only excuse for not adopting the metric system of measurements in its entirety. Our present hodgepodge of weights and measures is as unworkable as would be the Roman system of numerals in modern accounting.

Armed Forces Cut

Our armed forces personnel will be reduced by 100,000 during the next six months. The total number now serving in the various branches of our fighting services is estimated at 2,789,642. Reducing this total by 100,000 should not be a crippling blow to our defense system, and it is estimated that this cut will mean a saving of $200 million.

We venture to guess that several more cuts of this size could be made without injury to the defense organization. A lot more fat could be removed without injury to the muscles. And that is true, we are sure for most of the other branches of our government, federal, state and local.

Just One More Drink

Retired secretary of the Treasury Humphrey convinced the Senate finance committee that the administration's tight money policy is a necessary part of its program to hold the line against inflation. The tight money policy, meaning higher interest rates, is intended to discourage borrowing and thus reduce spending.

This kind of medicine is unpleasant to take, but inflation is getting out of hand. The dollar is now worth less than half of what its buying power was 18 years ago, and it is losing value fast. The interest earned by a government bond bought ten years ago is not enough to offset the loss in buying power of that bond. The finance committee was convinced that drastic action is justified.

Such understanding action by a committee of Congress would do much to restore confidence in the integrity of our government if it were not for conflicting actions by other government groups and agencies.

President Eisenhower himself is not above reproach in this respect. While one branch of the government was deciding in favor of the administration's tight money policy the President himself was signing a bill that will encourage home building by making an additional $1.7 billion available through the housing administration with smaller down payments. This is definitely inflationary.

Another discouraging contradiction to the hold-the-line policy was last week's action by a House civil service committee voting an 11 percent wage increase for government employees, following favorable action on a bill increasing the wages for postal workers 12½ percent. At least one more swing around the inflation spiral now seems inevitable.

We'll take one more swig out of the bottle and then no more of this reaching for a stimulant every time we get a little touch of the shakes. Just one more drink, that's all.

That's what we have been saying and doing right along and it looks like that is what we are going to keep on doing.

The next drink is always going to be the last one. And with each additional drink the sobering up process is going to be just that much tougher.

Three Independent Branches

(A. J. Suel In New Prague Times)

Several recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court have drawn sharp criticism in the press and on the public forum and there are even rumblings in the Congress over whether or not the high court may be usurping legislative functions.

Further developments and the passage of time will tell whether or not these criticisms are tenable.

This government of ours consists of three separate branches,—judicial, administrative and legislative,—each independent of the others and each decisive in its own field.

Rightfully and properly in the public welfare, each branch of the government is jealous of its own jurisdiction and resists any real or fancied encroachment of its powers or functions.

While such consciousness of public responsibility continues, all is well. 'Twould be only in the event that one branch of federal government would submit to becoming subservient to another that there would be cause for alarm.

Too Much Leisure

(W. E. Barnes In Sleepy Eye Herald Dispatch)

"One of great needs in combatting juvenile delinquency," says John H. Elligston, professor of criminal law administration at the University of Minnesota, " is a great increase in leisure time activities. For many children that means part time and summer jobs."

Elligston points out that household chores have practically disappeared, especially for boys. They are deprived of those jobs which two or three generations ago gave them a feeling of being part of the family, of contributing to its welfare.

In many communities leisure time is idle time. In others, an attempt is made for supervised play. But play all the time becomes monotonous. From sheer boredom and for the opportunity to test something different some young people drift into pursuits which lead them into difficulty with the law.

When leisure time comes after a period of work, it is enjoyed. In itself it provides variety and opportunity for pleasant activities.

Laws covering minors have been established to discourage work on their part. The purpose was to eliminate the sweatshops of old, the abuse to which some children were subject.

That they have done. Unfortunately, they have gone beyond their original purpose. Now they keep young people from productive employment.

A lad 15 can get a license to drive a high-powered automobile on the highway. If he is inclined to be reckless he endangers himself, his passengers and every motorist he meets. The same lad doesn't dare take a job in a shop or store where he would operate a machine which isn't any more likely to harm him than a door slammed on his finger.

The use of aircraft in direct support of ground units by the Marine Corps was employed for the first time in combat July 16, 1927, when a flight of six bombing planes strafed and bombed a force of 500 bandits who successfully attacked a small Marine garrison at Octal, Nicaragua.

Civil Rights

A new era of progress in the protection of human rights is dawning for our country. It now appears certain that the present Congress will enact a meaningful civil rights bill, the first real action by Congress in this field since 1870. For those of us who have fought steadfastly toward such goals down through the years, it is a gratifying experience to at least have a majority working together for a common purpose. Instead of having to plead our case as a minority in the Senate, we advocates of effective civil rights protection now hold a solid majority determined to compel action despite prolonged debate that may continue for many weeks to come. The decision of the Republican minority leadership in the Senate to at long last join with the "hard core" of liberal Democrats who have consistently battled for favorable action on civil rights legislation has given us the majority we needed. We are standing firm even though it may require breaking a filibuster to win our fight. I am now convinced we are going to have a good bill passed not later than the first of September.

What Is In Bill

The bill now being debated, after having passed the House, contains language in many cases identical with that in major civil rights bills which I have introduced in the Senate at the beginning of each Congress since 1949. The present measure would permit us to take three major steps forward for the protection of minority groups.

1. Protection of the basic right to vote, by giving the Department of Justice authority to intervene, in the name of the United States, in behalf of individuals in instances of actual or threatened violations of civil rights.

2. Provision of board investigating powers through the creation of a Federal Civil Rights Commission with supoena powers.

3. A new emphasis on civil rights within the Department of Justice through the establishment of a special Civil Rights Division.

Next On Agenda

There is serious intent on the part of our Democratic leadership in the Senate to pass several other important pieces of liberal legislation before adjournment—even if it takes several extra weeks of hard work in the hot Washington autumn. I am glad to report that a bill almost certainly will be passed which, although it will not amount to a major revision of existing immigration laws, would take care of some of the most urgent reforms needed. I am supporting legislation, for example, to pool unused quotas to ameliorate the harsh effect of the national-origins principle; to restore professors to eligibility for nonquota status if a university requests their services and to permit admittance of certain skilled professionals such as doctors and nurses and their families without assignment to a quota; to grant adopted children the same immigration status enjoyed by natural children; to provide for classifying all visa applicants only according to their place of birth, abolishing the racial ancestry blood test; to provide proper appeal procedure for visa applicants; and to confirm the authority of the President to parole escapees from Communism or racial, religious, or political oppression into this country.

Its success is measured by how much it can save its customers . . . and how much service it gives.

Those who own it want it that way . . . because they are the customers.

This is the co-operative way of doing business. The co-operative is organized by customers to fill a particular need. They control its operation and determine what types of goods and services the co-operative shall provide.

There is no other way of doing business where management is more responsive and accountable to the people it serves.

There are many kinds of co-operatives . . . organized to meet many different needs. But the principles remain the same . . . and not the least important is customer ownership and control.

A traveling salesman was Harry G. Blowe,
Who could sell ice cubes to an eskimo,
But he fell for a line slicker than his,
From a new car salesman—wow! what a whiz!

The car had style—years out of date,
The features were new—back in '48!
Harry's still smiling, the tears hardly show,
But how he wishes he could get back his dough!

Moral: Don't get "bargain-talked" into yesterday's styling and features!

Like a lot of people, Harry was looking for a "good buy" in a new car. But no car is a bargain if it's outmoded before you drive it a mile. For the same money, Harry could have stepped up to a dashing Swept-Wing Dodge—so new it actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Obsoletes their high, boxy design with the low, low look of tomorrow. Obsoletes their old-fashioned features with such advances as Torsion-Aire Ride, Push-Button TorqueFlite and Total-Contact Brakes. So don't do what Harry did—please. See your Dodge dealer today.

Plan for State Aid Streets, City Outline

Engineer Stewart Says Plan Calls for 5½ Miles of Street

The city's street development program was the subject of discussion at the Rotary Club meeting Monday noon, city engineer D. R. Stewart being the main answer man of the question and answer session.

Stewart reported on the probable system of state-aid streets that is being established. He estimated the state contribution toward the improvement and maintenance of this system at $5 per capita or a total of about $35,000 for the first year. Included in this system will be all of the streets in the business section not part of the trunk highway system, First st. from the bridge to T.H. 59, and from Main to Arnold; Fourth st., and Atlantic and Davis avenues and a portion of Arnold.

There will be about 5½ miles of streets in this system, he said. These streets, with the trunk highways, carry the bulk of the heavy traffic and he predicted that a schedule of load limits will be adopted to protect other streets from heavily loaded trucks.

This system has been recommended by a citizen's advisory committee which has also approved a formula for the distribution of costs of street improvements. Under this plan the city will pay all of the costs of intersections and alleys. Stewart estimated this at nearly one-third of the total.

Street surfacing in the residence areas will be of a higher standard than in recent years, he said. A heavier base will be required, which will make possible a more permanent surface. This will cost more when the improvement is made but will be much cheaper over a period of years, he maintained.

Adequate drainage will be an essential part of any future street improvement program, and an adequate system of storm sewers will gradually be provided.

24 Lincoln Graduates of Class of '32 Attend Silver Anniversary

The 25th anniversary reunion of the 1932 graduating class of Lincoln high school was held on Saturday evening at the Rex Cafe with 45 persons in attendance.

Registration began at 6 o'clock followed by a get-acquainted hour, with the reunion banquet set for 7:00 p.m.

The banquet table was set in a T-shape and decorated with the class colors, maroon and gold. A bouquet of American Beauty roses (the class flower) centered the head table while bowls of roses and gold-colored candles carried out the motif for the length of the table.

Toastmaster for the occasion was Lester Iblo. Preceding the banquet, a prayer was given by Vicki Edberg Dahlen, a former faculty member, after which Bert Mosleth, vice president of the class welcomed the guests.

Group singing followed the dinner after which Verna Brandon Noper gave a short resume of absent classmates and read greetings sent by absentees and former teachers.

Twenty-four out of the total 105 class members attended the reunion, while six who made reservations were unable to attend. Four former faculty members were present also and gave brief greeting to the group.

The classmates introduced themselves, their husbands or wives and offered brief synopses of what their activities had been since 1932. This proved to be the most interesting feature of the evening.

President Verna Noper presided over a brief business meeting, with the group deciding to hold another reunion again in 5 years, and to retain the present group of officers. A class picture was taken, followed by dancing at the Elks clubrooms. A Dutch lunch at midnight brought the evening to a successful conclusion.

The following out-of-town attended: Regna Asbjornson of Chisholm, Ferne Peterson Nygaard of Strawberry Lake, Adeline Lindberg Miller of Pullman, Washington; Dr. William Kavanaugh of St. Paul; Walter Wilkins of Grand Forks, N. D.; Vernice Priebe Hawkinson of St. Hilaire, Evelyn Grindeland Helgeson of Seattle, Washington, Dorothy Johnson Anderson of St. Paul, Francis Stitt of Grand Rapids, and Evelyn Samuelson Peterson of Plummer.

Woolen Garment Making Contest Starts in State

Mrs. Clifford Nelson is Director of Contest for Pennington County

"Minnesota business firms are rallying to support the Make-it-yourself-with-wool contest being sponsored by the Minnesota Farm Bureau and Minnesota Wool Growers association", announced Mrs. Clifford Nelson, county contest director. "The Amluxen Company of Minneapolis has decided to award a gift certificate for all wool fabric to the first place district winners in the contest's homemaker division. Other prizes of woolen blankets, stoles and jackets are being contributed by the Faribault, Litchfield, Cambridge and Bemidji Woolen Mills", she added.

This contest is part of a national effort to stimulate a greater interest in the use of wool. Minnesota ranks 13th in the nation in wool production and it is estimated that more than 25,000 farms in the state have sheep on them. The United States government has declared wool to be a strategic commodity, second in importance only to food and ammunition. It is hoped that through this contest, the consumers will see the advantages of using wool and in so doing, will help this segment of American agriculture.

Valuable prizes are being offered for the best garments made. In order to include as many women and girls as possible, four categories have been created: Sub-deb division for girls 13 to 15; junior division for girls 14 to 17; senior division for girls 18 to 22; and homemaker division for women over 22 years of age. The senior winner will be crowned Miss Bo Peep of the Golden Fleece at the final style review to be held on November 18th in Dayton's Skyroom in Minneapolis.

The contest closes on the 1st of October, 1957. Mrs. Clifford Nelson is the local contest director and can furnish further details.

2 Teen-agers Hurt in Crash in Holt Area

Alan Christenson Driver of Car That Struck Parked Auto

Two young boys were injured about 8 p.m., Saturday when their vehicle was involved in a 3-car accident 6 miles northeast of Holt on CAR 43. The mishap occurred 1 mile east of the Ringbo corner where Arne Rantanen of Middle River was killed in a truck-bus accident early this year.

Injured were 14-year-old Alan Christenson of Holt, driver of a car which struck a parked auto, and Ronald Lannoye of Big Lake, a passenger in the car. Both received head cuts and were treated in Thief River Falls.

Christenson was driving a 1947 Ford which belonged to his father, Rudy Christenson, when it struck a 1950 Chevrolet parked on the south edge of the road facing east and owned by Mrs. Emma Swenson. The Christenson auto spun on the road and remained on its wheels after being struck by a 1955 Buick owned by Hjalmer Lofstrom of Newfolden and driven by his son Delmar Lofstrom.

Mrs. Swenson's car, which was empty at the time of the collision, was knocked into the right-hand ditch. Total damage to the three vehicles involved is expected to be about $1,000. The Christenson boy was charged with driving without a driver's license when the sheriff's office investigated the mishap.

Replacing The Legendary Party Line

Jack Middaugh, engineer with American Telephone and Telegraph, checks over a battery and repeater installation with field technicians of Bell Telephone, Wayne Hines and Bob Collins. The new "P-1" carrier type system will provide better static-free service to 100 subscribers in the rural districts of Thief River Falls.

County Rural Areas to Be Served by New Transistor Phones

It looks like the "old fashioned party line", a legendary part of rural life, will soon be replaced by a modern up-to-date telephone system in parts of Pennington county.

According to officals of the Bell Telephone system an estimated 100 subscribers in the Germantown-Carpenters' Corners regions will soon be serviced by a new transistor type "P-1" carrier telephone system.

The new "P-1" system will provide more privacy and insure static-free, clear transmission.

The new system will also be easier on the nerves. Parties will now have only one other ring on an eight party line instead of the present eight rings. And individuals on the line will be isolated; that is, only one or two other parties will be on the same circuit.

Al Donahue, member of that technical staff, and Jock Middaugh, engineer, with the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., reported Tuesday, that the new system will be operating in two weeks.

The system was introduced by Northwestern Bell Telephone engineers to meet the increased demand for phone service at no additional cost to subscribers. By using the existing lines, the added cost of stringing new telephone wires and installing new poles has been eliminated.

This is the first carrier type repeater system in the state of Minnesota and one of four in the nation. The "P-1" system is the first all transistor transmission system developed by Bell telephone.

Basically the system consists of small, white "repeater and battery charging boxes" posted at three or five mile intervals; To amplify the voice and provide auxiliary power; insulated glass "transpositioners" to reduce noise; standard transformers to change the high voltage to a 21 volt D.C. working voltage and key terminal boxes to convert frequencies.

The system operates on the same principal as radio transmission. Using "super-audio" frequencies between 12 and 96 kilo cycles each telephone operates as a radio broadcast set-up. The mouthpiece of the phone functions as a microphone and the earpiece becomes the speaker. The regular voice frequency is changed into a higher transmission frequency at the main terminal box and then relayed, via the wires, to the central office in Thief River Falls. There it is again converted into a voice frequency and transmitted to the party called. Calling from town-to-country, the process is reversed.

A simple process, made possible by transistors and printed circuits, not only will it provide better, static-free service, but it makes maintenance procedure faster and less complicated. In the event of a break-down, the complicated trouble shooting method of tracing wires is reduced to the process of replac-

Webworms Eating Canadian Thistle

Kill Crop of Weeds on the Glen Jorde Farm

A species of webworm that has a fondness for the succulent Canadian thistle has recently infested a patch of the weed on the Glen Jorde farm just north of the golf course, County Agent Paul Steimaschuk reported today.

The worms, which have effectively killed this year's crop of thistles, eat only succulent plants, and not grains and grasses, but also eat most garden crops.

Steimaschuk stated that when fully grown the webworms are about an inch long, green and black caterpillers. The moths, light brown in color, lay the eggs on lambsquarters and pigweeds. Two generations of webworms may be produced in one year.

The webworms may be confused with the armyworm since they migrate in swarms when the infestation is heavy. Since they travel in a straight line many webworms commit suicide by crawling straight into streams.

The beet webworm species has infested some sugar beet acreage in the Grand Forks Crookston area and spraying with DDT is being done to control them.

$185,000 Issue of Bonds Sold at 4.3266 Pct.

Power Plant Revenue Bonds Purchased by Minneapolis Group

Reflecting current high interest rates, an issue of $185,000 electric power plant revenue bonds was sold by the city council at a meeting Tuesday evening at a net interest cost of 4.3266 per cent, the highest in a long period of years.

The bonds, which will be retired serially over a period of 20 years thru 1977, were sold to a syndicate headed by Allison-Williams Co., and including J. M. Dain and Co. and Piper, Jaffray and Hopwood, all of Minneapolis. Another Twin Cities syndicate offered a net interest rate of 4.534 per cent.

The successful bid specifies a coupon rate of 3.80 per cent of maturities from 1960 to 1965; 4.00 per cent from 1966 to 1969; and 4.40 per cent from 1970 to 1977; in addition to an extra coupon of 1.2 per cent for the period January 1, 1958, to January 1, 1959. The total interest cost on the issue was fixed at $90,210.

A. J. Hauser of T.G. Evenson and Associates, Minneapolis bond consultants, who was present to assist with the sale, expressed his opinion that the bid accepted was satisfactory in view of the current market. He reported that many issues of municipal and school bonds have been sold recently at rates well in excess of four per cent.

The steady rise in interest rates is revealed in the fact that the last issue of electric revenue bonds was sold in 1955 at a net rate of 2.764 per cent, while in 1952 a similar issue was sold at a net rate of 1.968 per cent.

The proceeds of Tuesday's bond sale will be used to finance the installation of new switch gear equipment for five generating units in the power plant and other equipment, as well as the construction of an addition to the power plant building.

In other business at Tuesday's session, the council approved a building permit to the Northern Woodwork Co. covering construction of a $15,000 addition to the plant. Norris Melander and Eugene Nesland, local accountants, were present at the meeting to confer with the council relative to proposed changes in the city's bookkeeping system.

Former Crookston Teacher Swindled

Annie McCarthy Loses $2,990 In Minneapolis

A former Crookston school teacher who had read about "Pigeon drop" con games became a victim herself Monday in Minneapolis losing a $2,990 inheritance to two swindlers.

Annie McCarthy, about 50, said she was approached by a plump woman in a nurse's uniform. The stranger said that a friend had just found a large sum of money.

They met the "friend," who left to seek her boss's advice on what to do with the money. She returned to say the boss advised keeping it, but to give $1,000 to the other two women. Miss McCarthy was asked to show $3,000 in good faith money. She withdrew her inheritance from the bank. With the help of the "nurse," she tied it up in a handkerchief.

The three were to meet later, but only Miss McCarthy kept the rendezvous. After an hour's wait, she took the handkerchief to the bank to re-deposit the money. She discovered the handkerchief contained only $10.

Report on Sandhill Drainage District Reviewed Wednesday

Col Rohde and his staff of U. S. Engineers from St. Paul held a final conference in this city Wednesday with members of the Sandhill drainage and conservancy district to review the Sandhill River flood control project before final acceptance by the district board.

Sitting in on the conference in an advisory capacity was District Judge Paul Lundgren. The district was represented by La W. Rullen, Thief River Falls attorney.

The Sandhill River channel project was begun two years ago as a joint project with the U. S. engineers and the board of directors of the Sandhill drainage and conservancy district.

The project was completed at an estimated total cost of $900,000, of which the federal government contributed 50 percent.

The drainage system will serve the entire Sandhill river basin and includes Polk, Norman and Mahnomen counties.

Upon the conclusion of the conference with the district board, the U. S. engineers met with the board of directors of the Red Lake drainage and conservancy district which includes the entire watershed of the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers.

The men discussed the steps to be taken for the improvement of the channels of the Ruffy Brook and Lost River tributaries to the Clearwater River. Assurance was given to the board that in all probability the improvement project on these channels would meet with congressional approval.

In a preliminary survey made by the U. S. Engineers to Congress, it has been reported to have been approved as a feasible undertaking. Judge Lundgren said the improvement project, when authorized by Congress, will be a cooperative venture between the Red Lake drainage district and the U. S. Corps of Engineers, wherein the drainage district will be responsible for the local contributions as required by the congressional appropriation.

The U. S. Engineers will assume responsibility for the actual construction. Upon completion, the project will be turned over to the district and they will assume the responsibility for the future maintenance and upkeep of the system.

2 Traffic Deaths in County in Six Months

Despite an increase of 74 traffic deaths in Minnesota during the first six months of 1957 over the same period of 1956, 27 counties reduced their highway fatalities for the period ending June 30. Seventeen counties showed no change and held the line with the same number for the same two six-month periods. The increase of 74 deaths resulted from increases in fatalities in the remaining 43 of the state's 87 counties.

The comparative totals were taken from a six months' tabulation of highway fatality records by counties, as compiled by the Safety division of the state Highway department.

Of the 19 counties which were fatality free so far in 1957, three had no traffic deaths during all of 1956. They are Cook, Kanabec and Lake of the Woods counties. Cook and Lake of the Woods counties were fatality-free during 1955 as well. Winona county with one death compared with six during the 1956 six months period showed the greatest gain in the saving of lives.

The accompanying map shows that Pennington county was among those which showed a poorer record for 1957, compared with 1956. Deaths within the county were two, compared to no traffic fatalities of the previous year. Marshall county deaths rose from none in 1956 to three this year.

246 Arrests Made in June for Game & Fish Violations

June arrests for game and fish violations totaled 246, with fines amounting to $4,433, reports James A. Lee, assistant to director of game and fish.

Fishing violations headed the list with 219 arrests. Transporting loaded or uncased firearms in automobiles resulted in seven arrests. Big game violations also appeared in this past month's report, indicating that wardens are on the watch for so-called "off-season" violations.

The period April through June saw 891 arrests made for fish and game violations. As expected, 738 arrests involved infractions of the fishing laws.

In spite of repeated warnings about loaded firearms in vehicles, 62 arrests for this offense were made during the three month period.

Four Cases Heard by Judge Chommie

St. Hilaire Man Is Fined $100 for Drunken Driving

A light session of municipal court was held Monday before Judge H. O. Chommie but most cases pending have been delayed until the return of Mrs. Patricia Thompson, court clerk, who was on vacation this week.

Only two cases brought in by city police were heard. They were Erick Kratz, St. Hilaire, who pleaded guilty of driving under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 plus $5 costs or 60 days; and Greg Barnum, city, who pleaded guilty to driving after his license was suspended and was sentenced to 5 days in jail and his driver's license suspended 60 days. The jail sentence was suspended.

Sheriff Charles Richards brought three Mexicans before Chommie on assault charges growing out of a fight at Kulseth's pavilion recently. Augustine and Andres Bustinza of Brownsville, and Jesse Aguilar, San Antonio, Tex. all pleaded guilty and were each fined $10 plus $9.30 costs.

Lawrence W. Perkins, city, was brought before the court by the highway patrol on a charge of speeding and he pleaded guilty drawing a $10 fine plus $4 costs or 10 days.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

I would like to write a few words about the disaster meeting that was held in Oklee. In my opinion that meeting didn't solve anything—just made our blood pressure go higher.

The speakers seemed to make one thing clear, that the laws were on the books to help the farmers. But they all pointed to and blamed one man for the failure of these laws, and that was Mr. Benson.

Let me ask one question. What kind of men and women do we elect to Congress if one man can tell them what to do. In my opinion this is just plain political bunk.

If Congress has the power to investigate other branches of the government then they must have the power to find out what's wrong in this department. They have the power to see to it that the laws they pass are properly administered.

Either the laws themselves are wrong or our representatives in Congress are just as irresponsible and of the same calibre as the ones appointed to administer them.

Engval Christofferson,
Oklee, Minnesota.

Editor Times:

How long are we, the citizens of this city, going to take all these distorted truths that are published in the Times by our city government?

It is bad enough to have all these mosquitos torturing our small fry and not have any way to get rid of these pests. But when the city government has these items printed in the local paper for us to read, trying to pacify us into believing such rot, it has been harder to take these mosquito pests.

When one sees lies printed in our home paper saying they are spraying the whole city and the alleys and back streets, we living out here within the city limits surely must defend our rights. We out here know there was one spraying and that was a poor excuse of a job. I have talked to a lot of other reliable people who say that no fogging has been done at their places either, and most of them reside in the better residential sections, and some doctors among them.

What do you members of the council think you are doing? Are you trying to pull the wool over our eyes?

I was told that the wheel that squeaks the loudest gets the grease. Well, I am squeaking, and would like some results.

I could have gotten many names signed to this and made a petition out of it, for I am just a little doubtful that it will ever see printer's ink.

Mrs. C. A. Jenson.

Editor Times:

I believe it should be of interest to the sheriffs and game wardens of Polk and Pennington counties to check on some of the trigger-happy motorists who travel on this (Gully?) road. After all, we are taxpayers so should be entitled to some kind of protection against these moving killers as there is too much shooting going on.

Two years ago our dog was shot in our driveway at 2:00 o'clock in the night, and last week our angora cat was shot. I hope something will be done about this at once.

Egg Grading Law

Recently a group of interested people met in Thief River Falls to examine the new egg grading law. The new law in Minnesota is a help to both egg producers and consumers.

It protects the farmer who sells good eggs by making sure he is paid on the basis of "quality delivered." The law also assures the producer that the eggs will receive good care after they leave his hands.

For the consumer, the law assures good quality eggs sold under proper conditions.

Important provisions of the law are that all eggs bought for resale must be bought on grade, that all eggs sold at retail must be sold on grade and that all eggs must be kept at temperatures no higher than 60 degrees, both by the wholesaler buyer and in the retail store.

Grades are A, B, and C. At retail markets grade A eggs are graded as large, medium, small and jumbo.

Eggs sold in Minnesota are equally edible; selling inedible eggs is unlawful. Grade means quality. Grade A eggs are best for breakfast or for freezing, and grade B eggs are recommended for baking.

Most grade C eggs in Minnesota are used in the processing industry and aren't sold in retail stores.

Grass Pastures

With plenty of fertilizer and good management, permanent grass can make top-notch pastures for cattle or sheep.

Pasture fertilizer demonstrations around the state prove this. In last year's trials, it was found that fertilizing grass pastures with 100 pounds of nitrogen, 60 pounds of phosphate and 60 pounds of potash resulted in 4,333 pounds of milk per acre from the dairy cattle that grazed the area.

Cows on unfertilized but otherwise similar pastures produced only 2,00 pounds per acre. These cows received no feed other than pasture. Also, there were 233 "cow-days per acre" on fertilized pastures, compared to only 101 on unfertilized acres.

Figuring milk at local prices, the increase in milk yield resulted in a net return over fertilizer cost of $66 per acre.

Fertilizing the grass pastures resulted both in more forage and more feed value. The protein content of the non-fertilized area averaged 14.3 percent, compared to 21.1 percent on the fertilized pasture.

This year similar tests are being conducted at the North Central Exeperiment Station, Grand Rapids, and on individual farms in Carlton, Itasca, St. Louis, Aitkin, Scott, Brown, Winona, and Mille Lacs counties.

Ornamentals

Iris can be transplanted this month. After the blossoms have died and the foliage is beginning to show signs of age, Iris can be either transplanted to a new site or divided, as the gardner sees fit. Careful inspection should be made to see that no diseased roots are transplanted. Transplant into a good rich fertile soil and apply a complete fertilizer at the rate of 2 pounds to 100 square feet. Cover the iris roots with about one inch of soil.

Careful garden grooming this month will add much to the pleasure of the gardener. Careful edging, watering, removal of dead flowers and control of lawn weeds are essential.

Many other perennials can be transplanted late this month. The peony, oriental poppies, bleeding heart can be transplanted. Tulips can be dug up as well as all other hardy Bulbs, and can be stored until the autumn season when they will be planted again. This is equally important if the gardener wishes to rejuvinate the soil this summer.

Watch for thrip injury on the gladiolus. Thirp can be controlled by regular spray with DDT or malathion.

Perennial seeds can be started this month. Plant seeds of Canterbuy bell, English daisy, forget-me-not, hollyhocks, sweet william and many others in sterilized flats of soil and cover with moist newspaper until they have germinated. The seedlings can be transplanted into the garden in a protected location.

D-ball Playoffs to Start Tonight

Bridgeman's Play T & S Implement Team at 6 p. m.

The first round games in the city softball league playoffs are scheduled for this evening on the East Side diamond. At 6:00 P. M., the league champion Bridgeman's will meet the fourth place T & S Implement team. And following this game, the Bjorkman's team will meet the Len's Tire Service team.

The two winners will then enter the best-of-three championship series which will be played next week.

In the league windup games this week, the Cliff's Market team scored an 8 to 6 win over the Holsum Bread on Monday evening. On Tuesday evening, the Lens' Tire team edged out the T & S team, 11 to 10. The victory for Cliff's on Monday, and the loss to the T & S on Tuesday, forced a fourth place playoff game between the Cliff's Market and the T & S squad. This game was held on Wednesday night, and the T & S scored a 10 to 8 win.

inning, and each team left twelve men stranded.

The Thieves piled up a four-run cluster in the 3rd inning, with Stan Otness walking Frank Gunderman and Gene Sack, following which Joey Poole homered over the Eagles' sign in right-center. A walk to Bob Hallameck, a passed ball, a wild pitch, and Vraa's infield out accounted for the fourth run of the inning.

Fosston, with two runs in the 4th, and four runs in the 5th, moved into a 6 to 4 lead. A pair of walks and a single by Glen Whaley tallied the two runs in the 4th, and some loose defensive play by the Thieves' outfield, plus three bingles, gave Fosston four runs in the 5th, Darryl Foster leading off for Fosston in the 5th, poled a home run over the left-field fence.

Three runs in the 6th, and a four-run outburst in the 7th provided the locals with their game-winning margin.

Fosston scrambled back into the game with a run in the 7th, and added three runs, on a triple, a double, a walk, and a single, in the 8th inning.

In the 9th, Vraa struck out Whaley and Al Olson, Don Otness gained second base on an outfielder's muff, but the ever-dangerous Foster was Vraa's 16th strikeout victim to end the game.

South St. Paul Livestock Market Report — Monday

The percentage of slaughter steers and heifers in today's run showed a seasonal drop, as cows made up fully 40 percent of the receipts. Along with the decline in steers and heifers numerically there was also a falling off of quality, very few cattle being offered that graded higher than average-Choice. In the cow class Canners and Cutters again made up a generous percentage of offerings. Less than 5 percent of supplies consisted of stocker and feeder classes. The slight reduction in 12 market receipts caused sellers locally to try for improved prices on slaughter steers and heifers. The result was only a slow moving trade as buyers in general were intent on buying cattle at last week's closing levels. It was a generally steady trade on steers and heifers, the only strength that did develop being confined to Choice grade kinds. Cows showed considerable unevenness. A few sales at the outset were strong to 50c higher than last week's low close, but this improvement was quickly erased and the general trade was no better than steady. Bulls and vealers were mostly steady, although high-Choice and Prime vealers did record an advance on $1.00. Stocker and feeder classes showed no change.

STEERS AND HEIFERS: Several loads average-Choice steers cleared at $24.25-25.00, some at the outside price weighing around 1,200 lbs. There was a load of average to high-Choice 1,218-lb. weights at $25.50, while high-Choice 1,200 lbs. offerings sold at $26.00. Most Good and Choice steers and yearlings brought $21.50-24.00. Loadlots average-Choice heifers at $23.50 included 848, 851, 881 and 927 lb. weights. Good and Choice heifers bulked at $21.00-23.00. A range of $17.00-20.00 included sales of Standard steers and heifers, while Canner, Cutter and Utility grades cashed at $12.00-16.00.

COWS: A load of mixed Commercial and Standard cows weighing 1,218 lbs. realized $16.50. Scattered sales Commercial cows were made at $15.50-16.00, while Utility grade bulked at $14.00-15.00. Canners and Cutters ranged from $11.00-13.50, the $13.50 price for Cutters being paid fairly freely on early rounds. There were shelly Canners down to $10.00.

BULLS: In this class there were some weighty Utility offerings at $18.50, most Cutter and Utility bulls going at 16.00-18.00. Commercial and Good cleared at $16.00-17.50 with Canners at $13-15.00.

VEALERS AND CALVES: Some high-Choice and Prime vealers reached $25.00, bulk Good and Choice going at $20-$24.00. Sales of Standard grade were general at $16.00-19.00. Cull and Utility making $11.00-15.00.

STOCKER AND FEEDER CATTLE AND CALVES: A load of Choice 890-lb. feeder steers brought $23.00 and some 800 as well as 875 lb. weights cashed at $22.50. Medium and Good stockers sold mostly in small lots at $17-21.00, while Common grade realized $11.00-16.00. There was a package of Good stock calves of vealer weights, mixed steers and heifers, at $22.00.

U. S. Savings Bonds have been sold since March 1, 1935. The investing public called them "baby bonds" until the E bond was introduced as the Defense Savings Bond in May 1, 1941. Today over $38 billion in series E and H Savings Bonds are owned by around 45 million individuals in this country.

9th District Legion Jr. Tourney Saturday

The Ninth District American Legion junior baseball tournament that opens at Barnesville on Saturday afternoon will be a repeat performance of the tourney held last year at Fertile, for the four competing teams — Thief River Falls, Fertile, Moorhead, and Fergus Falls — were also participants in last year's tourney, which was held at Fertile and won by Chuck Johnson's Fertile club.

On Saturday afternoon, with play ball time at 3:00 P. M., coach Joey Poole's Thief River Falls juniors will meet the defending district champion Fertile club. At 8:00 P. M. on Saturday, the highly-rated Moorhead juniors will meet the Fergus Falls juniors.

The district championship game has been scheduled for 8:00 P. M. on Sunday.

Coach Poole stated that righthander Bob Hallameck, who was instrumental in giving the locals their subdistrict wins over Hallock and Stephen, will be given to pitching assignment against Fertile.

Thieves Edge Fosston Here by 11-10 Tally

Free-hitting Game Played Wednesday on Local Diamond

In a game of rally and counter-rally, and which was not concluded until 11:30 p.m., the Thieves defeated Fosston, 11 to 10, in a free-scoring Northern Minny league game played on the Fair Grounds diamond on Wednesday night.

The game was late in getting started, due to a mix-up in announcing a postponement. A local club official had called off the game, but had neglected to notify the Fosston club. When Fosston made an appearance at 7:00 p.m., and with the field in playable condition, a hurry-up call was made for the local players, and finally nine players were on hand and the game was started at 8:45.

The game was an arm-wearying affair for the two pitchers, Stan Otness of Fosston and Sid Vraa of the Thieves. Otness doled out ten walks, uncorked five wild pitches, and struck out eight batters; while Vraa issued nine walks, flung one wild pitch, and whiffed sixten batters. As a result of the eighteen bases on balls that were issued, and the eighteen hits that were bashed out, the two teams had runners on base in every

Legion Jrs. Enter District Play at Barnesville

The local American Legion junior baseball team, winners of the sub-district title by reason of their 9 to 2 triumph over the Stephen juniors here Friday evening, will enter the 9th district tournament at Barnesville on Saturday and Sunday, July 27th and 28th.

The Fertile juniors, by virtue of their 13 to 2 win over Bagley at Erskine on Monday night, gained a berth in the district tournament and will meet the Thief River Falls juniors in a first round game on Saturday afternoon.

The local team, in district conference play, was undefeated, but in inter-district games, against such teams as Fertile, Bemidji, and Grand Forks, N. Dak., coach Poole's club absorbed losses.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Muscles, Inc.

The senior baseball Thieves, as they conclude their regular schedule and prepare for the Northern Minny league playoffs, will be hurting greatly in their player personnel as player-coach Gene Sack and clean-up hitter Bob Helgeland remove themselves from the local lineup.

Sack will be leaving next week for St. Louis Park, where he will assume his new duties at Benilde high school. And as of last Sunday, Bob was out of action, having left town to take a job with IBM in Rochester.

Taking those two players out of the lineup, the number three and number four batters in the Thieves' normal batting order, will make quite a dent in the run-producing potential of the club. And, of course, the absence of Sack, the league's best catcher, will do nothing but harm to the Thieves' defensive strength.

But to get back to Bob Helgeland, the youngster who can easily incorporate himself as "Muscles, Inc." Well, during the past couple of weeks, and the last two games in which he played in particular, Helge was tremendous at the plate. Against the Erskine Merchants, a week ago, he walloped a pair of home runs, one of which was a conversation piece, so far was it hit. And in a game against Winger, played here last Wednesday, he rammed a homer into the light-tower in left-field.

That Bobby can hit those long-range isn't surprising when you take a look at his fore-arms and wrist-action. He takes a "big league" cut at the ball, and it's not a bit strange that he hits a "big league" home run now and then. Bob is what is termed a perfect physical specimen, for the youngster, standing five feet, eleven inches in height, weighs a solid, and we mean solid, 195 pounds. In his physique, he's comparable to the New York Yankees' Mickey Mantle.

Sorry to see you go, Bob.

Bob has been attending the University of North Dakota, where he is a hockey letterman, but whether he will return to school for his final year and a half is dependent upon the prospects of his job with IBM. We would like to see Bob complete his college education.

Fresh Air And Scenery

Roy and Kay Oen surely gained an abundance of fresh air and enjoyed a great amount of scenery as they made a one day boating cruise to Kenora on Saturday.

They left Gene Moore's dock at Wheeler's Point on the Rainy river at 8:30 a.m. in a sixteen foot boat powered by a pair of 35-horse outboard motors. After making a routine stop at the customs at Cyclone Island, and a stop or two to try their fishing luck, they were in Kenora in time for lunch. They shopped at Kenora for a short while, and then made the return trip, via a different route, back to Wheeler's Point, arriving back in time for supper.

The round-trip adds up to a distance of about 190 to 200 miles.

It's True

Last Thursday evening the Bridgeman's softball team suffered their first defeat of the season, losing by a 5 to 2 score to Lowell Collins' Bjorkman's team. The game was the last of the league schedule for the Bridgeman's, and it shattered Bob Carlson's hopes for an undefeated season.

It's possible that the defeat, and the manner in which it was administered, will "shake" the Bridgeman's as they enter the league playoffs this evening. They have been proven vulnerable.

"Oh somewhere in this favored land the sun is shining bright;
The band is playing somewhere, and somewhere hearts are light,
And somewhere men are laughing, and little children shout;
But there is no joy in Mudville—
The mighty Casey has struck out."

Substitue Bridgeman's for Mudville, and Carlson for Casey, and this verse from "Casey at the Bat" describes the feelings of the Bridgeman's following last Thursday evening's tilt.

They're Ready

Of the four teams that have apparently won Northern Minny league playoff berths—Bagley, Thief River Falls, Fosston, and Erskine—the Erskine Merchants appear to be the most ready to make the serious bid for the playoff title.

The Merchants made a valuable addition to their roster when they signed Bemidji's Clark (Corky) Johnson to an Erskine contract. Corky, who is one of the finest, if not the finest, all-around athletes to come out of Bemidji high school (being an all-state selection in basketball and baseball), had been playing ball at Edina. But when his employment, or rather lack of employment, forced him to return to Bemidji, the Erskine officials were quick to offer him a job at Erskine.

In the two games that he has "worked" for the Merchants, he has pitched Erskine to an 8 to 6 win over Red Lake Falls, and a 7 to 4 triumph over Bagley. And, too, Corky's presence in the Erskine lineup gives the Merchants a double-barreled battery. Lyle Westrum, who does the receiving, can also take a turn on the mound, while Corky, who has been pitching, is a first-class catcher. Yes, Erskine is ready.

Express Haulers Strike Ends, Says A. W. Dahl, Agent

Railway Express Agency is again operating fully throughout the nation and all embargoes on rail and air express shipments have been lifted, it was announced here by A. W. Dahl local agent.

The strike of nearly 2,000 vehicle employees at seven major cities and certain adjacent points, which began April 22, has been settled and employees are back at work at those points. Involved were Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Newark, Philadelphia, St. Louis and San Francisco and points adjacent to some of those cities. As a result of the strike, shipments to and from 900 communities had been embargoed.

Shippers and receivers here once again are linked directly by the one-carrier express service with all of the some 23,000 communities served in the nation.

Sell $12 Million State Road Bonds

New York Bank Purchases Issue at 2.894 Pct. Rate

The First National City Bank of New York city was the successful low bidder on $12 million of Minnesota state trunk highway bonds on the basis of its offer of 2.9 per cent with a $7,188 premium. This brought the rate to 2.894 per cent. The bonds will mature in 13 years. Six bids were submitted, ranging from the First National's 2.9 per cent to 3.1.

Seven million dollars of the new issue is for the purchase of needed trunk highway right of way, including interstate routes, and will be retired from the state trunk highway fund. The bond money for right of way will be expended on a revolving basis to accelerate purchase of needed right of way in anticipation of the receipt of federal aid.

The remaining $5 million will be for bridge construction. The 1955 state legislature authorized a five per cent motor vehicle surtax to pay off the bridge bonds.

The 2.9 per cent rate was described as "excellent," State Auditor Stafford King declaring that "The way the market has been going anything under 3¼ per cent is good."

Many Cheaters on Fish Licenses at Lake Minnetonka

Game wardens teamed up over the July 4th weekend to conduct intensive license checks on Lake Minnetonka. A report on this operation was given today to Director James W. Kimball by Chief Warden Francis W. Johnson, showing that nearly 60 arrests were made. Ninety per cent of these arrests involved license infractions. Failure to buy a license were a few of the license violations encountered.

Game warden Jerry Liemandt, of Excelsior who coordinated the activities said, "The type of violations we ran into indicates the amount of cheating that is going on as regards licenses. Every time someone cheats on buying a license it represents a loss of revenue to the game and fish division. In addition, it takes unfair advantage of the lawabiding angler who buys a proper license and thus helps the department sustain the sport of fishing."

Game and fish officials indicated that more intensive license checks were in the offering, with some areas scheduled for repeated checks at all hours of the day or night.

ONE IDEA OF GOD

At the entrance to the valley where they buried their kings an ancient and industrious people carved the Sphinx.

This was their idea of God: the body of a lion, suggesting power . . . the face of a man, suggesting personality . . . the whole amazing image suggesting their belief in a MIGHTY deity who could be KNOWN.

Today, in our churches, we worship God as Jesus Christ revealed Him: almighty but merciful . . . knowing and eager to be known . . . loving man and seeking man's love . . . saving all who believe in their Saviour—His Son!

Can the ancient Sphinx have any significance for men and women like ourselves who have before us the Gospel and example of Christ?

Only this: As long as it remains, the awesome Sphinx will remind us of man's search for God. Just as our own church bells remind us of our opportunity to know, love, and serve Him!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

RHUBARB AS HIGH AS AN ELEPHANT'S EYE

We're indebted to Mora Times for that catchy headline about rhubarb with 32-inch stalk and 24-inch leaf, for a 56-inch stand; and challengers? A Worthington gardner produced a stalk of asparagus 15 inches long and nearly 10 inches around . . . While the driver made a delivery disturbing them, the driver simply drove away; in an hour or so the bees were all back at their starting point . . . Polaris Industries, Roseau, were glad to get a big truck back into operation after a brood of robins hatched . . . A Mankato duck really spread herself to produce 21 ducklings from a setting of 28 eggs . . . A careless Red Wing hen laid an egg in a sitting duck nest, now the Harold Hansons have a sea-going chicken.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the
Minnesota Historical Society

Minnesota's Climate

Minnesotans sweltering in the summer heat will be amused to hear that a hundred years ago most Americans thought Minnesota was perpetually covered with ice and snow. In the 1850s Minnesota was almost an unknown wilderness. Its newspapers devoted a lot of space to trying to convince Easterners that Minnesota was a fine place to settle, that it was possible to raise good crops here, and that settlers did not suffer from frost-bitten ears the whole year round.

Minnesota newspapers pointed out that corn and wheat, beans, peas, and potatoes would thrive in the area. The "Minnesota Pioneer" of August 1, 1885, suggested that Minnesotans experiment and find out what other crops could be grown in the state. Facts of that kind, it declared, would help brnig people to the territory and would "show distinctly to the people of the East that the prevalent impression that this is during nine-tenths of the year a frozen region, is wrong."

Salubrious Minnesota

More than anything else, Minnesota needed settlers in its territorial days, and publicity campaigns were started to tell the world of its "clear, bracing air", "beautiful lands", "mighty resources", and "unqualifiedly healthy climate."

From the beginning, the therapeutic powers of the climate were stressed, and by th late 1850s Minnesota was widely known as a health resort. It was said to be free from malaria, and it was popularly supposed that the cold, dry nothern air effectively cured consumption (tuberculosis). Thousands of sufferers from these diseases either visited or settled permanently in Minnesota.

Among the well-known people who visited Minnesota for reasons of health were Edward Eggleston, author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster"; Henry Thoreau, the New England philosopher and writer; Clara Barton, founder of the Red Cross, who came as a companion for her consumptive nephew. But more important than the visitors were the thousands who became permanent settlers. Many of them were well-educated professional men or skilled craftsmen and their talents were invaluable in the building of the state.

Most of those who were chronic invalids suffering from vague debilities or who were merely "delicate" probably were greatly helped by the active life of the frontier, but the newcomers who really were ill with contagious disorders created a health problem that Minnesota spent many years and millions of dollars to conquer.

Land Sales

On the first day of a land sale at St. Cloud in October, 1880, "an improved farm" was offered. "Every bid brought it up one, two or three cents, until it was knocked down at $2,300 per acre," according to the local newspaper. Since the purchaser had no gold, however, "the farm is still to be sold." The next day the editor said, "80 improved acres were offered but no one bid against the claimant, who bought in."

Rattlesnakes

As early as August 20, 1857, the "Minnesota Republican," reported that two rattlesnakes had been seen at Lake Minnetonka and that a man had been bitten by one at Owatonna.

When the first telegraph line in Minnesota was built from Winona to St. Paul in 1860, its construction was hampered by the number of rattlesnakes in the woods along the Mississippi River. There were so many that the telegraph company had difficulty persuading its men to stay on the job.

Pioneer Woman Journalist

Any list of early women journalists in Minnesota should begin with the name of Mrs. James M. Goodhue. She was the wife of the founder of Minnesota's first newspaper, the "Minnesota Pioneer", which began publication at St. Paul on April 28, 1849. Although Mrs. Goodhue was not formally connected with her husband's paper, she is known to have managed it ably during his absences from the city.

The first woman editor in Minnesota was Jane Grey Swisshelm, who founded the "St. Cloud Visiter" in 1857. She was a dedicated champion of abolition, temperance, and women's rights, and her fearless attacks on opponents of these issues soon earned hed the enmity of powerful men. One of these men hired a gang of thugs to throw her press into the Mississippi River. This act of vandalism did not, however, still the voice of Mrs. Swisshelm. Outraged at the offense against freedom of the press, the citizens of St. Cloud took up a collection to buy Mrs. Swisshelm a new press. In her triumph she became a national celebrity.

To avoid an unjust lawsuit arising out of the affair, Mrs. Swisshelm changed the name of her paper to the "St. Cloud Democrat" and continued to write in her witty and spirited style. She also made several lecture tours. She retired in 1865 and died in 1884.

A lesser known, but very capable, editor was Bella French. She moved from Wisconsin to Brownsville, in Houstin county, in 1860. Although she lived only about ten years in Minnesota, during that time she founded one weekly newspaper, the "Western Progress"; started two magazines, the Busy West" and the "Northwestern Chronotype," which were, unfortunately, financial failures; and published a series of historical and literary volumes called the "American Sketchbooks."

Mrs. French published many poems, short stories, and original articles, and she deserves a place in Minnesota journalism for her encouragement of local writers and for her high literary standards. She died in California in 1893.

Farm Safety Week Stresses Traffic

Traffic Safety Chief Cites Danger in Tractors

A reminder that the emphasis during farm safety week should include an emphasis on traffic as well, was issued today by Harry A. Sieben, state traffic safety director.

"There are two problems that should concern every farmer," Sieben said. "The first is the hazard involved in driving tractors and hauling equipment on the highways. The second concerns farm entrances."

Sieben pointed out that whenever anyone operates tractors or other motorized equipment on the highways he is subject to all of the laws govering other motorists, such as signs, signals and right-of-way. Equipment operated at night must be equipped with white lights in front and red lights visible to the rear.

Many serious accidents have been reported to the state highway department, the director said. Too often, short turns caused tractors to jackknife and overturn. Many driveways have hedges or trees which obstrhct the view onto the highway. Very few driveways have "stop" signs posted and drivers fail to stop before entering highways, causing collisions.

"Farming is one of our most hazardous occupations," Sieben pointed out. "Therefore, the farmer should be our most safety conscious citizen at work and on our highways."

The Times strives to be th· show-window of this comunity.

Drainage Problems

We can't remember any crop year that had a more favorable beginning than the present season, and we know now that no matter how favorable conditions may be from here on in, the average returns for this area are not going to be good. The payoff unfortunately is at the end of the year and not at the beginning.

In a season like this it is especially fortunate that hereabouts we lean heavily on livestock for our cash income. We are fairly well diversified, and while conditions no doubt are going to be difficult for individuals in some instances, the fact that we are highly diversified does much to soften the adverse effects of crop damage to the community as a whole.

Floods have reminded us that we still have drainage problems in this country, and we know from past experiences that these drainage problems will always be with us. It unfortunately is true that in dry years there is a tendency to neglect our drainage systems.

Some of these drainage problems are strictly local, involving only an individual farmer or a few neighbors. Some of them, however, are watershed problems, involving large areas, and we have several of these that are begging for attention. Some of them are controversial, involving conflicting interests, and require cooperation, and in some instance assistance, from government agencies.

From the community standpoint we don't have to worry about the problems that are strictly local, but we should be concerned about the fact that some of our difficult watershed problems have been and are being neglected. Some of them will require long periods of negotiation before there can be any hope for satisfactory solutions, but we have delayed too long in these negotiations already. Such projects require sustained and persistent effort. High time now to make another start.

Union in Europe

When the French National Assembly voted last week in favor of a common market for six western European nations the last important hurdle to the achievement of this objective was cleared according to observers. This common market would in effect create an economic union of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

This agreement would be a revolutionary departure from past policies. Over a period of years the tariff barriers that now discourage trade between these nations would be gradually reduced. Eventually all duties would be discontinued and there would be a free exchange of goods and services among them as there is among the states of our union.

This would be a long step in the direction of a United States of Europe.

While these countries no doubt will have many difficult adjustments to make in a free-trade alliance of this kind, the advantages to all of them should far outweigh the disadvantages.

Our own economic strength as a nation is due largely to the fact that there are no barriers to trade among our 48 states. Under this system we all have enjoyed the benefits of mass production, and production has gravitated naturally to the areas best suited for its particular needs. The European nations are at a big disadvantage in cultural and language differences and the deep rooted prejudices of old rivalries. Remaining together probably will be more difficult than agreeing to join together.

It will be an interesting experiment in government to watch comfortably from the sidelines.

Destroying a Surplus

California trims its peach crop to head off price cuts according to a report from that area. Green fruit will be picked from 16 per cent of the trees. Strict grading and cannery dumping are expected to further reduce the output as the 1957 pack begins. It is predicted that the price line will be held.

There is nothing unusual about this as far as the fruit growers are concerned. Year in and year out they control their marketing, solving their surplus problem by not permitting a surplus to accumulate.

The fruit growers know that they do better by getting a fair price for what they sell, even if that means destroying that portion of their crop for which there is no available market.

Here, in dairyland, we would be getting much better returns if we received a parity price for 90 percent of our production, even if the 10 percent had to go down the drain. That is the program the late John Brandt tried to sell.

Ever See a Tree?

(New York Times)

That mortal bard, Ogden Nash, is author of these immortal lines:

"I think that I shall never see
A billboard lovely as a tree.
Perhaps, unless the billboards fall,
I'll never see a tree at all."

If the billboard lobby and its powerful allies in labor and politics have their way we motorists who in the next few years go cruising along the 41,000 miles of new Federal superhighways aren't likely to see many trees either. Why? Because they'll be hidden behind the wall of billboards and similar excrescences that our representatives in Congress evidently haven't the stamina to resist.

Over six weeks ago a Senate sub-committee reported a billboard control bill for the interstate highway system so watered down that its control features are hardly recognizable.

But it is still better than nothing. Yet Senator Chavez of New Mexico, chairman of the Public Works Committee, has to date not bothered to schedule a meeting to consider it. And the House has done nothing on this matter at all.

Is it possible that the sensibilities of Americans are so dulled that we see nothing wrong in the blight that has grown up along our roadsides and has already destroyed so much of the scenic beauty of our country? Is the power of the signboard industry so entrenched that we cannot even legislate this mild control along new highways, paid for almost entirely from Federal funds? At a press conference three months ago President Eisenhower said: "While I am against these billboards that mar our scenery, I don't know what I can do about it." We'll tell him what he can do: make it clear to his friends in House and Senate that he is neither fooled by the smoke-screen of "states rights" nor daunted by the power of the billboard lobby. He can do much to move this bill.

Sen. Humphrey's Newsletter

20th Century Pioneering

Up the Mississippi a few miles from Minneapolis, a group of pioneering individuals have been trying for two years to put together a combination which would bring Minnesota one of the first atomic power plants in the Western Hemisphere. The Rural Cooperative Power Association at Elk River has now moved into the final stages of its efforts to seek Government approval for a 22,000-kv nuclear generating plant to produce electricity by means of a "boiling water" nuclear reactor. Instead of coal or oil or gas, such a plant will use uranium to heat water, which in turn will produce steam heat to turn the turbines of a conventional electric generator.

Electrical Energy

Elk River's 22,000 kilowatts may seem rather small compared with the 130 million kilowatts capacity of our present American installations. But it is a very important start. The best estimates are that if the United States moves vigorously into a nuclear power program, in 20 years we can have 80 million kilowatts more electrical capacity from nuclear power stations, in addition to those powered by coal, oil, gas, and falling water.

Are We Falling Behind?

Americans are using more and more electricity, as our population grows and demands more energy of all kinds. But many of us believe that we are not moving fast enough into the field of peacetime atomic power. The British and Russians are out in front of us. The British have had commercial nuclear power for almost a year, and plan to have between 2 million and 4 million kilowatts installed by 1965. The Soviet Union, even more ambitious claims it will have between 2 and 2½ million Kilowatts by 1960—all from atomic energy. This more than twice what our present program calls for. And the Russians are experimenting with many different types of power reactor prototypes.

Coal Or Atoms?

The world is using energy at the rate 4 billion tons of coal each year—some derived from coal, some from gas and oil, some from hydroelectric projects. The U.S. alone uses about half of that energy most of it from oil and gas. At the rate oil and gas are being used up, the will come when we will have to turn back to coal—which makes up 90% of all the world's reserves in the fossil fuels. And even with these coal deposits, at the rate energy consumption is going up, we will run out of coal shortly after the year 2,000 A. D. That is why we must turn to nuclear energy. In uranium and thorium we have an energy reserve equal to 25 times the combined known and estimated energy reserves of coal, oil, and natural gas!

Early Action

Congress is pressing the Atomic Energy Commission to move more actively into the nuclear power program, to take more responsibility for the construction of experimental reactors like Elk River's, to assume the risk for any accidents or cost increases. Decisions are being hammered out this week, and I confidently expect AEC approval and final REA approval, with construction of the atomic power plant at Elk River to commence within a few months.

We believe in advertising; you might, too, if you gave it a real trial.

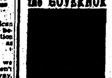
REPORT from the GOVERNOR



by Orville L. Freeman

Two weeks ago I noted in this column my regret at the failure of the state senate to enact the recommendation I made to provide state aid for nursing homes to be built by counties and by non-profit organizations. One reason why such homes are urgently needed can be found in the rising cost to the state of providing medical care under our old age assistance program. Payments for nursing home care account for a high proportion of the cost of that program.

Medical Care For The Ageing

This year the expenditures in Minnesota for medical care under the OAA program will total more than $17,000,000, which is about 40 percent of our total old age assistance payments. Only about ten percent of this $17,000,000 is made up by federal aid. Ninety percent is shared by the state and county governments.

These costs are expected to increase at the rate of about $2,000,000 each year. Thus they are a matter of serious concern to us all. It is essential that we face the problem of how we can most effectively and economically finance this program.

Why The Increase

Expenditures for ordinary living costs under our old age assistance program are going down, because the number of recipients is declining. More people each year who become 65 years of age are covered under the social security program, and because they receive OASI benefits they do not need public assistance for maintenance.

But in too many cases, their income are sufficient only for ordinary living expenses. Therefore, when illness strikes, they become dependent for medical care on outside assistance. Each monthly case load in Minnesota includes payments for about a thousand older people who could be self-supporting if it were not for the additional expense necessitated by ill health.

Adequate Care Essential

Minnesota is one of only a few states that place no ceiling on the amount of medical care expenditures for its ageing. We pay according to need. But is is unthinkable that we would ever consider meeting the problem of costs by imposing a ceiling that would provide less than the needed amount of medical care for our senior citizens. Any solution will have to be found by some other approach.

Approaches To A Solution

Several approaches have been suggested as a solution to the problem, and they should be studied carefully. One I have already mentioned,—the provision of more adequate nursing home facilities. Another approach is now under consideration in Congress,—a suggested amendment to our federal social security program that wold provide for a certain amount for medical care for those receiving OASI benefits.

A really challenging approach to the problem involves the attempt to cut the cost of illness by decreasing the amount of illness suffered. It has already been demonstrated on many occasions that programs for the ageing that provide them with interesting and worth-while activities result in a substantial decrease in illness suffered by those participating. A health care program that emphasizes preventive care and early treatment can also decrease the amount of sickness.

The most appealing factor in this approach is that it is directed toward, not one, but two goals. Success would mean, not only lower costs to the taxpayer, but also—what is really much more important—greater health and happiness and enjoyment of life for the senior citizens involved.

FARM SIZE AND EARNINGS

To have a net income of $4,000 a farm family needs a gross income of $12,000, according to a detailed study made by the University. About 4% of Minnesota's farms harvest between 1 and 9 acres, about the same between 10 and 19, and between 20 and 29 acres; 9% harvest between 30 and 49 acres, 25% between 50 and 99, 54% 100 acres or more. Nearly 5% of the state's farms have a gross income of less than $1,200; 15% $1,200 to $2,499; about 27% $2,500 to $4,999; 34% from $5,000 to $9,999; 17% $10,000 to $24,999; about 1% $25,000 or more. One tenth of these farmers produce more than $48 per acre in crops, about 20% above the average; but the same proportion are 20% below the average. Livestock, generally brings in more per acre than field crops.

Swathing of Barley Starts in Pennington

Area Near TRF Has Grain Stand Ranging Good to Excellent

Pennington farmers are planning to start harvesting of barley this week, according to County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk. Stanley Ekdahl, west of St. Hilaire has swathed barley which with favorable weather, will be ready for the combine today or Tuesday. Others east and south of Thief River Falls also started swathing late last week.

The area in the immediate vicinity of Thief River Falls has a good to excellent stand of grain, the only exception being some of the low spots which were drowned out by excessive moisture.

The wheat and oat crops are generally good and have withstood excessive rainfall considerably better than the barley. The east part of Pennington county is hardest hit by surplus moisture with some farmers expecting very little harvest. The hay crop in the same area is of poor quality, but second cuttings are expected to be good where water has receded.

A great variation exists in crop condition throughout the county. Drainage, types of soil, soil management, and cropping practices have been determining factors on many farms as to whether or not a good crop was produced. East Pennington received more rainfall than the area around Thief River Falls. Hail in the southwest area did scattered damage varying from 25 to 75 percent on some farms.

To Offer Service to Families with Retarded Children

Minneapolis Experiment May Become Basis for Statewide Program

A new service, of potential importance to all Minnesota families who have older mentally retarded children at home, may soon be available.

Announcement was made last week of a $10,000 grant to the Minneapolis Association for Retarded Children to plan and initiate a social adjustment service for older children and adults. The grant was made by the state department of public welfare from funds provided by the National Institute of Mental Health, a branch of the U.S. Public Health Service.

In announcing the grant, Gordon Christian, executive director of the association explains: "This project will provide badly-needed social adjustment services during part of the day for older retarded children and adults who are kept at home with their families. These people can form friendships, enjoy games, pursue a hobby and do simple jobs, but they need special training and experience even into adult life. It is often impossible for families to provide regular social and recreational outlets with others of their level."

This is a pilot program, to be conducted initially in Minneapolis, but it will have statewide implications. Gerald Walsh, executive secretary of the Minnesota Association for Retarded Children, lauds the project as one which should eventually point the way for communities throughout Minesota and in other states in providing more complete services for their mentally retarded citizens.

Dr. Dale C. Cameron, medical director of the Department of Public Welfare, explains that "many families would be glad to keep their mentally retarded children at home into adulthood if they could be assured a little respite from the necessity for constant care and supervision. If successful, centers of this kind should increase the length of time retarded persons, even those with a rather severe handicap, can remain with their families."

Mayor Stephen Juba of Winnipeg, in a letter to Mayor O. D. Belch of this city, last week extended an invitation to Dr. Belch and other residents of this community to come to Winnipeg and help observe American Visitors' Day Saturday, August 10.

Local Acreage Reserve Plan Pays $96,744

Chairman Houske Reveals Payments to Pennington Farmers

Payments to Pennington county farmers under the Soil Bank's 1957 acreage reserve program amounted to $96,744.19 as of July 25, Oscar J. Houske, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee said today.

The payments were made for reductions in acreage below the farm allotment for wheat. Altogether, 4,605 acres of the crops in the county have been put in this year's acreage reserve program.

Pennington County farmers should check the land they have under Acreage Reserve and Conservation Reserve to be sure it is not helping spread noxious weeds, Houske cautioned.

He advises farmers to keep in mind the fact that, under their acreage reserve agreement and conservation reserve contracts, they agreed to control noxious weeds on the land put in the acreage reserve and conservation reserve. The cost of controlling the noxious weeds must be borne by the farmer.

Houske points out that the list of weeds designated as "noxious" is compiled by the Minnesota ASC committee, and copies of such are available at the county ASC office. Weeds listed locally are: Perennial sow thistle, toad flax (butter & eggs), oxeye (white) daisy, common barberry, Austrian field cress, perennial pepper, sheep sorrel, Russian knapweed, leafy spurge, Canada thistle, dodders, horse nettle, field bindweed (creeping jenny), wild radish, quack grass, hoary alyssum.

The acreage reserve and conservation reserve regulations state that farmers should take such steps as may be prescribed by the county committee to prevent lands from becoming a source of spreading the designated noxious weeds.

Korean Bonus Requests Due in September

Applications Taken Until Dec. 31, 1958, With Payment in '59

Machinery for paying a state bonus to Minnesota veterans of the Korean War will be set in motion September 1, when applications for payments will be received, it was announced today by H. B. Rafteseth, veterans service officer for Pennington and Red Lake counties.

He added that applications will contiue to be received until December 31, 1958, and that no payments will be made until January, 1959. He estimated that from 350 to 400 veterans in Pennington county will qualify for the bonus, with a smaller number from Red Lake county.

Application blanks will be available at Rafteseth's office in the court house. He advised veterans to get copies of their separation notices, DD-214, from the register of deeds or to procure a photostat copy. The copy must be sent in to St. Paul along with the bonus application blank.

The bonus law provides that payment shall be made at the rate of $15 for each month of overseas service to recipients of the Korean service medal, with $7.50 to be paid for each month of domestic service, and a maximum of $400 to be paid to Korean medal holders. Payment will be limited to service performed between June 27, 1950, and July 27, 1953.

Randy Will Be Operated on Tomorrow

Tomorrow morning at 9 a. m., young Randy Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, Middle River, will undergo a major heart operation at the University of Minnesota hospital. A team of heart specialists will do their best to give the young lad a new lease on life. Sometime Tuesday night the four members of the Johnson family will receive word from their father on the outcome of the operation. The members of the family who stayed in Middel River to take care of the farm are; left to right, Eldon 14 and Jerry 4; Adrienne 16 and Quentin 8. Another daughter Suzanne, 11, is in Grand Forks.

Middle River Boy, Age 6, to Undergo Unusual Operation Tuesday

Tomorrow morning at 9 a.m. the community of Middle River will be thinking of, and praying for 6-year-old Randy Johnson. At that time young Randy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, will undergo a major heart operation at the University of Minnesota hospitals.

For five hours a team of heart specialists will do their best to give Randy a new lease on life. Handicapped by a congenital heart condition since birth he has never been able to play like a normal child.

Randy is reported to have good lungs and will have a 75 percent chance of pulling through. And, that's the chance the Johnson family decided to take. Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and Randy left Middle River in their 1950 Plymouth. They left a few days early so they could show Randy a good time in the Cities before his ordeal.

During the last year Randy's parents have taken him to the University five times for observation. Last January Randy underwent minor surgery when doctors isolated the heart condition by using a cardiac catherization. By injecting tubes into the heart chamber and testing the oxygen content of the blood they were able to diagnose the condition.

Since then he has returned to the hospital three times for observation. The exact condition isn't known, however, and will not be until the doctors are able to view the heart directly. The specialists are in agreement that this is the time for the operation. Without the operation doctors say that Randy would not live to be more than ten years old. And, if he did live to be ten, it would be as an invalid. Randy has a valve in his heart that doesn't close, causing a hole in his left ventricle.

Forced to lead a quiet life for the last 6 years, Randy has compensated extremely well. Most of the day, said his sister Adrienne, while the other Johnson children were outside playing in the farm yard, Randy would sit in the front room and watch television or draw pictures.

Randy is very quiet most of the time, and knows that he can't play as hard as the rest of the children. Although he is only six years old, he has a reputation in the community for being "a very smart lad." Randy's 8 year old brother, Quentin, is very proud of his small brother and likes to tell about the time Randy went to school with him and amazed the teacher by doing his second grade arithmetic. Randy was suppose to start school this fall and the teacher said he could

Aquacade to Open in Tindolph Park Pool with Boat Parade at 2

Next Sunday afternoon, August 4th, 28 water-skiers, age 10 to 40 will participate in the third annual '57 JayCee Aquacade at Tindolph park. The show will start with a boat parade at 2 o'clock.

This year's water-pageant, according to Stan Gibson show chairman, will be shorter and faster moving than previous shows. The majority of acts will be doubles and triples and will consist primarily of local talent. Two out-of-town skiers will be Wanda Melby, Oklee, and Donna Lindquist, Red Lake Falls.

Two water-show veterans, Loren Voldness and Dennis Hansen, will reinforce the local troupe.

The program, still in the making, now includes 20 water-ski acts.

Two of the most versatile and accomplished of the younger skiers in the program, Larry Olson and Elroy Frolland, will put on a fast one-ski slalom.

The oldest and the youngest skiers in the show, Wendy Olson and his son Larry will star in the "Father and son" act.

JayCee president, N. H. Kortuem, will welcome the crowd riding on a surf-board in an act called the "President's Catastrophe," called thus because Kortuem is not billed as the world's number one water-skier. Said chairman Gibson, "We aren't too sure what the result will be."

Five young performers will make their water-show debut and weeks of daily practice will be realized when Joe Mead with the Junior Quintet in tow passes before the crowd.

"The grand finale will be a fast moving, high-flying elimination jumping act.

Six skiers will circle before the crowd jumping in rapid succession. The jump will be raised from four to nine feet, or until only two skiers are left. The two remaining skiers will then make one last circle and then both take the jump at the same time.

This year boat rides will be given by members of the Thief River Falls Water Sports Club before and after the show starting at 10 a. m.

"Music To Ski By" will be presented in a concert by the American Legion band under the direction of Alvin Anderson.

Judge Paul A. Lundgren, parade marshal, will get the '57 boat parade under way at 2 p.m.

Immediately after the parade, a color guard of three girls on water skis will pass before the crowd and the '57 Aquacade will be under way.

American Legion Post Membership Drive Set for Fall

Ellsworth Jorgenson and Verne Thorstad to Direct 1958 Campaign

At a special meeting Wednesday evening, the executive committee of the American Legion post approved plans of the membership committee to hold a special membership dinner next September.

This year's membership committee, headed by Verne Thorstad and Elsworth Jorgenson, is now commencing activities, and a general call for workers has been issued by Jorgenson. He stated that the goal of 800 members has been set for this year and that workers for the committee are urgently needed.

Membership in the local post has grown continuously during the last several years and a goal of over 700 was passed last year. The membership dinner planned for next September will be free to all members who have signed and paid their membership for 1958 by the date of the dinner.

Jorgenson explained that even though the present dues are good until October 31, that it would be helpful to the committee if all present members would renew for 1958 by the first of September this year.

In other business conducted by the executive board, the regular August meeting was postponed until August 13, the second Tuesday in August, to permit members of the executive committee to attend the state legion convention which is scheduled the first week of the month.

Reading on Upswing at Carnegie Library

Miss Francis Shanahan, city librarian, said this week that people are once more turning to the printed word for recreation and inspiration.

In competition with the modern media of television and super-wide "Vista-Vision" movie screens, reading is on the up-swing at the local library. At the present time more than five thousand active card holders scan the 24,000 volumes now on the shelves at the rate of 4,000 people a month. This traffic count is based on a ten-day survey taken last winter. During the summer months the traffic is estimated to be around the 3,000 mark. This means that on the average 100 people visit the library each day.

Broken down the number of active card holders includes 1620 city adults, 2040 city juveniles, 480 rural adults, 720 rural juveniles and over 200 card holders in adjoining counties.

Thirty-seven years ago, in 1920, the library had 2,200 registered patrons and 5,146 books.

To keep up with the current best sellers, fiction and non-fiction, the three members of the library staff try to maintain an active stock of books on the shelves. Each year hundreds of obsolete and worn books are replaced with popular editions.

With the '57-58 school year approaching, Miss Shanahan anticipates that a record number of students will be using the library facilities. For students in their high school and college years, the library is a valuable source of information. It is the only library in this section of the northwest to maintain a periodical reference index going back more than five years, said Miss Shanahan.

Miss Shanahan expressed the wish that in the future the present library seating capacity of 32 would be expanded to meet the increasing influx of patrons.

2 Thefts Ascribed to Shoplifters

Pistol and Car Radio Are Stolen from Local Stores

Two cases of theft which occurred in broad daylight were reported to local police over the last weekend by city store proprietors.

The thefts, apparently the work of shoplifters, involved a .22 cal. Hi-Standard automatic pistol valued at $40 from Western Auto Store and an Airline car-truck radio, approximate value $35, from Montgomery Ward.

Both thefts were reported Saturday, although the Montgomery Ward theft was believed to have occured Wednesday or Thursday, police said.

Only one accident was reported to police over the weekend. Charles W. Emanuel, city, reported an unknown person hit his car in the left-front fender as it was parked behind Paint and Glass Co. in the parking lot, causing an estimated $125 damage.

It was a very quiet weekend otherwise, police said.

make two grades in one year easily.

Thirty-eight year old Lloyd Johnson and his wife have six other children besides Randy. Right now they are taking care of the Johnson farm. The oldest girl, Adrienne, 16, is doing the housework and cooking; Eldon, 14, cares for the herd of nine milking cows and plans to start cutting the grain next week; the two younger boys, Jerry, 4 and Quentin, 8 try to help whenever possible. Another girl, Suzanne, 11, is visiting an aunt in Grand Forks for the summer.

Adrienne said her dad would be home next Thursday, but her mother would remain in the Cities with Randy for the next five weeks.

The Johnsons are not a rich family, but they are a close family and think a lot of each other. And right now, the children at home are very much concerned about their little brother Randy.

Tomorrow night, they will anxiously await a telegram or phone call that their father promised to send to them immediately after the operation.

Tickets Issued as Result of Mishap

St. Hilaire Car Rolls over Late Saturday Night

Three persons involved in a one-car accident about a half mile west of the junction of SAR 1 and U. S. 59 escaped injury but considerable damage was done to the car, owned by Rueben Hanson, Rt. 1, St. Hilaire, when it rolled over and came to rest upside-down in a ditch.

Deputy Sheriff Eugene Prestegaard said the driver of the car was Darlene Lee, 19, also Rt. 1, St. Hilaire, and another passenger was Palmer Anderson, Oklee.

The accident occurred shortly after midnight Saturday, Prestegaard said. The driver apparently lost control of the car, probably due to excessive speed, causing it to roll.

Prestegaard issued three tickets as an aftermath of the accident. Miss Lee was charged with driving without a license and for carelessness, while Hanson was ticketed for permitting an unlicensed person to operate his car.

The league playoffs began on Thursday evening, with a double-header, the Bridgeman's meeting the T & S Implement, and the Len's Tires playing the Bjorkman's. At a manager's meeting held on Wednesday evening, it was agreed that the first round playoff games should be determined on a best-of-three basis.

The sharp-fielding Len's Tires, getting surprisingly fine pitching from slow-balling Miles Thorson, defeated the Bjorkman's team, 11 to 5, in the "night-cap".

Lancaster Flock of 36 Sheep Killed by Soo Line Train

Morris Sjostrand, young farmer of the Lancaster community reported loss of at least 36 sheep July 19, when the Soo Line Flyer hit the flock which had escaped from the pasture. The accident occurred at a point on the track along the Leonard Sjostrand farm 4 miles southeast of Lancaster.

The Lake Bronson and Lancaster section crews were called to the scene to clear the tracks which were littered with dead animals. This is Mr. Sjostrand's second loss of sheep in the past few years.

A claim for damages was filed with the railroad company, and it is possible that Morris will be reimbursed in part for the loss of his flock.

Moorhead Wins District Jr. Title, Shuts out TRF 4 to 0

An "iron man" pitching performance by southpaw Bill Korn gave coach Gordy Rustad's Moorhead team the ninth district Legion junior baseball championship in the tournament that was concluded at Barnesville on Sunday night. The Moorhead team, with Korn pitching a three-hitter, defeated Thief River Falls, 4 to 0. In a first round game on Saturday night, against Fergus Falls, the Moorhead southpaw hurled a no-hitter as the Spuds eliminated Fergus Falls, 4 to 0.

As a result of the win over Joey Poole's local club in the finals, Moorhead gained a berth in the state American Legion junior baseball tournament which will be played in St. Paul's Midway Stadium the latter part of this week. In a first round game, slated for 7:00 p. m. on Friday, Moorhead will meet Faribault, the district three titlist.

In Sunday night's district finals, Moorhead tallied all of their runs in the first two innings. Larry Schultz, in the last half of the opening frame, drew a walk off starter Harlie Drees. Jerry Hogenson struck out, but Larry Johnson banged a double into right-center, scoring Schultz.

In the 2nd inning, with one man away, Jerry Lathrop singled through the infield, Jerry Lovell was issued a walk, and Dave Lanski singled, scoring Lathrop. Schultz lofted a fly to left field, and when the ball was muffed, Lovell scored, Lanski advanced to third and Schultz to second. Bob Hallameck, who pitched a two-hit shutout against Fertile on Saturday afternoon, came to the mound, and he whiffed Hogenson for the second out. Larry Johnson drove out a right field single, scoring Lanski for Moorhead's fourth tally, and final run of the game.

For the balance of the game, Hallameck just about matched Korn, pitch for pitch. In the final two innings, the 6th and 7th, Korn racked up six strikeouts, getting the side in order in the 7th, and giving up a walk in the 6th.

Supporting Bob Hallameck's two-hit, seven-strikeout, shutout pitching with errorless play in the field, coach Joey Poole's local junior baseball team dethroned the defending district champions, Fertile, by scoring a well-earned 2 to 0 win in an extra-inning first round 9th district American Legion junior baseball tournament game played at Barnesville on Saturday afternoon. By their triumph the locals gained the finals.

Moving into the 7th inning of the game on Saturday afternoon, righthanders Hallameck for Thief River Falls and Arlo Brunsberg for Fertile were hooked up in a pitcher's duel, with each hurler having given up but one hit. Don Gullickson, in the 1st inning, looped a single into center field for Fertile, and Mickey Hanson had slashed a single into left field in the 2nd inning for Thief River Falls.

In the 7th, Dave Berg gained a "life" when Al Harstad bobbled a ground ball. In attempting to sacrifice, Darrel Wick dumped a bunt towards the mound, which Brunsberg fielded quickly, threw to second to force Berg, and the relay to first base was in time to complete the double play. Hallameck and Hanson followed with singles, but Mickey Poole grounded to first base to end the threat.

The locals notched their game-winning runs in the 8th inning when Arlan Hjelle was safe on a muff of his fly ball to left field. Jerry Jorgenson dumped a sacrifice bunt in front of the plate, and when Hjelle beat Brunsberg's high throw to second base, all hands were safe. Harlie Drees sacrificed, with Sannes tossing to Harstad covering first base, Hjelle and Jorgenson advancing. Tony Wald then spanked a single to center field, scoring Hjelle and Jorgenson. Berg flied out to right field, and Wick fouled to third base to end the rally.

Hallameck retired Fertile in order in the last half of the 8th inning, and the locals trotted off the field the winners by a 2 to 0 score.

The Day of Reckoning

For the four men's softball teams remaining in the league playoffs, the "day of reckoning" is fast approaching. And for the Bjorkman's and T & S Implement teams that "day" is already here, for the two teams are within one game of being eliminated from the playoffs. For the two clubs, playing the Len's Tire Service and the Bridgeman's, respectively, this evening, victories are imperative.

In first round playoff games on Thursday evening, the Len's Tires defeated the Bjorkman's; and the Bridgeman's, in an eight inning tilt, edged out the T & S Implement. This evening, Monday, the Bjorkman's play Len's, with game time at 6:00 P.M.; and at 7:30 P.M. the Bridgeman's will meet the T & S team in the second game.

The Bjorkman's and the T & S squads are primed for this evening's do-or-be-eliminated games, having their ace righthanders available for mound duties. Bjorkman's will have a well-rested Milt Reierson (he's been away enjoying a week's vacation) ready for the Len's; and the T & S will send their veteran, Gordy Kaushagen, against the Bridgeman's. With Milt pitching up to form, the Bjorkman's should be a slight favorite to win their tilt; while the Bridgeman's appear to possess too much all-round strength for the Implement men.

The Len's, with perhaps the best fielding club in the league, will "go" with righthander Miles Thorson. And he's a puzzle. In the first round game on Thursday evening, he lobbed the ball in to the Bjorkman's and the green-shirted sluggers broke their backs trying to drive the ball out of the park. Miles had trouble finding the plate, too, walking numerous batters, but the Bjorkman's were so anxious to hit that they "bit" at bad pitches.

The playoff games are drawing standing-room-only crowds.

Warren Old Timers

An exhibition baseball game that should be interesting and entertaining is scheduled for Warren's Emery Johnson field on Tuesday evening when Reuben (Rosy) Rosendahl's Old Timers play the Warren regulars. Game time has been slated for 7:30 P. M. In case of rain, the game will be played on Saturday, Aug. 3rd.

Have a look at the roster of former Warren "greats" that Rosy has "signed" for the game: Lloyd Hill, centerfield; Harry Sedlacek, second base; Scotty Matthews, shortstop; Art Howard, right field; Jack Hill, third base; Yons Knutson, left field; Rosendahl, first base; Johnny Walker or George Lennon, catching; and Tommy Michalski of Oslo or Jake Baumgarther of Grand Forks, pitching.

In perusing this roster, we fail to notice such "old timers" as Mally Anderson and Harold Stroble. That must be an oversight on Rosy's part; or perhaps his "old timers" don't go back as far as the days of Anderson and Stroble. How old a timer are you, Harold?

Why not make the short 28-mile drive over to Warren on Tuesday evening? You'll have fun.

Oh yes, another "old timer" that is missing in this lineup is William (Chesty) Halbert, the old southpaw who hurled for Warren in the "glory days" back in 1914 or 15.

Ninsk to Mahnomen

Marvin (Ninsk) Carlson, who has been teaching and coaching at Terry, Montana, has resigned his position there and has accepted a contract to teach and coach at Mahnomen.

Ninsk, a graduate of Valley City Teachers College, will coach football and be assistant coach in basketball at Mahnomen.

We'll wager that Marvin will be a strict disciplinarian, too, and won't allow any "high jinks" by his squad members. Ninsk, you know, was quite a character during his prep days as a Prowler, and he knows all about discipline or its lack.

We can vividly recall those days back in 1945 when Ninsk quarterbacked a Prowler football team that had eleven quarterbacks. Those Prowlers — Wes Hovie, Les Vigness, Phil Beadle, Don Brossoit, Al Thompson, Cliff Aase, Rog Tunberg, Glen Berg, Ralph Foster, Bob Melby, Thornton Anderson, and others—were all rugged individualists. When the Prowlers were called into a huddle to be given a signal by Carlson, there were ten other signals offered — every player had a pet play. These huddles developed into minor squabbles. To remedy the trouble and ease the arguing, head coach Glenn Hanna devised a method whereby Carlson would take a position off to the side of the huddle, quite near the side-line, and center Thornton Anderson would then trot out of the huddle to Carlson, get the signal for the play from Ninsk, return to the huddle and the team would make a preliminary shift. Not until then would Ninsk return to the formation, and the play would be run.

Those were the days!

Where Ball Players are Made

Coach Gene Sack's local midget baseball team entered the district midget baseball tournament played at Crookston on Friday and Saturday. And the locals, with a win and a loss, did all right.

In a first round game on Friday, the locals, behind Arlan Hjelle's pitching, defeated the highly-regarded Fertile midgets, 7 to 4. In a semi-finals game on Friday evening, the locals dropped a 3 to 1 decision to the Crookston midgets.

This midget program, under the capable coaches that have been handling the boys for the past several years, is the "feeder" that has given the high school and Legion juniors their player-strength. The program is a "must" if high school and junior baseball is to be success. And on the success or failure of the junior baseball, rides the success or failure of senior baseball hereabouts.

The local baseball program got its biggest lift 'way back in the days when Jimmy Welton was running the "kid" baseball leagues. Remember? Jimmy had a league formed, and practically every youngster in town, who cared for baseball, was a member of a team.

Thieves Play Erskine Here on Wednesday

Gene Sack, Thieves Catcher, Will Make Final Appearance

Player-manager Gene Sack will make his final appearance before the local fans on Wednesday night when, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the Thieves meet the up-and-coming Erskine Merchants in a Northern Minny league contest. Sack will leave town on Thursday morning enroute to St. Louis Park where he will assume his new duties at Benilde high school.

It is hoped that a large crowd of fans will be on hand Wednesday night as the popular Thieves' catcher makes his final bow.

Playing at Bagley on Sunday afternoon, under a broiling sun that made a griddle of the playing field, and which caused the game to be shortened to seven innings because of the prostrating heat, the Thieves dropped a lop-sided 14 to 2 decision to the league-leading Bagley Merchants.

Due to the fact that several of the players were in attendance at the Legion junior baseball tournament at Barnesville, the locals were short-handed for their tilt at Bagley.

The locals kept pace with the Merchants for a couple of innings, the score being 2-all entering the last half of the 3rd inning. In that frame, Bagley scored five runs on one hit, an error, three walks and a hit batsman.

The thieves picked up their two runs in the top of the 3rd inning on Ross Sloan's lead-off home run over the left field fence, plus singles by Sack and Sid Vraa, and a force-out.

Bagley added five runs in the 4th inning, poling out five hits. Al Jensen and Tom Wolhowe proved to be the Merchants' "power" hitters, with Jens driving out three doubles, and Wolhowe getting "three for five".

Plan Barley Show for Valley Winter Shows

Plans to attract more barley exhibitors at the Red River Valley Winter Shows are about complete, according to B. E. Youngquist, president of the Winter Shows board of Managers.

Early last winter certain farmers and leaders in agriculture in Northwestern Minnesota suggested that important crops should be featured in the Red River Valley Winter Shows. Barley was suggested as a crop to start on at the 1958 Winter Show.

The first job was to find sponsors. The board of managers immediately indicated they would provide space to show additional barley. The Minnesota Crop Improvement Association agreed to cooperate by helping design a layout for showing samples of barley grown here in the Red River Valley.

The Malting Barley Improvement Association, headed by Andy LeJeune of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, indicated they would put a sum of money into prize money. The Minnesota Brewers Association has offered to support the idea with prize money. At a recent meeting, the Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association voted to provide funds for needed materials and equipment.

Farmers are urged to bag up a bushel of their best barley and hold it for the Winter Shows. "Take the bushel directly from the combine," says the committee in charge of planning.

The rules and regulation haven't all been drawn yet. The preliminary thinking is that growers who show barley will be asked to show one-half bushel of the 1957 crop field-run barley. All barley brought to the show will become the property of the show. There will probably be two exhibitor classes—an open class and a class for 4-H and F. F. A. members. All barley entered in the show would be grouped into malting varieties or other varieties. The latter group will have two sub-groups including recommended varieties of feed barley and all barley varieties not adequately tested.

Plan TV Station for Bemidji Area

Option Taken on Site for Tower 856 Feet High

Tower and transmitting location for the proposed television station at Bemidji has been announced as one-half mile south of Farris, approximately 12 miles southeast of Bemidji. Land for the location has been optioned from Harry Hildreth, according to Tom Barnes, general manager, WDAY-TV, Fargo. The overall height above ground level will be 856 feet, and the station will have an effective radiated power of 28,000 watts. Studios and offices will be located in downtown Bemidji.

The station will serve a radius of 50 to 60 miles in its primary area, Barnes said that application to the Federal Communications Commission will be filed within a few days.

The Bemidji station will have a programming affiliation with WDAY-TV, Fargo and a station proposed to be constructed at Alexandria. It will be operated by the Central Minnesota Television Company.

Central Minnesota Television Company is a corporation now having more than two thousand stockholders who are residents of the area to be served.

Military Group to Aid in Centennial

Gen. Joseph Nelson Heads Statewide Committee

A 31-member Minnesota Centennial military committee, headed by Major General Joseph E. Nelson, state adjutant general and "including a complete cross-section of state military and veterans' organizations," was announced today by the Centennial Commission.

"We have already held our first meeting, split up into five subcommittees and probably will meet early in September—after the subcommittees have had a chance to get moving on their work," Gen. Nelson said. "The subcommittees are expected to make specific project recommendations at our second meeting."

'U' M. Is Looking for Better and Hardier Berries

Calls for Cooperation of People Knowing Location of Choice Wild Berries

The search is on for better and hardier berries for Minnesota and other northern regions.

According to A. N. Wilcox, professor of horticulture at the University of Minnesota, residents of this state can play an important role in the efforts of University scientist to develop better and hardier blackberries, black and red raspberries and blueberries for northern areas by reporting locations where good wild berries grow.

University fruit breeders are particularly interested in productive wild blackberry bushes that survive in open fields and clearings. They are also searching for hardier black and red raspberries and wild blueberries with exceptionally large fruits.

Residents of Minnesota and Wisconsin who know of locations where good fruiting wild blackberries, raspberries and large blueberries grow should write immediately to A. N. Wilcox, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1. Information should include location of the bushes and probable ripening date.

The information on location of wild berry plants will be relayed to Robert Tuveson, botanist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who is now in the field in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The botanist wants to see the wild plants in fruit and get a sample of seeds. After visiting all possible locations of wild berries, he will return in September and, with permission of the owner, will dig a few of the hardiest and most productive plants. These plants will be turned over to the University of Minnesota Fruit Breeding Farm and other experiment stations in the North Central states, where they will be propagated and then used as parents with desirable cultivated varieties, in an attempt to develop better fruits for this region.

Former St. Hilaire Girl's Husband has Arrived in Spain

Word was received here today that M/Sgt. Francis S. Gibbs, whose wife is a former resident of St. Hilaire, has arrived at his assignment in Spain, near Madrid.

Gibbs said the flight from McGuire AFB to Getafe Air Force Base just outside Madrid took just 14 hours. The first few months in Spain caused him and his fellow airmen to wonder where the phrase "sunny Spain" originated, as it rained nearly every day.

Gibbs is presently stationed at Lorrejon Air Force Base, which is about 15 miles from Madrid and is, as yet, incomplete. He said Madrid is not a large city in area but the population is in the millions. Most people there live in apartments and Gibbs described the city as being built "up instead of out."

Shops in Madrid are open at 9 a.m. and close for siesta at 2 p.m., reopening at 4 and closing again at 8 p. m. During the siesta hour, Gibbs stated, nothing in the way of business can be transacted so one may as well stay at home.

Sgt. Gibbs, his wife and daughter visited in St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls this spring before he was sent to Spain.

An "iron man" pitching performance by southpaw Bill Korn gave coach Gordy Rustad's Moorhead team the ninth district Legion junior baseball championship in the tournament that was concluded at Barnesville on Sunday night. The Moorhead team, with Korn pitching a three-hitter, defeated Thief River Falls, 4 to 0. In a first round game on Saturday night, against Fergus Falls, the Moorhead southpaw hurled a no-hitter as the Spuds eliminated Fergus Falls, 4 to 0.

As a result of the win over Joey Poole's local club in the finals, Moorhead gained a berth in the state American Legion junior baseball tournament which will be played in St. Paul's Midway Stadium the latter part of this week. In a first round game, slated for 7:00 p. m. on Friday, Moorhead will meet Faribault, the district three titlist.

In Sunday night's district finals, Moorhead tallied all of their runs in the first two innings. Larry Schultz, in the last half of the opening frame, drew a walk off starter Harlie Drees. Jerry Hogenson struck out, but Larry Johnson banged a double into right-center, scoring Schultz.

In the 2nd inning, with one man away, Jerry Lathrop singled through the infield, Jerry Lovell was issued a walk, and Dave Lanski singled, scoring Lathrop. Schultz lofted a fly to left field, and when the ball was muffed, Lovell scored, Lanski advanced to third and Schultz to second. Bob Hallameck, who pitched a two-hit shutout against Fertile on Saturday afternoon, came to the mound, and he whiffed Hogenson for the second out. Larry Johnson drove out a right field single, scoring Lanski for Moorhead's fourth tally, and final run of the game.

For the balance of the game, Hallameck just about matched Korn, pitch for pitch. In the final two innings, the 6th and 7th, Korn racked up six strikeouts, getting the side in order in the 7th, and giving up a walk in the 6th.

Supporting Bob Hallameck's two-hit, seven-strikeout, shutout pitching with errorless play in the field, coach Joey Poole's local junior baseball team dethroned the defending district champions, Fertile, by scoring a well-earned 2 to 0 win in an extra-inning first round 9th district American Legion junior baseball tournament game played at Barnesville on Saturday afternoon. By their triumph the locals gained the finals.

Moving into the 7th inning of the game on Saturday afternoon, righthanders Hallameck for Thief River Falls and Arlo Brunsberg for Fertile were hooked up in a pitcher's duel, with each hurler having given up but one hit. Don Gullickson, in the 1st inning, looped a single into center field for Fertile; and Mickey Hanson had slashed a single into left field in the 2nd inning for Thief River Falls.

In the 7th, Dave Berg gained a "life" when Al Harstad bobbled a ground ball. In attempting to sacrifice, Darrel Wick dumped a bunt towards the mound, which Brunsberg fielded quickly, threw to second to force Berg, and the relay to first base was in time to complete the double play. Hallameck and Hanson followed with singles, but Mickey Poole grounded to first base to end the threat.

The locals notched their game-winning runs in the 8th inning when Arlan Hjelle was safe on a muff of his fly ball to left field. Jerry Jorgenson dumped a sacrifice bunt in front of the plate, and when Hjelle beat Brunsberg's high throw to second base, all hands were safe. Harlie Drees sacrificed, with Sannes tossing to Harstad covering first base, Hjelle and Jorgenson advancing. Tony Wald then spanked a single to center field, scoring Hjelle and Jorgenson. Berg flied out to right field, and Wick fouled to third base to end the rally.

Hallameck retired Fertile in order in the last half of the 8th inning, and the locals trotted off the field the winners by a 2 to 0 score.

The Day of Reckoning

For the four men's softball teams remaining in the league playoffs, the "day of reckoning" is fast approaching. And for the Bjorkman's and T & S Implement teams that "day" is already here, for the two teams are within one game of being eliminated from the playoffs. For the two clubs, playing the Len's Tire Service and the Bridgeman's, respectively, this evening, victories are imperative.

In first round playoff games on Thursday evening, the Len's Tires defeated the Bjorkman's; and the Bridgeman's, in an eight inning tilt, edged out the T & S Implement. This evening, Monday, the Bjorkman's play Len's, with game time at 6:00 P.M.; and at 7:30 P.M. the Bridgeman's will meet the T & S team in the second game.

The Bjorkman's and the T & S squads are primed for this evening's do-or-be-eliminated games, having their ace righthanders available for mound duties. Bjorkman's will have a well-rested Milt Reierson (he's been away enjoying a week's vacation) ready for the Len's; and the T & S will send their veteran, Gordy Kaushagen, against the Bridgeman's. With Milt pitching up to form, the Bjorkman's should be a slight favorite to win their tilt; while the Bridgeman's appear to possess too much all-round strength for the Implement men.

The Len's, with perhaps the best fielding club in the league, will "go" with righthander Miles Thorson. And he's a puzzle. In the first round game on Thursday evening, he lobbed the ball in to the Bjorkman's and the green-shirted sluggers broke their backs trying to drive the ball out of the park. Miles had trouble finding the plate, too, walking numerous batters, but the Bjorkman's were so anxious to hit that they "bit" at bad pitches.

The playoff games are drawing standing-room-only crowds.

Warren Old Timers

An exhibition baseball game that should be interesting and entertaining is scheduled for Warren's Emery Johnson field on Tuesday evening when Reuben (Rosy) Rosendahl's Old Timers play the Warren regulars. Game time has been slated for 7:30 P. M. In case of rain, the game will be played on Saturday, Aug. 3rd.

Have a look at the roster of former Warren "greats" that Rosy has "signed" for the game: Lloyd Hill, centerfield; Harry Sedlacek, second base; Scotty Matthews, shortstop; Art Howard, right field; Jack Hill, third base; Yons Knutson, left field; Rosendahl, first base; Johnny Walker or George Lennon, catching; and Tommy Michalski of Oslo or Jake Baumgartner of Grand Forks, pitching.

In perusing this roster, we fail to notice such "old timers" as Mally Anderson and Harold Stroble. That must be an oversight on Rosy's part; or perhaps his "old timers" don't go back as far as the days of Anderson and Stroble. How old a timer are you, Harold?

Why not make the short 28-mile drive over to Warren on Tuesday evening? You'll have fun.

Oh yes, another "old timer" that is missing in this lineup is William (Chasty) Halbert, the old southpaw who hurled for Warren in the "glory days" back in 1914 or 15.

Ninsk to Mahnomen

Marvin (Ninsk) Carlson, who has been teaching and coaching at Terry, Montana, has resigned his position there and has accepted a contract to teach and coach at Mahnomen.

Ninsk, a graduate of Valley City Teachers College, will coach football and be assistant coach in basketball at Mahnomen.

We'll wager that Marvin will be a strict disciplinarian, too, and won't allow any "high jinks" by his squad members. Ninsk, you know, was quite a character during his prep days as a Prowler, and he knows all about discipline or its lack.

We can vividly recall those days back in 1945 when Ninsk quarterbacked a Prowler football team that had eleven quarterbacks. Those Prowlers — Wes Hovie, Les Vigness, Phil Beadle, Don Brossoit, Al Thompson, Cliff Aase, Rog Tunberg, Glen Berg, Ralph Foster, Bob Melby, Thornton Anderson, and others—were all rugged individualists. When the Prowlers were called into a huddle to be given a signal by Carlson, there were ten other signals offered — every player had a pet play. These huddles developed into minor squabbles.

To remedy the trouble and erase the arguing, head coach Glenn Hanna devised a method whereby Carlson would take a position off to the side of the huddle, quite near the side-line, and center Thornton Anderson would then trot out of the huddle to Carlson, get the signal for the play from Ninsk, return to the huddle and the team would make a preliminary shift. Not until then would Ninsk return to the formation, and the play would be run.

Those were the days!

Where Ball Players are Made

Coach Gene Sack's local midget baseball team entered the district midget baseball tournament played at Crookston on Friday and Saturday. And the locals, with a win and a loss, did all right.

In a first round game on Friday, the locals, behind Arlan Hjelle's pitching, defeated the highly-regarded Fertile midgets, 7 to 4. In a semi-finals game on Friday evening, the locals dropped a 3 to 1 decision to the Crookston midgets.

This midget program, under the capable coaches that have been handling the boys for the past several years, is the "feeder" that has given the high school and Legion juniors their player strength. The program is a "must" if high school and junior baseball is to be success. And on the success or failure of the junior baseball, rides the success or failure of senior baseball hereabouts.

The local baseball program got its biggest lift 'way back in the days when Jimmy Welton was running the "kid" baseball leagues. Remember? Jimmy had a league formed, and practically every youngster in town, who cared for baseball, was a member of a team.

Gene Sack, Thieves Catcher, Will Make Final Appearance

Player-manager Gene Sack will make his final appearance before the local fans on Wednesday night when, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the Thieves meet the up-and-coming Erskine Merchants in a Northern Minny league contest. Sack will leave town on Thursday morning enroute to St. Louis Park where he will assume his new duties at Benilde high school.

It is hoped that a large crowd of fans will be on hand Wednesday night as the popular Thieves' catcher makes his final bow.

Playing at Bagley on Sunday afternoon, under a broiling sun that made a griddle of the playing field, and which caused the game to be shortened to seven innings because of the prostrating heat, the Thieves dropped a lop-sided 14 to 2 decision to the league-leading Bagley Merchants.

Due to the fact that several of the players were in attendance at the Legion junior baseball tournament at Barnesville, the locals were short-handed for their tilt at Bagley.

The locals kept pace with the Merchants for a couple of innings, the score being 2-all entering the last half of the 3rd inning. In that frame, Bagley scored five runs on one hit, an error, three walks and a hit batsman.

The thieves picked up their two runs in the top of the 3rd inning on Ross Sloan's lead-off home run over the left field fence, plus singles by Sack and Sid Vrsa, and a force-out.

Bagley added five runs in the 4th inning, poling out five hits. Al Jensen and Tom Wolhowe proved to be the Merchants' "power" hitters, with Jens driving out three doubles, and Wolhowe getting "three for five".

Plan Barley Show for Valley Winter Shows

Plans to attract more barley exhibitors at the Red River Valley Winter Shows are about complete, according to B. E. Youngquist, president of the Winter Shows board of Managers.

Early last winter certain farmers and leaders in agriculture in Northwestern Minnesota suggested that important crops should be featured in the Red River Valley Winter Shows. Barley was suggested as a crop to start on at the 1958 Winter Show.

The first job was to find sponsors. The board of managers immediately indicated they would provide space to show additional barley. The Minnesota Crop Improvement Association agreed to cooperate by helping design a layout for showing samples of barley grown here in the Red River Valley.

The Malting Barley Improvement Association, headed by Andy LeJeune of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, indicated they would put a sum of money into prize money. The Minnesota Brewers Association has offered to support the idea with prize money. At a recent meeting, the Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association voted to provide funds for needed materials and equipment.

Farmers are urged to bag up a bushel of their best barley and hold it for the Winter Shows. "Take the bushel directly from the combine," says the committee in charge of planning.

The rules and regulation haven't all been drawn yet. The preliminary thinking is that growers who show barley will be asked to show one-half bushel of the 1957 crop field-run barley. All barley brought to the show will become the property of the show. There will probably be two exhibitor classes—an open class and a class for 4-H and F. F. A. members. All barley entered in the show would be grouped into malting varieties or other varieties. The latter group will have two sub-groups including recommended varieties of feed barley and all barley varieties not adequately tested.

Plan TV Station for Bemidji Area

Option Taken on Site for Tower 856 Feet High

Tower and transmitting location for the proposed television station at Bemidji has been announced as one-half mile south of Farris, approximately 12 miles southeast of Bemidji. Land for the location has been optioned from Harry Hildreth, according to Tom Barnes, general manager, WDAY-TV, Fargo. The overall height above ground level will be 856 feet, and the station will have an effective radiated power of 28,000 watts. Studios and offices will be located in downtown Bemidji.

The station will serve a radius of 50 to 60 miles in its primary area. Barnes said that application to the Federal Communications Commission will be filed within a few days.

The Bemidji station will have a programming affiliation with WDAY-TV, Fargo and a station proposed to be constructed at Alexandria. It will be operated by the Central Minnesota Television Company.

Central Minnesota Television Company is a corporation now having more than two thousand stockholders who are residents of the area to be served.

'U' M. Is Looking for Better and Hardier Berries

Calls for Cooperation of People Knowing Location of Choice Wild Berries

The search is on for better and hardier berries for Minnesota and other northern regions.

According to A. N. Wilcox, professor of horticulture at the University of Minnesota, residents of this state can play an important role in the efforts of University scientist to develop better and hardier blackberries, black and red raspberries and blueberries for northern areas by reporting locations where good wild berries grow.

University fruit breeders are particularly interested in productive wild blackberry bushes that survive in open fields and clearings. They are also searching for hardier black and red raspberries and wild blueberries with exceptionally large fruits.

Residents of Minnesota and Wisconsin who know of locations where good fruiting wild blackberries, raspberries and large blueberries grow should write immediately to A. N. Wilcox, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1. Information should include location of the bushes and probable ripening date.

The information on location of wild berry plants will be relayed to Robert Tuveson, botanist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who is now in the field in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The botanist wants to see the wild plants in fruit and get a sample of seeds. After visiting all possible locations of wild berries, he will return in September and, with permission of the owner, will dig a few of the hardiest and most productive plants. These plants will be turned over to the University of Minnesota Fruit Breeding Farm and other experiment stations in the North Central states, where they will be propagated and then used as parents with desirable cultivated varieties, in an attempt to develop better fruits for this region.

Former St. Hilaire Girl's Husband has Arrived in Spain

Word was received here today that M/Sgt. Francis S. Gibbs, whose wife is a former resident of St. Hilaire, has arrived at his assignment in Spain, near Madrid.

Gibbs said the flight from McGuire AFB to Getafe' Air Force Base just outside Madrid took just 14 hours. The first few months in Spain caused him and his fellow airmen to wonder where the phrase "sunny Spain" originated, as it rained nearly every day.

Gibbs is presently stationed at Lorrojon Air Force Base, which is about 15 miles from Madrid and is, as yet, incomplete. He said Madrid is not a large city in area but the population is in the millions. Most people there live in apartments and Gibbs described the city as being built "up instead of out."

Shops in Madrid are open at 9 a.m. and close for siesta at 2 p.m., reopening at 4 and closing again at 8 p. m. During the siesta hour, Gibbs stated, nothing in the way of business can be transacted so one may as well stay at home.

Sgt. Gibbs, his wife and daughter visited in St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls this spring before he was sent to Spain.

"If a nation values anything more than freedom it will lose its freedom; and the irony of it is that if it is comfort or money that it values more, it will lose that too."

—Somerset Maugham

Facts are Encouraging

It has been observed that to be prepared for the worst one must expect the worst. That, it seems, is a rather discouraging approach to the realities. It fails to distinguish between that which is probable and that which is possible.

Insurance companies are willing to give us long odds against the possibility that certain misfortunes will befall us. The fact that we buy the policy, thus preparing for the worst, does not mean that we expect the worst.

Most of the time the insurance companies guess right. We get a lot of encouragement out of some of the foolish bets they are willing to make.

China's Language

In the early days of the communist government in China that nation's leaders pointed to the many advantages that would come with the adoption of a modern, simple alphabet. This would involve replacing the present system of characters, each of which represents an idea rather than a sound. It was argued that this would make it easier to teach the masses to read and to write.

The Chinese government has now announced that it no longer favors this idea. A committee for the reform of writing recently declared,

> "China's characters and China's national writing are eternal, and there is no question that either another language to be used or the present form of writing be suppressed or even altered."

This statement has been variously interpreted, and it may be assumed that the need for a simplified system of writing that is easily adapted, for instance, to the limitations of a typewriter, is still recognized. And it is not unreasonable to assume that the decision to retain their present language was prompted by expedience rather than desire. It may have been a delaying action rather than a final conclusion.

If the Chinese were to adopt a simplified system at this time the comradely thing to do would be to accept the Russian system of symbols. Our guess is that their decision to retain what they have officially was made because they had concluded that if a new language were to be adopted it should be one of more universal acceptance.

It is significant that an American style English is the first choice of Russian students in the selection of a foreign language.

Good Work, Congress

Congress was especially considerate of the best interests of the people last week. While the Senate removed some of the needlessly offensive provisions of the civil rights bill, the House killed the measure that would have opened the door to a permanent and ever expanding program of federal aid, and federal control, for our schools.

Both these bills had the support of individuals and groups sincerely interested in the problems involved, satisfied that the proposed extensions of federal responsibility and authority were justified. And both bills had the support of individuals and groups whose interest is inspired by selfish motives rather than by any real concern about these problems.

We are satisfied that the more moderate approach to the race problems of the southern states will bring the best results over a period of time. Encouraging progress has been made through the voluntary action of the southerners themselves in solving these problems. There are active organizations of white people in all of those states, working under enlightened leadership, seeking to improve the opportunities for advancement of the negroes among them, and to gradually level the barriers to civil equality.

These organizations are doing effective work among their own people, seeking solutions for problems that are close to all of them.

But when the neighbors move in, neighbors who do not have these problems, and threaten to force solutions upon them against their will, there is understandable resentment. We know from experience how bitter such resentment may become, with the possibility that it might lead again to open defiance of authority and civil war.

For some of our northern politicians the votes of nothern negroes are sufficient justification for drastic legislation, regardless of the consequences.

The bill which would serve as an entering wedge for an expanding program of federal aid for our schools has its chief support from the educators, and no doubt this would be a good bill for them. We have reached the point, however, where we must now start thinking in terms of what is good for education rather than what is good for the educators.

Having occasion one day last week to rise early enough to enjoy the sunrise, we came to the conclusion that we are doing our daylight saving at the wrong end of the day.

A poultry marketing expert thinks turkey growers may do fairly well this year in spite of the anticipated record production. Fortunately for the turkey grower, this year's overproduction is going to come at a time when both beef and pork are going to be in comparatively short supply, he says. He thinks the average American is going to eat much more turkey this year. We have no fault to find with this idea.

A newspaper headline last week informed us that "Hell's Canyon Dam Bill is Defeated". We think the headline writers of the big city papers are getting pretty careless with their spelling, dammed if we don't.

Status of Singers

(Wall Street Journal)

Anybody who wished to do so the other day could turn his television set and get some of the old reliables, like Arthur Godfrey, Amos and Andy and Naughty Marietta, starring Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in their smash spectacular.

But anybody who knew about the arrival here of the 21 French singers called Les Petit Chanteurs de Provence and heard about their scheduled program turned the dials quite in vain.

The reason is that the program was cancelled. And the reason the program was cancelled was this: The 21 Frenchmen were told that they had to join the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists, affiliated with the Associated Actors and Artists of America, which is not affiliated with Mr. Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians, before they could appear and sing their French songs even once.

That was all right with the chanteurs, because they were going to be paid $87 each for their appearance and $87 is 35,583 francs on the honest market.

It was all right, that is, until they learned that the dues were $115 or 47,035 francs. This, for Frenchmen who are used to being paid for singing, seemed to amount to Frenchmen paying to sing and that does not make sense even to Americans, no?

Well, in this day and age everybody is supposed to do when in Paris or elsewhere as the people there do in the interests of foreign relations. And the practice here certainly is to pay out large dues before a man can sing or dance on TV. But it strikes us that this rule doesn't do as much for foreign relations as it does for the union treasury.

We recognize that this conflict of foreign relations and union monopoly is a hard one to solve. But couldn't the Administration do something along the lines of a "status of singers agreement" so foreigners wouldn't be forced to pay to sing here?

SENATOR THYE Reports TO YOU

from the UNITED STATES SENATE

Mines Laboratory Wins Approval

Plans for the construction of a Mines Laboratory in Minneapolis will commence shortly. A sum of $100,000 was appropriated by the Senate and House for this project. As Governor and Senator, I have continuously worked for this laboratory and as a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, I approved the project. Minnesota and other Midwest states will play a vital role in the future development of the mineral industry of the nation. The Laboratory is needed to conduct extensive research in to the region's minerals potential. This includes research into non magnetic taconite, manganese ores, iron-sulfied deposits, extraction of nickel ores, etc.

Signs Baudette Bridge Bill

President Eisenhower has signed legislation which will allow for construction of a bridge across the Rainy River at Baudette. I introduced a bill to extend the authority for construction of the bridge. Working against a deadline set by previous law for the commencement of construction, I received the cooperation from Minnesota Congressmen with my legislation, led to retroactive provisions in the House bill to avoid a lapse in authorization. Now that the President has signed the Baudette Bridge bill, this additional link with Canada will proceed.

Civil Rights Support

The debate on civil rights so far has not become a full fledged filibuster. It might be termed a "quasi filibuster". Senate sessions have been starting as early as 9:30 a.m. and closing around 10 p.m. Other legislative business has been allowed to proceed in order to avoid a last minute "log jam" of necessary bills. I am in support of a strong Civil Rights bill and believe that for the first time in this century such a bill will be signed into law.

Thye Continues - Efforts

The Democratically controlled Banking and Currency Committee of the Senate has failed to take affirmative action on bills calling for the permanent extension of the Small Business Administration. I have urged that this action be taken during this session of Congress to strengthen SBA in its attempts to assist small business firms. The Committee will recommend a temporary extension of one year. The House has already passed a bill to make SBA permanent. The action by the Senate Committee demonstrates the arguments I have made that the Agency should be permanent and free from political strategies and indecisive action taken in the closing moments of the legislative session. I intend to pursue my attempts for action to make the Agency permanent.

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

by Orville L. Freeman

Last May I described the improvements authorized by the 1957 session of the Minnesota Legislature in our program for services to mentally retarded children. School districts must now provide special classes for handicapped children who can benefit from education, and they may provide special classes for those who, though not educable, can benefit in a social, emotional, or physical way from training.

The new law will provide for a greater proportion of state aid to such districts than was the case under the old program. It has been estimated that state aid for this program will increase about 10 percent a year for at least the next six years.

Is This Enough?

It is estimated that at the present time Minnesota may have about 60,000 handicapped children, of whom about 13,00 are being provided with special training in the school districts, and about another thousand in the Welfare institutions of our state. That leaves a possible 46,000 that are not receiving education or training adapted to their needs.

It would seem that a ten per cent increase each year will result in substantial improvement, but we cannot be sure that it will really meet the need. A better evaluation of the new program can be made after it has been in operation for a few years.

A Broader Concept

When Minnesota first began to provide for state aid to assist school districts in establishing classes for handicapped children, —back in 1915-16,—this group was defined as children who were blind, deaf, mental retarded, or possessing a speech defect. By 1921-22 crippled children were included. The 1957 Legislature added children who have emotional disturbances or special behavior problems.

Varying Programs

For some children, such as for blind and the deaf, special schools provide education. Special classes in the regular schools provide for more. The 1949 Legislature provided for individual instruction in the home, hospital, or sanitorium. By 1955-56, 1,299 pupils were given such instruction, and state aid for that purpose amounted to $206,504.60. Before that time state aid was provided only when there were classes of five or more children.

An Investment Wise And Humane

Special education, training, and care for these children, who face life suffering handicaps through no fault of their own, is an obligation and responsibility for any humane society. We owe it to their parents, to their brothers and sisters, and to ourselves. Fortunately, a great proportion of these children, if given the proper opportunity, can become self sufficient and self-supporting. Many grow up to make superior contributions to our society,—a fact that is attested by the numbers whom we honor for their accomplishments in spite of blindness, deafness, and crippled limbs.

Minnesota is determined to do its best for all such handicapped. Our goal is to provide adequate and appropriate education for all who can benefit from it; and training and care for all who cannot.

As you grow ready for it, somewhere or other, you will find what is needful for what you in a book.

—George Macdonald

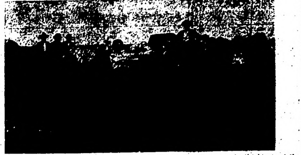
Settling an Argument Out of Court at Wylie



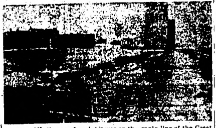
Just what the argument was about or who was involved is not known, but the above picture from the Eckstein collection indicates that there were young fellows in the Wylie community fifty years ago who were willing to slug out their differences. One of the men in the buggy at the left is Charles Eckstein and the dapper young fellows at the right is Ted Fournier, later of Red Lake Falls. It has the appearance of being mighty serious business.

Wylie Had A Ball Team 50 Years Ago

Wylie had a good ball team fifty years ago according to old timers, and the man in uniform in the above picture indicates that this might have been a take-me-out-to-the-ball-game group. The picture is one of a collection that has survived in the possession of the Fred Ecksteins of Black River.

Lena Eckstein, now Mrs. Joe Draeger of Plummer, has identified the group as follows: at left Bert Dargen, Walford Walback and Jim Ford. At the right are Joe Dargan, Jim Dreeland, John Dargan, Tena Eckstein, Lena Landman and Ann Landman. In the buggy are two Ford boys, Celia Ford, a Miss McKerney and Ted Fournier.

When Wylie Was On the Main Line



When Wylie was founded it was on the main line of the Great Northern from Crookston to St. Hilaire. In 1905 the train service was discontinued and only a spur from St. Hilaire was left to serve the two elevators shown above. A few snow drifts and lots of water indicates that this was a wet spring.

Pioneers

who started a general store in Wylie in 1890. The store was destroyed by fire in 1902 and was replaced by a two story structure, the second floor being used as a community hall. To this pioneer couple were born 12 children.

Recall 50 Years Ago When Wylie Was Thriving Village

At the turn of the century Wylie was a hustling village in Red Lake county, an important business center on the main line of the railroad from Crookston to Thief River Falls. Until 1894 St. Hilaire was the end of the line and Thief River Falls was just another inland settlement.

Roger Eckstein, grandson of the Nick Ecksteins who settled in Wylie established a store in 1890, has assembled some interesting facts about the once active community that no longer exists. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckstein, are farming in Black River township.

Besides the Eckstein general merchandise store there were two grocery establishments, one operated by a Mr. Snidseng and the other by a Mr. Rumson. Snidseng had been in business in St. Hilaire. In seeking a better location he had considered both Thief River Falls and Wylie, but it appeared to him that Wylie had the better possibilities and that is where he located.

There was a Leopard Hardware store and lumber yard. Pete Hansel was the village blacksmith, Christ Borgen had a shoe store and Anton Anderson kept a saloon. A cheese factory was operated by Ted Fournier, later of Red Lake Falls. Wylie was located in a good farming territory and supported two elevators, one a Hanson and Barzen branch and the other a branch of the St. Anthony milling company, managed by Swan Swanson.

Rural delivery service was established in 1903 and a watchmaker named Anderson carried mail the first year. From then until the service was discontinued in 1936 the mail was delivered by Henry Schneider, father of Joseph Schneider of Thief River Falls. The post office was closed several years later, and Wylie ceased to exist.

SMILEY . . .

See M lern Farm Metho on Tour

Have you ever heard "streamlined" dairy farming, looked over a herd of Holsteins that live in first class luxury all day, never forced to go to pasture and never bothered by flies? Or have you seen a herd of 35 Dakota heifers that will go to market after 140 days of planned feeding at well over 900 pounds each? Or glanced at a man-made stock water pond created by a bulldozer?

These are a few of the interesting operations in this area a group of local businessmen saw Tuesday evening when the Chamber of Commerce sponsored its third annual farm tour. More than 35 people turned out for the two-hour tour, which was supervised by Don Lawrence, farm planner with the soil conservation service.

First stop was the John Wold dairy farm.

This set-up has much in common with the modern-day "minute car-wash." The set-up enables one man to milk a herd of 35 cows in 90 minutes. The cows enter the milking house in groups of three. Standing on a raised platform, each cow is washed and milked mechanically, while she munches contentedly on a feeding of oats. After the process is completed, the cows file out the exit into the shaded farmyard and three more enter.

When it comes to feeding, the Wold herd really goes first-class. Wold employs a new silage type feeding process. Each day grass is cut and placed in a community feeder, thus eliminating necessary grazing land by one-third. There is no reason for the herd ever to leave the shaded comfort of the farm yard. Each day the herd is sprayed to insure fly-free comfort.

The second and third stops of the tour were concerned with experimental growing of crops. On the Art Rambeck farm the group surveyed experimental plots where sugar beets grow to prize winning proportions. And soybeans are being grown along with 31 varieties of flax, wheat, speltz, oats and barley by the University of Minnesota to determine which varieties are better adapted to the region.

Experimental plots on the Jens Kiark farm proved beyond all doubt that it pays a farmer to fertilize properly. On a lot 80 by 120 feet one variety of barley is growing in 40 different conditions of fertilization ranging from no-fertilizer to maximum. Nitrogen, phosphate and potash were used in varying proportions from 0 to 120.

En route to the fourth and last stop, the Andy Skaar farm, the ten-car caravan stopped to survey a group drainage ditch project and to look over fields of oats and pea silage and forest barley.

On the Skaar farm the group also viewed a lot of good and choice beef on the hoof. After 140 days of planned feeding the herd of 35 Dakota heifers will be ready for market. To weigh in as good and choice stock the herd will be fed 10 to 16 pounds of grain for the last 60 to 90 days.

C. E. Hellquist, retired Soo Line locomotive engineer and pioneer resident of this community, was named chairman of the history gathering committee of the Pennington County Historical society at a meeting in the court house last Wednesday evening, it was announced by Herman A. Kjos, society president.

Paul Engelstad was named vice chairman of the committee, and Mrs. Frank Clinton, executive secretary.

The committee, which plans to name a representative in each of the 21 townships to assemble historical data from his community, named Ernest Swanson of Goodridge to organize the work in the nine townships in the east end of the county; Engelstad and Alfred Longren to organize the next square of nine townships; and Hellquist and Anton Hall to organize the workers in the city of Thief River Falls and the townships of Numedal, Bray and Polk Centre.

Soo Line Adds Diesel Fuel Oil Storage Tank

250,000-gallon Tank Near Roundhouse Finished August 15

A major addition to the Soo Line terminal facilities at Thief River Falls is the erection of a quarter-million gallon capacity diesel fuel tank, Division Supt. E. A. Hameraki stated this week. The tank is located at a point about 300 feet south of the roundhouse. It is 35 feet in diameter and 35 feet in height and is surrounded by a reinforced concrete dyke wall 8 inches thick standing 5 feet above the ground line.

In order to secure a solid base for the tank and dyke wall it was necessary to excavate the ground to a depth of 5 feet, removing the soft material and replacing it with gravel which was thoroughly compacted.

The excavation work started June 1st and was handled by Elmer C. Johnson of Warren, Minnesota. The reinforced concrete used in the dyke wall, which totaled 171 cubic yards, was supplied by the Falls Concrete and Supply Company of Thief River Falls.

The contract for the manufacture and erection of the tank was awarded to the Wm. Bros Boiler Manufacturing Company of Minneapolis, Minn. The work of tank erection started July 15th and will be completed about August 15th. The cost of the project is $32,790.

The tank was erected to provide a reserve supply in case of a temporary shortage in the available supply of oil, or any difficulty in transporting it.

Similar installations are being erected currently at Glenwood, Minnesota, and Portal North Dakota.

Since the airlines started to operate out of Thief River Falls four and one-half years ago, the number of scheduled flights has been increased to the present four flights daily, seven days a week.

Darlene Fuller and John Newland Wed July 20

At a double ring ceremony at the First Lutheran church Saturday, July 20 at 8:00 p.m. Darlene Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Art Stenseth of this city, became the bride of John Newland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Newland, also of this city. Rev. Marvin O. Carlson performed the ceremony in the presence of 150 friends and relatives.

Evonne Drotts, friend of the bride, presided at the organ for the traditional nuptial music and also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Martin Solseng, Jr. as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride was lovely in a floor length gown of white tulle and satin with a Chantilly lace overskirt and a fitted lace bodice featuring a scalloped neckline and long sleeves which came to a point over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of French illusion net was held in place by a crown of pleated tulle and sequins. Her only jewelry was a matching set of single strand pearl necklace and earrings. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations.

Yvonne Newland of New York, N. Y., sister of the groom, was the maid of honor and Mrs. Kent Knutson of Minneapolis and Mrs. Merlyn McAdam of this city, were the bridesmaids. They wore identical ballerina length formals of lace and net over taffeta, with the maid of honor in pink and the bridesmaids in blue. Their pearl earrings were gifts from the bride. They carried bouquets of pink roses and white carnations.

Kenneth Cartier of Red Lake Falls, brother-in-law of the bride, was the bestman and Dale Gram and Arden DuChamp both of this city were the groomsmen. They wore white dinner jackets with dark trousers and carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Stenseth, mother of the bride, chose a navy blue sheath dress with white accessories and Mrs. Newland, mother of the groom wore a dusty rose dress with navy blue accessories. They both wore corsages of pink roses and white carnations.

Shows to Be Sponsored by Member Clubs of 9th Dist. Horticultural Society

Three district flower shows, sponsored by members of the Ninth District Horticultural Society of Minnesota, will be held in three locations in early August in Red River Valley counties. The shows will be August 6 in Hawley, August 7 at Stephen, and Tuesday, August 13, at Williams in Lake of the Woods county. Local garden club presidents in charge of arrangements for each show are Mrs. E. P. Johnson, Hawley; Mrs. Art Werner, Stephen, and Mrs. Edward Bowman, Williams.

Exhibitors will compete for the Munn trophy, the Oftedahl Gladiolus trophy, and the Citizens State Bank, Roseau, trophy—an award to the garden club whose members total the most points at a district show. C. M. Pesek certificates of merit will be given to the high-point individual exhibitor at each show. The Red River Valley Development Association will furnish ribbons for all classes in the premium list.

Mrs. Lewis Handegaard, past president of the Society from Hendrum, is general show superintendent. Officers of the Ninth District Society for 1957 are: Mrs. Clifford L. Olson, Halstad, president; Mrs. Earl Mallinger, Oslo, vice-president, and B. C. Beresford, Northwest School and Experiment Station, Crookston, secretary-treasurer.

Thirty-four garden clubs have affiliated with the Society for 1957. This is the largest number of clubs which have belonged to the organization. Garden club members are urged to exhibit at the show nearest them. When the third show at Williams is completed on August 13, the winners of the awards will be made known.

Potato Growers to Ballot on Marketing Agreement in August

Red River Valley potato growers will be deciding on whether they will want a federal marketing agreement for potatoes at a referendum which will be held the latter part of August, according to Lyle W. Currie, executive secretary, of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association.

Word just received from the USDA at Washington, indicates that the department will have the proposed marketing agreement ready about August 22, and that a referendum can be held about that date.

The price disaster of the past potato marketing season stated the request for a federal marketing agreement for the Red River Valley area. A request for an agreement was made to the Department of Agriculture in March and a hearing was held in May on a proposed marketing agreement. All testimony at the three-day hearing which was held in Grand Forks was favorable to a marketing agreement.

The Marketing Agreement Act which was passed in 1937, has its purpose, the establishing and returning of parity prices to growers, and general improvements of an industry's position by better marketing, through establishment of minimum standards of quality. Price improvement is attached through a marketing agreement by adjusting supplies to market requirements, by means of quality standards that may be shipped from an area. After a crop is produced, if a surplus exists, then the supply available for market, may be whittled down through better grade standards. Marketing agreements cannot acreage or production as this is not permitted under the Marketing Agreement Act.

Most growers do not believe that a marketing agreement will mean a profit for the potato grower every year, but they do believe that in years of surplus, such as last year, that a marketing agreement can help to prevent the disastrous losses that always accompany such surplus situations. The theory of a marketing agreement is that in surplus years, supplies can be reduced by withholding the lower qualities from market, this will reduce the total quantity of potatoes being offered, which will tend to strengthen prices, and with only the better qualities going to market, better acceptance will also result.

A marketing agreement can be compared to enabling legislation. It permits an industry to regulate itself within the limitations provided in the agreement adopted by the area. However, although the authority for regulation is there, the industry uses it only whenever it feels it can benefit from doing so. Approval of a marketing agreement does not automatically impose regulations. The industry must request such regulation as it wants and such automatically terminates at the end of each market season. Any regulation may be changed or terminated during the season if conditions change. This flexibility is the one desirable feature that a federal marketing agreement has which the present state programs which the Valley industry has been operating under the past few years does not have.

To help the industry understand the marketing agreement, committeemen have been selected in each potato producing township in the Valley. Meetings have been held with this committee and they in turn will discuss the marketing agreement with their neighbors. Meetings will also be held with all growers during August.

Chemicals Reduce Potato Sprouting While in Storage

Sprouting Reduced by More Than 75 Per Cent, Says 'U' Horticulturist

A chemical applied to potatoes during the growing season can practically eliminate the sprouting problem later on when the spuds are stored.

R. E. Nylund, horticulturist at the University of Minnesota, has found that maleic hydrazide—also called "MH"—reduced sprouting by more than 75 percent when applied a 2 pounds per acre between the full bloom and post-bloom stages.

The treatment worked equally well either as an overall spray or as a "basal" spray—applied only to the bottom part of the potato plant. Potatoes sprayed this way were then stored at for 8 months with little or no sprouting.

Keeping stored potatoes from sprouting has long been a problem. Common practice has been to store them at low temperatures to help prevent sprouting, but this raises another problem. When stored below 50 degrees, potatoes tend to produce undesirable dark potato chips and French fries.

Another way is to treat stored potatoes in mid-December with a material called MENA. But this method is practical only for home use, because nobody who stores potatoes in large quantities would be able to treat them in mid-December.

In recent years, Nylund tried applying MH at different stages of growth, and found that sprouting was reduced most when the material was applied in the late full-bloom to post-bloom stage. At that time, the tubers under the vines are 1-2 inches in diameter.

Silage Type Feeding

Last Tuesday local businessmen who went on the Chamber of Commerce Farm Tour got a first-hand look at some of the methods employed on John Wold's "streamlined dairy farm." By using a community type feeder Wold reduces the amount of land necessary for maintaining his herd by one-third. Each day new hay and grass is cut and brought into the cattle eliminating the long established practice of putting the cattle out to pasture.

State Fair Plans Exciting Program

Exposition Will Open in St. Paul August 24

Minnesota's biggest annual attraction—the Minnesota State Fair—will open its gates to an expected swarm of more than one million visitors during the 10 days beginning Saturday, August 24, and ending Labor Day, September 2.

A flock of innovations have been blended with the major traditional events of former years, supporting the exposition's boast of being the "world's greatest fair".

Leading entertainment attractions this year will be nine days of speedway car and stock car auto racing; nine nights of the new musical spectacular, "West-O-Rama", in front of the grandstand; 10 afternoon and evening Horse Shows in the Hippodrome; two Grandstand performances of Art Swenson's Thrillcade; an all-star boxing card in the Hippodrome on opening Saturday night, and a dozen tented shows and 22 riding devices on the Royal American Shows Midway.

The biggest farm machinery show ever assembled, an outstanding livestock exhibition, and prize-winning displays of agriculture and horticulture products, fine arts, butter and cheese, bees and honey, and baking, canning, needlework, and handcrafts will be on view throughout the 264-acre fairgrounds located midway between the Twin Cities loops.

A host of celebrities from the sports, entertainment, and educational fields will be on hand to greet visitors from throughout the middle west.

The Minnesota State Fair is a mammoth display case containing the select output of Minnesota farms, homes and factories. Since 1855, it has been "the place to go" for persons seeking amusement and enlightenment.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Well, back to the salt mines again! Vacation is again something to look forward to next year, way off in the dim future. Feels good to be back, in a way—except that no vacation we've ever had has been long enough to have all the fun we'd looked forward to having and still be rested up before getting back in harness!

For our money this is the nicest time of the whole year. The early summer rains have come and gone, the growing crops are almost mature and the vegetation is at its pleasant greenest. It's that period just before things start downhill toward fall, a small season in itself which we in these northern latitudes have least of.

If we were ever to be given a longer summer it's this middle part we'd want extended, above all!

A lot of people complain about the heat and humidity but it does have one big advantage over cold weather—you can swelter without running up a big cooling bill. We'll take summer's hot blasts any day to those days in late January when you're running about $25 worth of fuel per month through the furnace trying to get some of the heat you complain about in these short summer months.

Oh well—complaining seems to be a favorite human pastime anyway. Some people wouldn't be happy in Paradise!

We note one reader is giving the city council "what-fer" over the mosquito situation. We were just wondering ourselves if they were using 2-4D instead of DDT in that fogger, the way some shrubbery has reacted after presumed fogging. (We say "presumed" because we didn't actually see the fogger go by due to our being out of town. It's the only logical way we can explain Missus' lilac's wilting the way they did. We also note and have heard of other shrubbery being wilted.)

Did anyone besides yours truly see that fowl running around on the sidewalk at the corner of Main and 2nd ave. last Monday evening? We weren't quite certain what it was but from all appearances we figure it must have been a half-grown pheasant. The poor critter was highly confused by the traffic going by and hope it managed to get out to open country again.

Wife to husband, as they passed a beautiful gal on the sidewalk: "That's all right, old boy. Sometimes I wish you were single, too."

Then there was a bank clerk who said "No, I can't bring home samples—but I can get it wholesale."

Well, we haven't heard any comment on the proposition that all but essential businesses here in town, close Saturdays at least during the summer months. We guess having two days per week off is too much of a pipe dream—or haven't folks around these parts heard we're living in the 20th century?

Contrary to what all the traffic experts say, it isn't speed that kills—it's those sudden stops. So long!

No great deed is done by falterers who ask for certainty.—George Eliot

Barbecue Chicken

Golden brown chicken, barbecued out of doors, is a taste treat that will tempt appetites of young and old alike.

For the 4-H members enrolled in the poultry project, as well as all other 4-H members, this would be a real opportunity to surprise the whole family with a delicious chicken barbecue.

To be sure the chicken is tender, it's best to select 9 to 12-week old broilers or fryers weighing from 1¾ to 2½ lbs.

Be sure to select well meated, top quality and uniform-sized birds. If you are buying the birds, buy them cut in halves and ready for the grill.

Directions for barbecuing chicken are as follows:

Place quarters or halves of chicken on the grill with the skin side up and as close together as possible so there is a minimum loss of heat. Immediately baste the pieces with barbecue sauce. Clean, new dish mops with wooden handles are ideal for this purpose. Fiber brushes may also be used.

If you are barbecuing for the first time, you may want to try a mild barbecue sauce of the New England variety. For 10 halves of chicken you will need 1 cup water, 2 cups vinegar, ½ pound butter and 2 tablespoons salt. Bring sauce to a boil and keep hot on the grill.

Turn the birds every five or six minutes and baste after each turning. Use tongs or a pair of clean white canvas gloves to turn the pieces. Sticking with a fork will permit the juices to run out.

Long, slow cooking is the key to a successful barbecuing. Allow at least an hour and a quarter, or an hour and a half of cooking time for chicken.

The chicken is done when the drumstick can be easily turned loose from the meat.

Generally one layer of briquettes will be sufficient to cook one batch of birds.

Barbecued chicken is best when served piping hot. We suggest that the rest of the menu be ready to serve immediately after the birds have finished cooking.

Accent should be on the barbecued chicken — so keep the rest of the menu simple. Cole slaw, cranberry sauce, potato chips, hot buns, ice cream cups and a beverage will be easy to serve and good accompaniments to the chicken.

What is a better way to enjoy our true summer weather than to sit down and relax with a cool, refreshing summer drink?

Make a mouth-watering lime cooler with 2 scoops of vanilla ice cream and 2 scoops of lime sherbert whipped together.

A Scotchy shake combines ice cream, butterscotch sauce and nutmeg. Start with 4 scoops of vanilla ice cream, combine about 1 tablespoon of butterscotch sauce and a bit of nutmeg with the ice cream and blend them well.

For a refreshing pineapple float use 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons pineapple syrup, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, and a few grains of salt. Blend the ingredients thoroughly and serve with a topping of whipped cream or ice cream.

With plenty of fruits, juices, and ice cream, you can have a variety of refreshing drinks for hot summer weather.

Pasture Renovation

These early August days are ideal for renovating pastures. Many Pennington pastures could have higher carrying capacity from better grass stands.

But before you renovate an area, it's wise to first make certain the area is worth it.

Bill Hueg, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota, points out that renovating costs from $25 to $30 per acre. So even though renovation may increase pasture yields 3-5 times, Hueg advises farmers to first decide whether it might be even better to use that investment—for fertilizer, seed and better crop management — on existing cropland.

If you do decide to renovate, take a complete soil test to find the plant nutrient needs. Start renovating with a disc or field cultivator as soon as possible now, because pastures are in their worst condition at this time of year and plants are most easily killed.

Continue renovating until freeze-up. Then in early spring, apply fertilizer as called for by the soil test, before the last discing or at planting time.

Seed the pasture about a half inch deep. A bushel of oats per acre may be added as a companion crop, then pastured off when it's about 10 inches high.

A good general purpose seeding mixture for renovated land is 5 pounds alfalfa, 2 pounds red clover, ½ to 1 pound ladino and 6 to 8 pounds brogegrass. Don't overlook trefoil. It has done well on a few farms in this area and it doesn't bloat livestock. For well drained soil, 6 to 8 pounds alfalfa and 6 to 8 pounds bromegrass have proven satisfactory in field tests.

Tractor Accidents

Tractors and other machinery are still major causes of farm work accidents.

Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota shows that 27 of the 31 farm work accident deaths in the state last year resulted from machinery.

And of the machinery caused from work accident deaths, 21 resulted from tractors. There were another 10 tractor accident deaths classified by the Minnesota Department of Health as "farm home" or "highway" accidents during the year, making a total of 31 deaths from farm tractors in 1956.

Actually, that's a decrease from recent years. There were a total of 35 deaths from tractor accidents in 1955 and 37 in 1951.

Other farm work accident deaths resulting from machinery included 3 power takeoff shaft accidents, 1 accident involving wagons, 1 with a hay loader and 1 accident involving a grain elevator.

In 1955 there were 7 deaths from accidents with power takeoff shafts alone.

Since there is more machinery on Minnesota farms than ever, the slight decrease in farm work accidents is an encouraging sign. There is constant need for more caution with farm tractors and other machinery.

Power takeoff shafts always need to be covered with proper shields. Tractors need to be hitched and operated carefully to avoid tipping over — which often results in fatal tractor accidents.

Weed Control

A mixture of Randox and 2,4-D ester gave good weed control in corn in University of Minnesota field tests this spring and summer.

These chemicals when applied as a pre-emergence "band" spray controlled weeds so well that, in some cases, it was possible to eliminate one cultivation later on.

The tests were conducted at the Waseca station.

Band spraying means placing the spray directly over the corn rows in bands about a foot wide. In the Waseca tests, this is done with a sprayer mounted on the planter. Pre-emergence spraying means applying the chemical after the corn is planted but before it comes up.

In all cases, the 2,4-D was applied at ½ pound per acre. The researchers tried Randox at 4, 5, and 6 pounds per acre. Heavier applications, in general, gave better control.

Results were equally good when the spray was broadcast over the entire field, but that practice was much more expensive than band spraying. Chemical expenses ranged from $3 to $6 per acre for band spraying Randox, depending on the spraying rate. For broadcast spraying, the same chemical varied from $12 to $18 per acre.

Dunham and Thompson also found that weeds were controlled well when Randox and 2,4-D amine were applied in the "coleoptile" stage. The coleoptile is th first corn leaf that coms up. However, a farmer would need to be careful when using this practice. If the corn is sprayed too late, plants with two leaves up will be damaged by the spray.

2 Minor Accidents in City This Week

One Motorist Charged with Drunken Driving

Only two non-injury accidents of a minor nature were reported by city police this week and none were reported by the sheriff and highway patrol as drivers in the Pennington county area continue to keep a good safety record intact for the year so far.

About $85 total damage resulted at 4:50 p.m. Tuesday when a pickup truck driven south on Main av. by Sigurd Peder Wik, city, collided with a northbound car driven by Mrs. Marie Olson, also a city resident.

The left rear fender of Mrs. Olson's car was damaged to about $75 extent while the only damage to the Wik pickup was an estimated $10. Wik was charged with driving under the influence of intoxicants.

The second accident occurred at 9:40 p.m. Wednesday near the Farmers Union station on E. 3rd st. Claude E. Johnson, city, was driving west on E. 3rd when he was struck in the rear by a car driven by Howard Hasby, city, who had turned onto 3rd from Atlantic av.

About $115 damage was caused to the Johnson car and $45 to the Hasby vehicle and Hasby was charged with driving with illegal brakes as a result of the collision.

Mercury Hits 88 Mark Wednesday

No Rainfall Recorded in Area During Week

The rains may come and the rains may go but the high heat and humidity in the northwest Minnesota area will keep right on until the arrival of cooler temperatures Friday, according to the weatherman.

The weather outlook for today and Friday is for warmer temperatures, along with cloudy skies and scattered thunderstorms.

The high temperature for the period since Monday was 88 Wednesday and the low was 51 Monday. The only precipitation noted was the result of harried householders trying to keep their lawns from turning brown with liberal sprinkler applications.

High temperatures today, according to the KTRF forecast, will range from 90 to 95 and lows will be in the 65-68 bracket. It may be somewhat cooler Friday.

Erskine Merchants Bow to Thieves 10-9

Duane (Bozo) Emard's line-drive single into right field in the 9th inning, scoring Dale Perusse and Frank Gunderman, gave the Thieves a thrilling 10 to 9 uphill victory over the powerful Erskine Merchants in a Northern Minny league game played here Wednesday night.

This evening, Thursday, the Thieves will travel to Erskine where, under the lights, they will meet the Winger Tigers in the playing off of a postponed game. Game time at Erskine is slated for 8:00 P. M.

In last night's excitement-packed game, and it was, filled with lusty hitting and sparkling defensive plays, the Merchants, on five unearned runs, gained a 5 to 0 lead in the 1st inning. With two men away, as the result of nifty Joey Poole to Gunderman to Perusse double play, Erskine's Lyle Westrum gained a life on an error. Clark (Corky) Johnson then poled one of Bob Hallameck's pitches over the left field fence. Dick Evenson singled, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and scored when Bob Cornforth blasted a home run over the center field fence. A pair of errors and Ron LaChance's single scored Al Carlson with Erskine's fifth run of the inning.

The Thieves, trailing by a 7 to 0 score entering the last half of the 4th inning (the Merchants had tallied twice in their half of the 4th) rallied for a four-run outburst. Singles by Emard and Gunderman, plus three walks and an error accounted for the scores.

But to hurry on to the game-winning 9th inning. The score, entering the last half of the 9th was 9 to 8 for Erskine. Glen Carlson opened the inning by becoming a Lyle Westrum strikeout victim. (Westrum had replaced Johnson on the mound for Erskine in the 5th inning): Curly Gasperlin doubled to left field; Poole followed with a two-base hit; Duane Glass walked; Sid Vraa was out on an infield fly; Perusse walked; and Gunderman, carrying the winning run, also walked. The Thieves had scored two runs, and when Gene Sack walked, Glass came in with another run, and the locals trailed by a run. Corky Johnson had replaced Westrum on the mound to pitch to Sack. Emard then sent the happy fans home by slamming a ringing single into right field.

Final Round Set in Softball Playoffs

Bridgeman and Len's Tire Service in Best-of-5 Series

The men's city softball playoffs have reached the finals, with the league-champion Bridgeman's and the Len's Tire Service teams engaged in a best-of-three series on the East Side diamond.

In first round eliminations, on a best-of-three series, the Bridgeman's defeated the T & S Implement; and the Len's Tires defeated the Bjorkman's squad.

In Monday evening's double-header, Bjorkman's, by a 23 to 12 score, evened their series with the Len's Tires at one game apiece, and the T & S team, with Keith Klungness unloading a "grand slam" home run, defeated the Bridgeman's, 13 to 4, to even their series at a game-all.

On Tuesday evening the "rubber" games were held, and the Bridgeman's behind Bob Carlson's shut out pitching, refeated T & S, 5 to 0, to gain the finals, And the Len's, with Dave Clough hurling, defeated the Bjorkman's team, 4 to 3, in an eight-inning tilt.

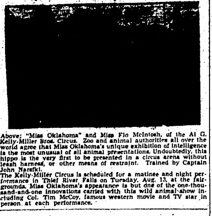
With Miller Circus August 13



Above: "Miss Oklahoma" and Miss Flo McIntosh, of the Al G. Kelly-Miller Bros. Circus. Zoo and animal authorities all over the world agree that Miss Oklahoma's unique exhibition of intelligence is the most unusual of all animal presentations. Undoubtedly, this hippo is the very first to be presented in a circus arena without leash harness, or other means of restraint. Trained by Captain John Narfski.

The Kelly-Miller Circus is scheduled for a matinee and night performance in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, Aug. 13, at the fairgrounds. Miss Oklahoma's appearance is but one of the one-thousand-and-one innovations carried with this wild animal show including Col. Tim McCoy, famous western movie and TV star in person at each performance.

Pain

It is evident, from all the groans and moans that are being heard, that the Northern Minny league is in pain. But whether or not these pains are growing pains is doubtful. These pains more likely stem from some internal trouble, caused by ineligible-player indigestion.

The league, when it was reorganized some years ago, drew up a constitution and a set of by-laws, by which the circuit was to be governed. And the league operated successfully under this constitution.

Several years ago there was a disastrous fire at Terrebonne, which destroyed the mill and elevator at that place, and also destroyed in that fire were the league constitution, by-laws, and various pertinent papers. Ray Ste. Marie was league secretary at the time, and he was also employed by the Terrebonne Milling Co., which accounted for the fact that the league documents were on file at the mill at the time of the fire.

Since that time, the Northern Minny league has operated under a "minutes of the meeting" system; and these minutes leave many loop holes and devious by-ways. In the absence of a specific rule, the league refers to the Minnesota State Amateur Baseball Association's "blue book." And that book is quite liberal.

We hear, and the reports apparently are well-founded, that the Red Lake Falls' Lakers have decided to disband for the balance of the season. Due, it is said, to financial difficulties. Hard up, in other words.

With the disbanding of the Lakers as a league entry, the players have been given their releases, and consequently they are free to play with other Northern Minny league teams within a twenty-five mile radius of Red Lake Falls. The gossip is that Duane (Bozo) Emard and Dale Perusse have decided to cast their lot with the Thieves for the rest of the season and the playoffs. And that Ronnie LaChance and Ernie Berry are Erskine-minded.

What the bust-up of the Lakers, and the player additions to a couple of teams, will do to the Northern Minny league, as the circuit prepares for the playoffs, is problematical. There are a couple of teams that have expressed themselves as being "unhappy" over the recent turn of events. And we can't say that we blame them.

The Thieves, as they make ready for the playoffs, have a legitimate request for player aid. On Thursday morning, catcher-manager Gene Sack will leave town, and his departure will handicap the locals greatly. The Thieves won't have an experienced catcher on the squad. The fact that Bozo Emard will be available should be quite a boon, and if he can get in three regular games during the remainder of the season, he will be eligible for the playoffs. Or the league directors, realizing that the Thieves are hurting in the catching department, could make a catcher available. That's been done before.

The Erskine Merchants received quite a "lift" by the recent addition of Clark (Corky) Johnson to their roster. Since he joined the Merchants, and took over the pitching duties, Erskine has racked up three straight wins and has taken over third place in the standings. Corky's eligibility is vulnerable.

Another Big One

Carl Wahlberg called us to advise that another big walleyed pike had been taken out of the Lake of the Woods waters in the vicinity of Springsteel island.

Trolling a spinner-and-minnow combination off Springsteel island on Tuesday evening, Al Zeigler of Kennedy, hooked and landed a walleye that weighed 11 pounds, 9 ounces. That's a trophy-sized fish.

Carl added that the fishing has been spotty, but that is usually the case during mid-summer.

The pike fishing though, from all the verified reports we've received (and we consider all of the local fishermen to be honorable and truthful) the pike fishing at the Lake of the Woods has been holding up remarkably well.

Closer to home, the ever-cooperative crappies of Union lake have been filling the creels of the panfish fishermen. According to Cliff Overum and Martin Gulbranson, these crappies, or rather the crappies they catch, are king-sized.

Sad Words

"We haven't got it anymore." Those were the sad words of one of the Bjorkmans' softball players following his team's 4 to 3 defeat, and elimination, at the hands of the Len's Tire Service team on Tuesday evening. The win, which gave the Len's the best-of-three series by a two games to one margin, moved the Bjorkman's to the side-lines, and from that vantage point they'll watch the best-of-three series between the Bridgeman's and the Len's.

The game was a thriller as it moved into an extra inning of play, and it was evident that the younger, and more aggressive, Len's had the better "staying" power. Home runs played a big part in the Len's triumph, for Don Engelstad and Joey Poole connected for round trippers. And it's all the more in the favor of the Len's that they were able to rebound from their 23 to 12 defeat on Monday evening. In that game they gave the Bjorkman's a 15-run lead in the 1st inning.

The finals, which are under way at the East Side diamond, appear to be a toss-up. And it will be a bitterly-contested series, too.

Foreigners Will Visit State Farms

Churchmen at Lutheran Assembly Are Invited

Africans, Asians, East and West Europeans are going to have a chance to learn about American farm life and meet some typical farm families Aug. 22 when a special farm tour for delegates and visitors to the Lutheran World Federation international assembly is being held.

Twenty farm families from the Dennison, Farmington and Northfield areas have volunteered to open their farms and homes to these foreign visitors. The farms were selected as being typical for Minnesota by Harold Peterson, extension economist in marketing at the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture, chairman of the tour.

The idea for the Farm Tour came from Dr. Carl E. Lundquist, executive secretary of the Lutheran World Federation; he met many misconceptions about American farming during his visits to other countries, particularly countries behind the Iron Curtain. Accompanying an LWF church delegation on a visit to Czechoslovaki and Poland last fall, he was shown several collective farms and told that these were obviously better than what American farmers had. The farm tour idea was immediately born. Representatives from these countries are coming to Minneapolis for the Assembly, August 15-25. Dr. Lundquist thought they could see for themselves how a collective farm compares with American free enterprise farming.

The 20 farmers will pick up their guests in Dennison, Farmington and Northfield the afternoon of August 22 and take them to their homes. Translators will accompany them where necessary.

Up to 80 foreign churchmen are expected to participate. After a tour of the farms with explanations on how they are run, the guests will join the families for dinner. They will then return to the central meeting places.

Minors to Be Issued New Driver Permits

The drivers license division of the state highway department is inaugurating several new procedures August 1, which will make it increasingly difficult to forge, alter or counterfeit licenses.

G. A. Hatfield, driver license director, annouced that all applicants for a driver's license who are under 21 years old will be issued a provisional license instead of the regular license. The provisional license will in all cases be the twenty-first birthday of the license holder. Anyone under 21 years old seeking to renew or get a duplicate license also will be issued such a provisional license.

Applicants under 18 years of age must have the approval of their parent or guardian. The parent's signature on the application and the applicant's must be notarized or be made on oath before a clerk of court or court officer. If the applicant is 18 but under 21, the parent's approval is not needed, but the signature of the applicant verifying the correctness of age, etc., in the application must still be made under oath.

The changes were authorized in the last session of the legislature and place special emphasis on applications and licenses for minors.

Hatfield pointed out that the new application blanks do not bear the signature of the commissioner of highways as they did formerly. Now the signature is added after the application is processed to eliminate counterfeiting.

To make it even more difficult to alter license certificates a new improved machine useing a different type face will be used to stamp the date of birth into each license certificate.

Masonite Panels Provide Needed Storage Space

How to increase household storage space economically is a question he often is asked by home owners, according to Lloyd Rundquist, manager of the Central Lumber company in this city.

Space to keep clothes, tools, garden and lawn equipment, housekeeping supplies and the various odds and ends that just seem to accumulate always is at a premium.

Rundquist suggests the use of Masonite "Peg-Board" panels for greatly increasing storage space without erecting costly additions to the home. The panels are available at the Central Lumber company along with free plans and advice.

An example he cites is a closet lined with the perforated hardboard. "Using 'Peg-Board' fixtures, you can install several clothes bars at convenient heights instead of having one long bar for everything," he points out. "Also, you can use wall space that otherwise would be wasted."

"'Peg-Board' is one of the best space providers we've got," the lumberman asserts. "Use of it can more than double storage space in many homes."

The key to safety is you.

Centennial Dancers Tour Nearby States

Minnesota's Centennial Calumet Dancers, a group of 14 teen-age boys who specialize in authentic Indian dancing in costums, are scheduled to return to Minnesota Thursday (Aug. 1.) after a six-state, 1,800-mile promotion tour for Minnesota's 1958 Centennial.

Along the way, certificates of honorary Minnesota citizenship were presented to governors and mayors, or their representatives, during performances in 25 communities before thousands of persons.

The boys visited the capitols of Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa during the six-day tour by chartered bus.

Wednesday, the Calumet (which means peace pipe stem) group visited Lincoln, Boys Town, and Omaha, Neb., and Council Bluffs, Iowa.

The final day of the tour includes appearances at Des Moines and Mason City, Iowa, and Albert Lea, Owatonna, Faribault, and Northfield, Minn., before arriving in St. Paul.

Gov. Orville L. Freeman gave the boys a send-off on their good-will tour July 26 at the Minnesota state capitol, charging them to invite citizens in neighboring states to visit Minnesota during its Centennial celebration.

The boys, who earned nearly all their own expense money working at odd jobs during the past year, asked to be goodwill ambassadors for the Centennial Commission.

Art Kingsbury, director of the Calumet group, Forrest Fabel, St. Paul businessman, and Edward Schultz of Minneapolis chaperoned the group. Howard T. Ryan, associate director of the centennial publicity and promotion, also made the trip for press and public relations work.

Hunting Dates for Three Species of Birds Announced

70-day Season Is Set for Rails and Gallinules, and 40 Days for Woodcock

The 1957 hunting seasons for rails, gallinules and woodcock were announced today by James W. Kimball, director of game and fish.

The federal regulations governing these migratory species were recently forwarded to the conservation department by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, U. S. department of interior.

A seventy (70) day season for rails and gallinules has been allowed this year, commencing on September 1 and ending November 9. This 70 day season is the same as that which prevailed last year in the Mississippi flyway. A bag and possession limit of 15 on these species (except sora rails) has been fixed for states in this flyway. A limit of 25 sora daily and in possession has been set for this species.

A forty (40) day season on woodcock, commencing October 1 and ending November 9, will allow hunters a daily bag and possession limit of four and eight respectively.

Waterfowl regulations are not scheduled to be announced until next month, following a review of the breeding ground data currently being gathered in the U. S. and Canada.

Wheat or Pie Plant

It is encouraging to learn that there are simple solutions for some of the problems about which we have been greatly concerned.

The farm problem, is really no problem at all. We had it explained to us the other day by a fellow who knew all the answers. Unfortunately we could not agree with all of his simple solutions.

For simplification let us consider the complex problem in just one of its many aspects. Let's talk about rhubarb.

Rhubarb is not a farm problem, except to the rhubarb grower. There are not enough rhubarb growers to make rhubarb a political problem. We cannot recall, at any rate, any speech by Senator Humphrey, deploring the plight of the pie plant planters.

Pie plant is not considered one of the basic crops, like tobacco and peanuts. The rhubarb raiser is on his own. He is free to grow as many acres of rhubarb as he wants to, and the government has no rhubarb in storage and no rhubarb has been made available for the school lunch program.

We cannot recall reading any official reports on the progress of the pie plant crop or the possible market demand. Apparently the pie plant planter is entirely on his own and must figure out for himself both his production and marketing problems.

The rhubarb raiser no doubt has discovered how to grow twenty bundles of rhubarb where only ten bundles grew before. But he also is in very direct contact with his market, and he knows what his market will absorb at a fair price. He knows from experience that doubling his production is not necessarily going to double his income. He knows from experience that doubling the production may mean selling at half the price.

Let's agree that the production and marketing problems of the rhubarb raisers differ in many ways from the problems of those who produce for the needs of the more general food market. Basically, however, the problem is the same. The justification for production is in the market, and the market is an aution in which the value of any commodity is determined by the eagerness of the buyers to bid and pay.

The old relationship between supply and demand in determining value will continue to prevail, regardless of what our personnel wishes or interests may be. Whether we are selling wheat or pie plant, our problem is basically the same.

A Good Appointment

Governor Orville Freeman has appointed Frank Marzitelli of St. Paul to a newly created position as administrative assistant to the state highway commissioner. This is a good appointment.

Marzitelli is a strange name in rural Minnesota. He would have more difficulty than the Governor has had in establishing himself as a direct descendant of Eric.

But in spite of his hereditary shortcomings Frank Marzitelli is an outstanding native son with an exceptionally fine record of public service to his credit in St. Paul. His good record as a city official in various capacities, in late years as commissioner of public works, is ample recommendation for the greater responsibilities which he now assumes.

The appointment is significant because it recognizes the fact that much of the work and the responsibility of the highway department, for some time to come, is going to be centered in the metropolitan area of the state. To give direction to the many special problems that will come with the development of a system of urban expressways Frank Marzitelli is well qualified.

This marks the beginning of a new era in the building of our system of highways in Minnesota. The system received popular support 37 years ago as a means of getting out of the mud. We now are out of the mud and under the provisions of a new program of federal aid roads we now are entering an era of super-highway construction to relieve the congestion of concentrated traffic.

This is going to be a tremendously expensive program in terms of cost per mile. But in spite of the staggering cost figures the overall problem does not seem to be nearly as formidable as was the seemingly hopeless task we faced back in the early 'twenties.

Hopeful View

We don't know whether it should be classified as good news or bad, but the government is installing new high speed presses for the printing of paper dollars. By October these presses will be turning out one dollar bills at the rate of one-half a million a day.

The new paper money will differ from the old mainly in the addition of "In God We Trust". That sounds like we can forget for the time being the promises made in the resolutions adopted by the Republican and Democratic national conventions. Somehow it gives us renewed hope for the future.

Too much rain is bad, and not enough rain is bad too. While some areas, including ours, have been getting too much moisture, others are suffering because of moisture deficiency. Atlantic coast states, from the Carolinas to New England, are burned out, reducing the supply and increasing the demand for many crops. Hereabouts the farmers who sell their year's labor in some form of livestock product are going to average out fairly well.

A New Alliance Born

(Hoard's Dairyman)

An extremely interesting meeting was held in Washington recently. Representatives of 11 national and regional farm organizations, representing producers of individual commodities, met "to discuss a joint approach to the solution of agricultural problems on a commodity-by-commodity basis."

Represented at the meeting were the American Soybean Association, U. S. Poultry and Egg Association, National Turkey Federation, American Rice Growers Co-operative Association, United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, Vegetable Growers Association of America, National Potato Council, National Swine Growers Council, National Federation of Grain Cooperatives, National Association of Wheat Growers, and the National Milk Producers Federation.

At this early hour it is difficult to predict the true significance of this development. A second conference is scheduled for August 6. Representatives of other commodity producer associations will be invited. All this does indicate to us, however, obvious dissatisfaction with the present course of farm policy. Perhaps outside the Halls of Congress a "farm bloc" is being born which may serve to replace the Farm Bloc which crumbled with the retirement of Representative Clifford Hope of Kansas, the adhesive force who previously held it together and was largely responsible for its effectiveness.

We welcome this indication of cooperation among commodity groups. We endorse the commodity-by-commodity approach. This does not mean, however, that the interest of an individual commodity can be given priority over general agricultural welfare or the interests of producers of any other specific commodity. There must be coordination to serve not only the producer of one commodity, but also all agricultural welfare and the public good, too.

Experimental Plots on 5 West Marshall Co. Farms Inspected

Much useful information was gained on last Thursday's plot tour in the southwest part of Marshall County. Carroll Shamberger, new vocational agriculture instructor at Alvarado high school, was on hand to discuss the Future Farmers of America variety plot at the Alvarado FFA plot. In this plot were several kinds of grain including new Parkland and Forrest barley.

A soil test taken beforehand indicated a need for a 1-3-0 ratio fertilizer. A mixed fertilizer of 13-39-0 was used on the plot. Each grain variety was divided into three areas. Area 1 was unfertilized, area 2 received 70 lbs. per acre down drill attachment of the 13-39-0, and area 3 received 100 lbs. of 13-39-0 down drill attachment per acre. In each case, the grain receiving the 100 lb. rate of fertilizer was taller, further ahead in maturity and appeared to have a plumper berry.

Shamberger and his students intend to harvest samples of each of the plots and run a bushel weight and plumpness test on the grain.

The second stop was at the Mallinger Brothers potato variety plot two miles east of Oslo. Many new varieties of potatoes are under observation but tuber development is only beginning.

The third stop was at the Ted Ranstrom farm northeast of Alvarado. There the group saw a few grain varieties and also a demonstration research plot on various amounts of fertilizer on flax. In this plot, and also a similar one on flax in Red Lake County, phosphate is applied with the seed at the rates of 0-lbs., 10-lbs., 20-lbs., 40-lbs., 80-lbs. and 120-lbs. per acre. Nitrogen at 0-lbs., 20-lbs., 40-lbs. and 80-lbs. per acre broadcast and potash at 40-lbs. per acre broadcast.

Although this field was badly damaged by hail a stand count taken before the storm indicated slight seed burning of the flax by even small amounts of phosphate and heavy seed burning at the 80-lbs. and 120-lb. rate.

The fourth stop was at the Leo Pagnac farm where a 1-3-0 fertilizer was applied to barley at approximately 80-lbs. per acre.

A check strip was left by Pagnac which could be seen lagging behind the whole growing season, however, since the barley had reached its full height, the check strip had caught up and could not be easily detected.

The fifth stop was at the Art K. Swanson farm in Bigwoods township. Swanson exhibited a field of spring wheat, part of which he followed the fertilizer recommendation "to the letter," calling for 20-lbs. nitrate broadcast beforehand, followed by 100 lbs. of a 1-4-0 ratio fertilizer or 11-48-0 down drill attachment with the seed. The total cost per acre of the fertilizer amounted to $8.10 per acre. In spite of heavy hail damage, it was generally agreed that Mr. Swanson should be able to expect a bushel increase over the unfertilized for large enough to pay for the $8.10 worth of fertilizer.

Also, on Mr. Swansons farm, the group studied a weed control demonstration on flax. A small unsprayed area was considered a complete loss. The sprayed area was tall, well filled with bolls and promises to give an excellent yield.

The conclusion of those on the tour was that it pays to test soil to see what analysis of fertilizer and how much is needed. Also, it ist just as important to practice good weed control along with good cultural practices to get good fertilizer response.

State Highway Dept. Promotes 4 to New Duties

W. S. Ekern of Detroit Lakes Is Named Chief of Construction Division

State Highway Commissioner L. P. Zimmerman today announced four major appointments in the state highway department, two of them to head divisions in the department and two for top district posts at Detroit Lakes and Marshall.

The appointments, effective immediately, are:

W. S. Ekern, 48, district engineer at Detroit Lakes, to be construction engineer. As construction division head, he will direct all trunk highway construction in the state.

Dwight T. Burns, 54, assistant construction engineer, to be plans, surveys and design engineer. He will head the plans, surveys and design division.

Lynn Carlson, 43, assistant district engineer at Brainerd, to succeed Ekern as district engineer at Detroit Lakes.

Harold W. James, 56, assistant district engineer at Willmar, to be maintenance district engineer at Marshall, succeeding Roy A. Gilbertson who died June 10.

Ekern, who has occupied his Detroit Lakes post the past 2½ years succeeds John H. Swanberg, promoted June 1 to be chief engineer of the highway department. Previous to going to Detroit Lakes, Ekern was maintenance district engineer at Mankato for five years. He has been in the state Highway department since 1931.

Burns replaces G. G. Gladman who retired in June as a regular department employee. Gladman is continuing with the department, however, as its liasion engineer with private engineering firms engaged on a consulting basis to prepare highway designats. A 26-year veteran of the department, Burns has been assistant construction engineer since January, 1955.

Carlson entered the state highway department in 1955 after graduation as a civil engineer from North Dakota Agricultural college at Fargo. He was a draftsman and instrument man, was appointed a project engineer in 1948 and became assistant district engineer at Brainerd four years ago.

James has been in the highway department since 1924.

The four appointments were on the basis of civil service ratings and the accomplishments of the appointees in their previous posts.

Speedway Racing at Minnesota Fair

Races Scheduled from August 25 to Sept. 1

The start of the second half century of auto racing at the Minnesota State Fair this year will feature five days of speedway type racing, it was announced by D. K. Baldwin, secretary.

For the third straight year time trials will be held for the big, Indianapolis-type cars prior to the start of competition. This is necessary because of the huge entry list of the nation's top drivers who seek to compete on the fastest half-mile dirt track in the United States.

More than 325 laps of thrilling action is promised for fans in the five days of big car racing.

Trials are scheduled Friday, August 23, with the fastest cars qualifying for the following week's action. Races scheduled for Sunday, August 25, Tuesday, August 27, Friday, August 30, Saturday, August 31, and Sunday September 1.

The annual Labor Day 50-lap feature will climax the action of September 1 with Emmet (Buzz) Barton of Tampa, Fla., back to defend the title he won last year over a star-studded field.

Other top threats this year include the California duo of Johnny Pouelsen of Gardena and LeRoy Neumayer of Compton, Marvin Pifer of Adrian, Mich. and Don Carr of Indianapolis, Ind.

Sincerity is to speak as we think, to do as we pretend and profess, to perform what we promise, and really to be what we would seem and appear to be.

MY PRIVATE MOVIE

There was a day last summer that I keep tucked away in the back of my mind, like a miniature mental movie all my own. Sometimes, when other days aren't quite as bright as this one was, I take it out and reel off a private showing.

It was a Sunday. We'd been to church, Lee and the three children and I. Then we went home and packed up a big picnic lunch and took it down to the creek. It was one of those perfect summer days poets have written about. Everything tasted better than it could possibly have been. When we'd finished eating, the kids sailed their boats while Lee and I stretched out on the grass and looked up in the blue silk sky, all dotted with fleecy white clouds.

We didn't say anything, but I know that we were both thanking God for all the blessings he'd bestowed on us. I know that we were feeling, just then, particularly at peace with ourselves, and with the universe. I was thinking, too, of our kids as they'd come out of Sunday School that morning, with their bright faces glowing, and I gave a silent vote of gratitude to my parents for having raised me in the Church. Now I was able, in turn, to pass on this priceless heritage to my own children.

In this high pressure, jet-propelled age we're living in, we need so much to guide our children in the right way. Without the aid of the Church I, for one, would be at a total loss—and that afternoon I realized it, with particular emphasis.

I suppose, when you come right down to it, we really didn't do so much, that Sunday. But it was a day that left me with a feeling of family unity, of togetherness . . . I shall never forget.

Sometimes, when things are "at sixes and sevens," a parent needs to take time out to remember just how precious a family is. Whenever I find myself in danger of forgetting—I just dust off my movie and live that Sunday all over again, to myself.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Figures Reveal July Wa[illegible] Torrid

Minn Historical S[illegible] Historical Building Zone 1

Hot'n'dry was the weatherman's prescription in July to cure June weather ills in the Thief River Falls area. It also accurately describes the July weather here—it was hot (and humid) and it was also dry, with only 1.15 inches of rainfall occurring as showers on eight of the 31 days in the month.

According to figures provided by KTRF during the month the July high temperature was a sizzling 94 July 11, followed by 89 July 10 and 28. The coolest day of the month was July 9 when the high temperature was a pleasant 72 and the low of the month was 50. Heaviest precipitation fell July 17, when .52 inches of rain soaked the city and environs.

The warm, dry weather hastened maturing crops, and farmers began to wish for rain by the end of the month, after having too much in June, when 6.15 inches fell, leaving many fields water-logged. July's hot, dry weather was ideal for corn, which had been set back by June's cool, wet weather. Whether area corn crops mature sufficiently remains to be seen, however, due to the slow growth in June.

The July 16 weather information is missing so the averages are slightly inaccurate. The average high, computed on the basis of 30 days, was 83.03 and the average low was 59.83.

July average mean temperature was a humid 71.43 degrees.

Soo Stockyards Heavily Damaged by Fire Saturday

Heavy damage to the Soo Line stockyards, located on the right-of-way north of the Osborne-McMillan elevator resulted Saturday evening at 6:30, apparently originating from a discarded red railroad flare that may have been lit by children. The fire department was called out shortly after midnight Friday when a small trailer box caught fire north of the L. B. Hartz Stores warehouse. The box sustained considerable damage.

Red Lake Falls Man, 52, Killed in Car Crash

Celest Proulx Dies in Collision in RLF Thursday Evening

What was called a "freak" accident by Red Lake county authorities claimed the life of Celest Proulx, 52, of Red Lake Falls about 6 p.m. Thursday.

According to Sheriff Carl Kankel, Proulx, the father of 11 children, was driving west on a north-side street when he became involved in a collision with another car driven by Maynard Kalbakdalen, 22, rural Red Lake Falls, who was going north.

Witnesses stated neither car was traveling very fast. It is believed Proulx's vision was obscured from driving into the sun while a cornfield at the fatal intersection prevented Kalbakdalen from seeing Proulx in time to avoid a collision.

Kankel said the cars apparently struck each other a glancing blow at first and then came together, crushing Proulx, who had evidently been thrown out by the impact, between them. His body was found alongside the Kalbakdalen vehicle while his car continued on for some distance and finally came to rest after running into the porch of a house.

In the car with Proulx at the time of the accident was his 8-year old son, Patrick, who was uninjured. Kalbakdalen was taken to a Red Lake Falls hospital where he was examined and released. An unidentified person in the car with Kalbakdalen escaped injury.

The accident caused Red Lake county's first traffic fatality of 1957, Sheriff Kenkel said. He doubted that an inquest would be held as accident reports show no indication of criminal negligence.

Harvest Now Is General in This Locality

Grain Has Ripened Prematurely Due to Recent Hot Weather

Harvesting is underway in Pennington county in the western and mid sections, with few fields of barley cut in the east part of the county.

The barley bushel weight reported so far ranges from 45 pounds down, says County Agent Paul Stejmaschuk. Heat, water damage, and barley diseases such as septoria and leaf strip, have combined to ripen barley prematurely with the resulting light weights. Barley yields vary with most of it running at about 30 bushels. Some of the better later fields are expected to yield considerably more. Some oats has been swathed, and combining of oats is expected to get underway this week.

Oats is generally good thruout the county with exceptions of places where it was damaged by excessive water. The later oats is expected to show some heat damage, especially on lighter soils where the water holding capacity of soil is low, states Stelmaschuk.

The harvesting of oats-peas silage has been generally completed in the county. This recently adopted feed is well suited for the area and yields this year run six to nine tons per acre. Oats and peas silage is higher in protein than corn and is valuable as dairy feed and for growing livestock.

The flax crop in Pennington county and throughout the valley has been damaged by aster yellows disease, says Stelmaschuk. The flowers hit by this disease turn yellow, then dry up without forming seed. The later flax is particularly hard hit by this disease with damage estimates to the late flax crop ranging from 25 percent and up. The early flax that has formed seed bolls is not affected by aster-yellows. Harvesting of flax is not expected for about three more weeks.

Wheat fields are maturing rapidly with some farmers planning to harvest wheat this week. Rye is being harvested in the western part of the county and harvesting of other crops is expected to be completed this week with favorable weather.

Hawk Scoffs at County Officials

Last week a member of the hawk family perched on top the Pennington county courthouse and began to screech down at employees. Aquacade Here Sunday Draws Large Crowds

Jaycee-sponsored Program Is Staged Effectively in Pool

A large throng of spectators Sunday crowded the banks of Tindolph park, Boy Scout park and surrounding areas to watch the third annual Jaycee Aquacade. A cool north wind, with the mercury in the high 60s, failed to dampen the interest of the crowd.

The show was preceded by a concert by the Legion municipal band, directed by Alvin Anderson, and a procession of motorboats, which formed at the Third St. bridge and proceeded slowly around the bend to the Tindolph park area. Heading the procession was a flower decorated boat bearing Marion Hogenson, Miss Aquacade of 1957. Judge Paul A. Lundgren served as parade marshal.

The program was carried out smoothly, and the large crowds were thrilled by the many difficult feats performed by the skiers.

The two hour show provided several unscheduled spills. The first of falls occured during the first act when the three banner-carrying girls ran into rough water on their second pass before the crowd and lost their balance.

The second spill took place when "Miss Swamp Grass" pulling out from the lily pads in a canoe with two clowns stood up in her precarious perch to bow to the crowd. The result: one tipped canoe, three wet clowns.

The worst of the spills happened during the last act when Stan Gibson took a hard fall off the end of the ski jump. When Gibson made his last elimination run at the jump, then raised to a dangerous 11 foot angle, his rope caught on the edge of the jump causing him to loose his balance.

Gibson bounced off the end of the jump and fell into space a tangled mass of skis, rope and human limbs. Gibson survived the ordeal with minor bruises.

Frank Meads was the lone survivor of the elimination jumping event, when Loren Voldness lost his hold on the tow rope during the last jump when he and Meade both made the jump together.

The results of the variety trial plots located on the Art Rambeck farm and the fertilizer trials on the Jens Kierk farm will receive special attention this evening, August 5. All farmers in the area are invited to observe the results obtained. Two specialists from the University of Minnesota, will be on hand to review the results and to add information on the many varities of crops and their adaption at the experimental stations through the state of Minn.

The tour will start at 7:00 p.m. at the variety trials, one mile west of the sales barn, or one mile west on highway one, one mile north, and one quarter mile west of Thief River Falls.

The fertilizer trials are located ½ mile west of the variety trials.

Farmers in east Marshall county are invited to attend the tour of plots, states Soil Conservation Agent, Fred Heck of Marshall county. The fertilizer trials west of Thief River Falls are a part of the University of Minnesota research projects, over which Heck has supervision in four northwestern counties.

Charles Simkins, soil specialist with the University of Minnesota, will review the results in the fertilizer trials and Herb Johnson, plant pathologist specialist will discuss the results in the variety trials. Refreshments will be served.

The last outdoor concert of the summer season was presented Friday evening at the post-office corner by the Legion municipal band under the direction of Alvin Anderson. A good-sized crowd enjoyed the performance.

Many Veteran Campers from Canada Visit City

From France to Thief River by Tent

Last Saturday Cpl. Mason and his family made the last campsite of a long 8,000 kilometer trip that took them through parts of Europe, across the Atlantic, and the eastern and midwest states to Riverside park. Mason is a member of Royal Canadian Air Force, and has been transferred to Winnipeg.

Four years ago when a family of Canadians stopped at Riverside park to set up their camping equipment a delegation of local children walked over to their campsite and politely asked if they were Canadian Indians.

That was four years ago, since then the family sport of "tenting" has increased in popularity with Canadians and Americans alike.

Last week-end when the Goral family — the original "Canadian Indians" — stopped off at Riverside on their annual August outing, they found their fellow Canadians were well represented.

Each year during the first week of August the city of Winnipeg declares a Civic holiday. And it looks like each year more and more Canadians are spending it in Thief River Falls.

When the Goral family, who had set up their tent Friday evening, woke up Saturday morning they found that they were surrounded by a community of Canadians in tents of every shape and size, small house trailers, and converted rigs of all varieties. The siege began Friday evening and they were still setting up camp Saturday afternoon.

Late Saturday more than 30 families had set up camp. For many it was an annual event; for others it was a "first." Some were new at the tenting sport; others like Corporal Mason, RCAF and his family were seasoned campers. The Mason family began its present camping tour on the Belgium border many months ago. Since then they have traveled more than 8,000 kilometers in their German Volkswagon.

This is their last stop before they return to Winnipeg. During their tour they traveled through France, where Mason was stationed, and up the Normandy coast. They left Europe at Le Havre and arrived in Quebec. Since then they have traveled through the eastern seaboard states and across the midwest.

Why do these Canadian families come to Thief River Falls and how do they find out about the camping site?

Charles Gilraine, a veteran camper who has been coming to Riverside park for the last five years, said his children enjoy the bathing beaches and his wife enjoys the shopping facilities. Gilraine said that each year he meets more and more of his friends at Riverside. Saturday morning three families from the Gilraine neighborhood were represented at the Manitoba colony and more were scheduled to arrive later in the day. Gilraine said each year at this time the neighborhood greeting is "We'll see you at Thief River

Prepare for 4-H Dress Revue Aug. 16

Clothing Members at Mock Revue Last Friday

A large group of 4-H clothing members, leaders and parents viewed the mock dress revue held at the court house Friday evening.

Purpose of the revue was to suggest and point out to 4-H clothing members the correct choice of accessories for various garments, states Marilyn Balstad, 4-H club assistant.

Models were present to show correct and incorrect accessory choice. The twelve models were selected from 4-H clubs in Pennington county. Slides of the Minnesota state dress revue were shown to help point out the importance of good accessory choice.

Helps were given to the girls in preparation for the county dress revue to be held Friday, August 16.

Geraldine Swick, Pennington County's 1956 dress revue queen, was also present to give some very valuable hints to the 4-H clothing members.

Miss JoAnn Johnson presided at the organ for the traditional nuptial music preceding the ceremony. Margaret Myrum accompanied the soloist, JoAnn Johnson as she sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" and "I Love You Truly" during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white net over satin featuring a sabrina neckline with tiny buttons extending down the back and long sleeves which came to a point over the wrists. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a crown of sequins and pearls. She carried a shower type bouquet of red roses and white feathered carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was given in the church parlors by the bride's parents. The serving table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Farm Wages Rise 300 Pct. Since '40

'U' Extension Worker Reports on State Survey

Farm wage rates in Minnesota and the rest of the nation have increased almost three times as rapidly as equipment costs.

Hal Routhe and Ermond Hartmans, extension agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota, point out that farm wage rates have risen by more than 300 percent since 1910, compared to a 76 percent increase for motor power and 130 percent for farm machinery.

They report on these changes in the recent issue "Minnesota Farm Business Notes," a publication of the University agricultural extension service.

Greatest changes in these costs was between 1940 and the early postwar years. Recently the relationships have held steady and all costs have increased at about the same rate.

The greater increase in wage rates, though, has made it more necessary for many farmers to substitute machinery for hired labor, the economists point out. As evidence, he explains that while farm wage rates have tripled in the U. S. since 1910, total expenditures for farm labor have only doubled.

He expects this tred to continue in the future, as long as there is a high employment level in the general economy.

Sen. Thye Reports on Gas Pipeline Status

Senator Thye today called upon the Federal Power Commission to exert every effort to expedite the final stage of hearings and administrative decision on the applications to supply natural gas to Minnesota and other midwest states.

Thye, after a conference with Henry R. Domers, Executive Director of the Federal Power Commission, said: "I have followed the progress of the current hearings by the Federal Power Commission with careful attention and interest. My meeting with Mr. Domers today was for the purpose of receiving an exact status report of the hearings and to make certain that there will be no unnecessary delay. Based upon my study and the conference with Mr. Domers, I believe that the following report presents a fair appraisal of the entire matter:

1. The commission has declared a one month recess in the hearings commencing July 26. This does not mean that work on the Minnesota case will cease for a month. To the contrary the hearing examiner himself plans to spend two weeks of that time going over all of the testimony and making preparations for the next stage of the hearings. The companies involved have been called upon to use the intervening time to prepare for the final questioning, cross examination, and presentation of evidence.

2. I believe that the hearing examiner will hand down his decision in late October and that the commission will make its final decision within sixty days after the hearing examiner makes his recommendations.

3. Much credit must go to Examiner Frank Hall for the work he has already done in preventing delays and recesses. He has consistently scheduled hearings from early morning until late afternoon in an effort to speed up the eventual decision.

4. Minnesota and other midwest states are victims of a situation which finds nearly 50% of the natural gas pipeline industry involved in competition for the last major lucrative market.

5. Two of the three largest pipelines in the United States are involved in the Minnesota case. They are El Paso Natural Gas Company and Tennessee Gas Transmission Company.

"I will continue to make every effort to expedite this entire case. I know that Minnesota will receive natural gas as a result of the Federal Power Commission decision when it is made."

Minor Injuries in Mishap Thursday

Two Slightly Hurt as Cars Collide on Eighth st.

Two local youths suffered minor injuries, but the drivers of two cars involved in a collision at the intersection of East Eighth st. and Dewey av. escaped injury when the crash occurred about noon last Thursday. (See pictures elsewhere in this issue).

According to city police the driver of one car, Richard B. Stokke, 22, was crossing E. Eighth St. going south when it was struck in the right-rear fender by another car going east on Eighth st. and driven by Richard Langevin, 18.

Stokke's sister, Margaret Rose, 18, was thrown from his car and suffered cuts and bruises, while John Stokke, 13, escaped with minor cuts and scratches. They were treated and released from Northwestern hospital.

Stokke was not injured, nor was Langevin, who was alone in his car at the time, police said.

Both cars were damaged to the extent of about $150 apiece. No charges were placed against either driver, police said. The Stokke car was spun around by the impact so that it came to rest facing the opposite direction from its original heading while the Langevin car continued on, jumped the curb at the corner and finally stopped just before hitting a dwelling there.

Two Cars Damaged Thursday Evening

Collision Occurred at Corner of Main and Third

Property damage was the worst feature of two minor accidents which occurred to local drivers recently, although two persons received abrasions in a two-car mishap about noon last Thursday. (Story and pictures elsewhere in today's Times.)

In another two-car collision about 10:20 p.m. Thursday about $100 total damage was done to the cars involved but the drivers escaped unscathed.

The collision occurred when Harold J. Dupree, city, was making a left turn off Main Ave. onto E. Third St. and became involved with a car driven by W. C. Sampel, Forrest River, No. Dak., who was making a right turn off Third St. onto Main Ave.

About $45 damage was sustained to the Dupree car and $55 to the Sampel vehicle, according to city police. No charges were filed.

Brake failure was given as the cause of a freakish accident in which a pickup truck driven by Frank A. Gunnerman, city, jumped the curb, doing an unestimated amount of damage to the building corner post and entry of the Red Lake Fuel Co. building on LaBree Ave. before it stopped. No truck damage was given either.

In the sticky-fingers department, city police said Forkenbock Motors reported someone had taken the tailgate from a 1951 GMC pickup truck on their used car lot sometime during the night of Aug. 1 or early morning of Aug. 2. It was also reported that a carburetor and about 50 light bulbs from the strings across the Forkenbock used car lot had been taken some nights earlier.

No accidents were reported by the county sheriff's office.

Mercury Ranges 88 High to 41 Low

Temperature Due to Rise Again This Afternoon

As everyone knows, the weatherman in northwest Minnesota can come up with some weird combination at times but he topped them all in Tuesday's forecast. He's come up with a prediction of DRY RAIN, or a reasonable facsimile thereof, according to the forecast. More about this later in our weather story.

Temperatures were cool over the weekend but warmer weather is on the way. A high-pressure cell which brought near-freezing temperatures to some parts of the upper midwest is slowly moving out of the area and will be replaced by warmer air.

Highs for the period since Thursday ranged from that day's humid 88 to Saturday's cool 69. Lows for the same period ran from 65 Thursday to 41 this morning. Rainfall amounted to .29 inches in showers Thursday evening.

Here's that KTRF forecast, featuring the dry rain; skies are to remain generally fair today but will cloud over tonight, culminating in scattered afternoon showers or thundershowers Tuesday with GOOD DRYING CONDITIONS. (Yep— that's what the man said—scattered showers with good drying conditions!)

Seriously, today's highs will be 80-85 and lows tonight will be in the 50-60 bracket.

As for the scattered showers plus good drying conditions you'll have to figure that one out for yourself—the forecaster who provides KTRF and the Times with the weather news didn't send an explanation.

The highway patrol here said neither Malberg nor his passenger, Kenneth Noreen (address not given) were injured when the car rolled. However, an estimated $750 damage was caused to the car by the crash.

Shootin' the Breeze

BY Mack Draper

Have you noticed it? There's a hint of fall in the air some mornings lately and it won't be very long before a jacket will feel comfortable in the morning.

Of course we'll probably have a lot of summer yet but the seasonal downgrade will make itself felt more and more from now on. To us fall is a beautiful but somewhat sad time of year. We like it, of course—but dread what follows!

A lot of people have marvelled at how fishing has held up at the lakes this year and we've been asked several times how come we don't bring some of those fabulous Union Lake walleyes home with us.

There are two good reasons: (1) We're usually too tired from water skiing, swimming, etc., to fish when there's most likelihood of snagging one of those monsters. (2) When we do fish those doggone big crappies down there won't give the walleyes a chance at the bait!

And besides, we're tired of fish anyway.

Thief River Falls has more than its quota of good water-skiers, we're convinced after seeing the stars of the Aquacade run through their performances. Furthermore, they'll get better and there'll be more of them as the younger set matures. We think the JayCees have a good thing in their Aquacade and hope have continuing success with it through the years.

We've heard it said that the only difference between a wise man and a fool is that the wise man doesn't make a mistake more than once.

There has been much favorable comment from working people here concerning closing all non-essential businesses here Saturdays and even more favorable comment concerning closing ALL businesses at noon Saturday.

It may never happen here but we hope it does. It's better to do something like this voluntarily than have a union dictate it, as is the case in many.

But, a word to the wise doesn't necessarily suffice.

Well, area farmers are beginning to take what appears to be a pretty good crop—at least the crops within a fairly wide radius of Thief River Falls seem to be good.

We're always glad to see the farmer get a break. Our local economy depends much on the success of the farmer. More local industry that depends on an outside market would be a good economic buffer for Thief River Falls.

It appears such an industry would have to be started by home folks, tho—outside industries are hard to bring into towns in this part of the country. But perhaps it's better that way, after all!

Our local sports nabob, Huck Olson, picks the Milwaukee Braves as the team to beat in the National League this year. We didn't think you were a crowd-follower, Huck!

Just keep your eyes on the St. Louis Cardinals—they've been burning up the league this year and show some inclination to be a razzle-dazzle outfit such as the old '34 Gashouse gang. They've got some good pitching, plus some of the best hitters in the league—plus a solid baseball town behind'em.

And we're for 'em, too—SO LONG!

Canadians Camp in Riverside Park in Large Numbers

Falls for the long week-end."

Ernest Pinnell, Winnipeg businessman, pulled into Riverside park late Saturday with a German pick-up truck, an American portable tent trailer, his English wife, two children and one small dog. How did the Pinnell family find the camping spot? A local gas station attendant told them about it. What do the Pinnells think of Riverside? They apprecite the camping facilities and according to Mr. Pinnell, "he has yet to see a prettier spot to pitch a tent."

Many of the visitors like the Wilfred Sloan family from St. James, Canada, found out about the campingsite from friends who had been here before.

All campers, veterans and new-comers are in agreement on several things. They appreciate the present camping facilities. All comment on the courtesy and hospitality shown them by the local citizenry on the street and in the stores. And all agree that they would be glad to pay a small fee if the sanitation facilities could be improved.

As one veteran said, a few improvements would bring a lot more people to Thief River Falls.

Tenting Canadians Visit Riverside Park

Last Saturday Canadians were well represented at Riverside park, when more than 30 families set up camp for the long Canadian holiday week-end. Each August the city of Winnipeg declares a long civic week-end, and each year more and more Canadians are spending it in Thief River Falls. As one veteran camper remarked, the neighborhood greeting is: "Well, we'll see you at Thief River Falls for the long week-end.

Falconer Retrieves Hawk at Court House

County officials got the "bird" last Thursday morning when one of the local members of the hawk family perched on the roof of the Pennington county courthouse and began to scoff at county employes walking in and out of the building.

During his short visit there was some disagreement as to the identity of the feathered visitor. Many a head turned skyward to look at the so-called, "bird," "owl," "golden eagle" and, "that thing on the roof."

Some of the more informed bird watchers in the group identified the visitor as a member of the hawk family.

The identity of the visitor was confirmed when Bill Walker, son of James Walker, city, arrived on the scene during the lunch hour and took his red-tailed hawk home with him.

By the time Walker had arrived to pick up his friend, the hawk had abandoned his official county seat for a more comfortable perch on a near-by telephone pole.

Bill Walker is one of five falconers in the city who are training the hawks for hunting purposes.

The boys, members of the local Boy Scout troop, found the young birds in a nest on the edge of town six weeks ago.

Although Walker handles the hawk with thick leather gloves as a necessary precaution against the sharp talons the bird appears to be quite tame. In fact, said Walker, he is so tame now that the neighbors have started to feed him on his short flights from his home base. Walker generally keeps the bird on a perch with leather jesses, but birds will be birds, and stray from the nest at times.

State Trust Funds Continue to Grow

Mounted by $1,445,000 in Seconded Quarter of 1957

Trust funds benefited to the extent of $1,445,940 during the second quarter of 1957, according to a report by Ray D. Nolan, director of the division of lands and minerals. "It is reassuring to know that the permanent trust funds will continue to grow, despite the diversion from now on of half of the occupation tax on iron ore from the trust funds for the current use of the public schools and the University, as a result of Amendment No. 3 which was passed last November," Nolan said.

Season's shipments from the 28 active state-owned mining units totaled over 2 million tons up to June 30, 1957. One and three-quarter million tons of this total was shipped during the second quarter of 1957, and the royalty received in July for the second quarter shipments totaled $1,445,940. Over one million dollars of this was paid into the public school trust fund, about $150,000 into the swamp trust fund and $200,000 into the University trust fund.

For Cookie Jar Raiders

A new cookie boasts a higher protein quality because it's enriched with Lysine. What is lysine? Briefly, it's one of the essential amino acids, supplied in food and used by the body to build protein, the substance most vital to tissue growth and repair. The trouble with some foods — cereals and certain vegetables, for instance — is that they are short of lysine. Thus the addition of lysine to these foods raises their nutritional value and puts them in a class with high-quality protein foods such as meat, eggs, fish and milk. To mothers, this cookie means a new way to get more and better protein into their growing children — the most notorious of all cookie-snatchers.

Choice Grade Beef Good Buy

The Choice grade beef now so plentiful on markets is the highest grade beef sold in most stores. Because of quality, some cuts in this grade can be roasted or broiled, while the same cuts in lower grades would require moist heat, according to Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota.

Most Choice steaks may be broiled or pan fried, even top round. However, such cuts as bottom round, arm, blade, and flank steaks usually are better braised. Most Choice grade roasts will make tender, juicy oven roasts, but cuts like shoulder arm roasts and heel of round roasts of choice grade need the moist heat of braising to make them tender.

Shopping Tip for Summer Knits

Summer knit fabrics are popular because of their comfort and ease in care. But occasionally a tricot fabric has a tendency to stretch or shrink after laundering. Recent research by the U. S. Department of Agriculture shows that fabric construction is the key to whether a knit keeps its shape, is long wearing or sags and wears out quickly.

If you want a garment that keeps its shape, examine the knitted loops to see that they are fairly close and don't look stretched. If long wear is what you want, buy a closely knit tricot in a heavier weight. Researchers have found that closer knitting and heavier yarns give fabrics greater strength.

If a tricot shrinks or stretches, it's rarely the fault of the yarn. But often the fabrics are pulled lengthwise in finishing and knitting, and the knit loops are pulled out long and thin. As the fabric is laundered, the loops relax, and the garment stretches in width and shrinks in length.

Picking Annuals for Bouquets

The first rule in cutting annuals for bouquets is to select stems with young, newly opened or just opening flowers, says C. G. Hard, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota. Don't expect tight buds to open after being picked.

Annual flowers differ from certain perennial flowers in that cut stems rarely have the ability to continue development so the tight buds unfold. In gladiolus, if the lower florets show color, nearly every tight bud on up the stem will eventually open if the cut stem is well tended. On the other hand, a tight zinnia bud will not open after being cut.

Farm Life A Headache?

Not according to a survey by Dr. Henry D. Odgen of the Louisiana State University School of Medicine. He asked 4,000 people if they get headaches. Results? Farmers and other agricultural workers are on the low end of the scale — only half get headaches. Students are hardest hit—four out of five get them. Business executives are next. Then come professional people, housewives, clerical workers, salesmen and manual laborers, in that order. More women then men get them, and more young people than old. Interestingly enough, the study shows that single persons suffer most, widowed persons least.

Emil Larson's Brooks Cheese squad broke their two-team tie for first place in the city golf league, with the Hardware Mutual, and took over first place, by a margin of five strokes, in a league standings as a result of last week's play. The Brooks had a low net score of 138, while Russ Einbury's squad posted a 143. Previous to last week's play, the two teams had been deadlocked for first place with 722 totals.

Wednesday evening's low net total, for team play, was credited to the last place Bridgeman's squad, who scored a fine 131. The Bridgeman's low net was totaled as follows: Phil LeGault, 38-32, L. L. Tygeson, 47-33; Doug Tegtmeier, 41-34; and Bob Craik, 45-32. The Bridgeman's, you know, are an all-southpaw squad.

Runner-up team total honors were won by the Soo Liners, with a 134. John Moum had a 37-32; Jim Solsten, a 45-32; Ted Hellie, a 38-32; and Roger Nygaard, a 47-38.

The evening's individual low net score was postponed by Sid Lieberman, who had a 44-30. John Moum's 37 was the low gross. Other gross scores, all with 38's, were LeGault, Hellie, Larry Perkins, Stan Larson, Bob Wurst and Jerry Tygeson.

HOME Garden TIPS

C. GUSTAV HARD
ORRIN C. TURNQUIST

Fertilizing The Garden

Extra feeding of annual and perennial flowers during the gardening season can mean more luxurious blooms. Plants that have made extensive growth or those which have been blooming heavily need to be well fed. However, be careful not to over-feed plants.

In the annual border, broadcast a complete fertilizer among the plants at the rate of 1 to 2 pound per 100 square feet. Avoid getting fertilizer on the foliage. Be sure to water in the fertilizer thoroughly.

To fertilize your perennials, make a small trench ½ to 1 inch deep around each plant and sprinkle the fertilizer in the trench, using approximately ¼ to ½ cup of a complete fertilizer for a large plant. Then water the plant thoroughly.

August is the time for the second application of a complete fertilizer to the lawn. Apply fertilizer at the rate of ½ to 1 pound of actual nitrogen per 100 square feet.

Thieves Down Winger 15-6 to End Schedule

The Winger Tigers and the Thieves engaged in a typical schedule-ending game on the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday night as the locals defeated the Tigers, 15 to 6, to close out the Northern Minny league's regular schedule.

A league meeting will be held on Monday evening, and at this meeting the arrangements for the league playoffs will be made. It is expected that the problem of player-eligibility will also be discussed at tonight's meeting.

Sore-armed Lynn Aasen, a righthander, started on the mound for the Tigers on Sunday night, but he failed to last out the 1st inning. A double by Frank Gunderman, an error, and bases on balls to Duane Emard, Glen Carlson, and Joey Poole brought in a pair of runs, and also brought in John Fjelstul from center field to take over the Winger hurling duties. A walk to Sid Vraa gave the Thieves their third run of the inning.

Winger, in the 3rd inning, lambasted the righthanded offerings of Vraa for five singles and a double to score four runs and take a short-lived 4 to 3 lead.

The Thieves regained the lead with a three-run cluster in the last half of the 3rd inning. Added a run in the 4th, and a pair of tallies in the 5th inning. A four-run splurge in the 7th inning, which saw the end of Fjelstul's tenure on the mound and brought Don Peterson in from shortstop to due the hurling, "insured" the game for the Thieves.

Leading the Thieves' attack on the assortment of Winger pitching was co-manager Joey Poole with four hits in five trips; Dale Peruse with three hits in six at bats; and Frank Gunderman with two for three. Lynn Aasen rapped out three hits in four trips to the plate for the Tigers.

Stan Wilson Jr. Wins Fargo Shoot

Young Local Trapshooter Winner of Handicap Event

Three members of the local trapshooting fraternity—Ole Ekeren, Stan Wilson Sr., and Stan Wilson Jr.—participated in the International or Mid-west Trapshooting tournament held at Fargo over the weekend. Stan Jr., or Sandy as he is more familiarly known, proved to be one of the luminaries of the meet.

On Sunday, in the feature event on the program, the handicap, Sandy, shooting from the 19-yard line, broke 95 out of 100 birds to win first place. And in the handicap preliminary event, shooting in the 18-22-yard division, Sandy posted a score of 93 out of 100 to also win that event.

The tournament, attracting the top-flight shooters from Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Manitoba, and Saskatchewan, is one of nation's ranking events. Sandy's performance was noteworthy, and it should prove quite a "lift" to the personable youngster.

Thieves Win 8-4 over Winger Team Thursday Evening

Mickey Hanson, Lincoln School Juniors, Handles Local Pitching Duties

With young righthander Mickey Hanson being stingy with base hits (except in the 8th inning when the Tigers bunched four safeties) and with Dale Peruse clouting out a home run with a pair of runners on base, the Thieves defeated the Winger Tigers, 8 to 4, at Erskine on Thursday night. The game was the playing off of a previously postponed game, and it kept the locals within one game of the league-leading Bagley Merchants.

The game was the first played, and won, under the new co-managers—Joey Poole and Sid Vraa—of the Thieves.

The Thieves picked up a run in the 1st inning when Frank Gunderman, Bozo Emard, and Peruse banged out singles, with Emard scoring.

In the 5th inning, with one out, Duane Glass singled, Gunderman drew a walk, Emard lined out to left field, and then Peruse drove out a home run over the fence in right-center.

The Thieves added a tally in the 7th on singles by Glass and Gunderman and an infield out; and in the 8th inning, three singles, a walk, and pair of Winger errors gave the Thieves three more runs, and an 8 to 4 win.

Hanson, who is a junior in high school, and pitched midget and junior baseball this season, had a two-hit shutout until the 6th inning. A single, a walk, and a throwing error scored a run in that frame.

And in the 8th inning, a four-hit flurry, with Paul Anderson clubbing out a double, scored four runs for the Tigers.

The Thieves again revealed their expert double-play combinations, rattling off a pair of twin-killings. It marked the second game in a row that the Thieves had racked up a pair of double plays.

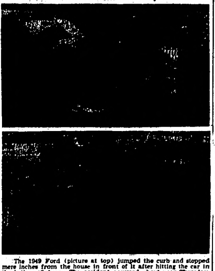
Crash Jolts Car Occupants



The 1949 Ford (picture at top) jumped the curb and stopped mere inches from the house in front of it after hitting the car in the bottom picture. The accident occurred about noon Thursday. According to police the car, driven by R. B. Stokke, (bottom picture) was crossing East Eighth st. going south on Dewey av. when it was hit by the Ford, driven by Richard Langevin. Stokke's sister, Margaret Rose, 18, was thrown from the car by the impact and suffered cuts and bruises, while John Stokke, 13, had minor scratches. They were treated at Northwestern hospital and released.

Clearance.

Cliff Bjorkman tells us that he is contemplating holding a seasons-end clearance sale on slightly-used softball uniforms. These uniforms, according to Cliff, are in excellent condition except for some of trousers, which show considerable wear in the seats.

All kidding aside, the softball league playoff finals, which should be concluded Tuesday evening, are somewhat of an anti-climax. The most interesting playoff finals would have been if the Bjorkman's had reached the playoffs. A Bjorkman's vs. Bridgeman's playoff series would have been interesting and entertaining.

There isn't any doubt but that the Len's Tire Service team, with such all-round performers as Sid Vraa, Joey Poole, Pinky Adolphson, Wally Grovum, Jack Erickson, Don Engelstad and others; is, except for their pitching, the city's best. The Len's are by long odds the best defensive team in the league, and it was their superb fielding that carried the club to the playoff finals, with a good chance of winning the final series. That outfield trio of Vraa, Grovum, and Erickson can really shag flies, with Grovum, and Erickson can really shag flies, with Grovum being particularly adept in covering center field. And Poole at shortstop has proven to be a defensive bulwark, and a regular thief in covering short left field on fly balls.

Don't forget, the third and final game of the playoffs will be played on Tuesday evening on the East Side diamond.

Harbinger.

A more certain harbinger of winter than the north wind, harvesting, or frosted leaves, is the University of North Dakota ice hockey clinic which is now under way at the Winter Sports Building at Grand Forks. The clinic will continue until August 17th.

Four National Hockey league players will be on the hockey "faculty", namely Metro Prystal of the Detroit Red Wings; Fred Shero a defenseman with the Montreal Canadians; Doug Bentley of the Chicago Black Hawks; and Glen Hall of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Prystal will be the clinic's head coach, with Bentley as his assistant. Shero will coach the defensemen, while Hall will tutor the goal-tenders.

Bob May, the recently-named hockey coach of the North Dakota Sioux, will also be on the staff. May was an All-American defenseman for the UND Sioux in 1951, and since that time he has coached high school hockey in North Dakota and Minnesota. Last season he brought the Minneapolis Roosevelt team to the state tournament.

The Champ.

It's a fact that the Red Lake county records, in the catagory of athletics, won't be complete for the year of 1957 if they do not show that Wally DuChamp of Plummer won the county's golf championship.

The tournament, a match play affair, was held over the sporty nine-hole course at Red Lake Falls, and it was supervised and conducted by Martin (Mink) Pouliot.

The upset of the tournament, and the season, too, as far as Red Lake county golf is concerned, was provided by Brooks' Aurel Parenteau. Parenteau defeated one of the tournament's co-favorites, Emil Larson.

The bookies had established long odds that the county finals would find the Plummer duo of Duchamp and Larson in the finals. And the pairings, with the two golfers in different brackets, had been arranged with such a finals match in mind. But Parenteau upset those plans.

New Managers.

With the departure of Gene Sack, on Thursday morning, the senior baseball Thieves lost their popular and capable manager. And with the Northern Minny league schedule concluding last night, and the playoffs due to start this week, it was imperative that the local club should get a replacement.

The board of directors, after discussing the problem for several days, and with Gene in on the discussions and offering his advice, it was agreed that Joey Poole and Loren (Sid) Vraa should act as co-managers of the Thieves for the balance of the season. The naming of Poole and Vraa should meet with the approval of the vast majority of the fans.

While Joey and Sid are comparative youngsters, having graduated from Lincoln high school in 1955, they have had an abundance of experience in senior baseball. They are both veteran members of the Thieves, and Northern Minny league

Incidentally, it's not the first time that the two boys have shared athletic leadership, for in 1953, the year that Ralph Skjod's baseball Prowlers won the consolation honors in the state tournament, Joey and Sid were co-captains of the Prowlers.

Bridgeman's, Len's Meet in Playoff Finals on Tuesday

The men's city softball league playoffs will be concluded on Tuesday evening when the Bridgeman's and the Len's Tire Service teams meet in the third and deciding game of the finals.

The two previous games between the two teams (they are playing a best-of-three series) were free-scoring and hotly contested affairs.

On Wednesday evening, in the first game of the series, the Len's Tires defeated the Bridgeman's, 14 to 10. And on Thursday evening, Bridgeman's evened the series by taking a wild-scoring 18 to 17 game from the Len's.

The Schedule, Thursday, Aug. 8th
Wilson Bros., vs. The Pharmacy.
Oen's Appliance vs. The Times.
Northern Chevrolet vs. Johnson Bros.

The league-leading Northern Chevrolet squad, defeating the Times, 120 to 116, continues to hold a four-point lead over the runner-up Wilson Bros., team. Three matches remain on the schedule (league shooting is slated to be concluded on August 29th) and it appears to be a difficult task to overtake Roy Jorgenson's Chevvys.

It is worth reporting, too, that Tony Dorn's Pharmacy squad won their third straight match and moved up out of the cellar. The Pharmacists are in a three-way tie for third place.

In last week's shooting, young Sandy Wilson, of the Wilson Bros., team had a twenty-five straight. Stan Wilson, with a 22-25, and Al Tonder, with a 21-24, had "25's" for Wilson's, too. The only "25" racked up for the Oen's who lost their match with the Wilsons, was Mel Hyland's 24-2.

The Times, although losing to the Northern Chevrolet, had a pair of "25" shooters, with Bob Mattson having 21-4, and Bill Dahlquist also shooting a 21-4. Henry Granum's 23-5 was the lone "25" for the winners.

The Pharmacy had two "25" shooters, with Ole Ekeren having a 21-7, and Rudy Sagmoen a 21-4. Russ Williams paced the Johnson Bros., squad with a 23-3.

We should accustom the mind to keep the best company by introducing it only to the best books.

Bagley & Thieves Tie for Loop Lead

Results of the Week's Games:

Fosston, 11, at Red Lake Falls, 4.
Winger, 6, at Bagley, 13.
Thief River Falls, 8, at Winger, 4.
Fosston, 2, at Bagley, 0.
Winger, 6, at Thief River Falls, 15.

The board of directors of the Northern Minny league will hold an important meeting at Erskine tonight, Monday, at which the matter of protested players and postponed games will be discussed and acted upon. The meeting will also draft plans for the approaching league playoffs.

With Fosston, behind the one-hit pitching of righthander Stan Otness, defeating Bagley, 2 to 0, at Bagley on Sunday, the league lead became a two-way tie between the Merchants and the Thief River Falls Thieves. Each team has a 14 wins and 5 losses record. The Thieves trounced the Winger Tigers, 15 to 6, in a game played at Thief River Falls on Sunday night.

In the postponed game category, both Bagley and Thief River Falls have games remaining with Red Lake Falls, but it's doubtful if these games will be played.

There is a district possibility, too, that there will be a deadlock for their place in the league standings between Fosston and Erskine. Erskine's final standings is dependent upon the action on the protests that have been filed against the Merchants.

100,000 Disabled to Get Social Security

More than 100,00 disabled workers all over the nation have been notified that they are entitled to social security disability insurance benefits and will receive their first benefit checks during August, W. J. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks social security office, announced today. Most of the checks were delivered August 3, and the remaining ones will be mailed on following days.

In making this announcement, Mr. Kistler noted that action is being taken as speedily as possible on all disability applications and that many other disabled workers, who may not yet have received notice of final action on their applications, will be receiving their first checks in coming months. No further action is necessary on their part, he said.

In the first six months of 1957, applications for these new disability insurance benefits increased at a rate of about 12,000 a week throughout the nation. Although social security benefit checks for a particular month are ordinarily mailed out for delivery on the third of the following month, the heavy load of disability applications slowed up processing and made it impossible to get checks issued on August 3 to all who are entitled to disability benefits for the month of July.

All disabled workers who meet the requirements of the law, and whose applications have been filed with their social security offices before the end of December 1957, Mr. Kistler said, will get benefit payments for the months of July through December. After December, payments cannot be made for any month before the month of application.

In order to get disability insurance benefits, a person must be between 50 and 65 years of age and must have a long-lasting disability so severe that he is not able to engage in any substantial gainful activity. He must have worked under social security for five out of the ten years before he became disabled, including a year and a half out of the 3 years just before his disability began.

In addition to the disability benefit sections of the law which provide for a partial replacement of earnings during a disabled worker's middle years, there is a 1954 amendment to the law providing that disabled people of any age who meet the disability and work requirements may apply to have their social security records frozen. When a worker's social security record is frozen, his own and his family's future benefit rights are protected.

Record Livestock Show at State Fair

Minnesota Exposition Set to Open August 24

The biggest livestock show held at any fair in the United States will be a major attraction of the 1957 Minnesota State Fair, August 24 through September 2.

Nearly 7,500 animals and 3,000 birds will be on exhibition in two shifts during the 10-day exposition. Open-class shows of dairy and beef cattle, sheep, and swine will be held the first six days of the fair, with the 4-H Club and Future Farmers of America exhibition on the final weekend.

Open-class chickens, ducks, geese, turkeys, and bantams will be on view the first five days. Pigeons, rabbits, and 4-H poultry will be shown the final five days. Two five-day mink shows will be held.

Secretary D. K. Baldwin reports that barns will be filled to capacity for both the open and 4-H-FFA shows. Livestock entries closed this week.

Swine will have the largest increase. The swine barn has been enlarged by 10 per cent to the point where it will accommodate 1,600 animals. It is hoped the boost in pen space will enable the fair to accept all hog entries this year.

More than 1,000 head of dairy and beef cattle, approximately 500 sheep, and 1,600 hogs will be in each of the exhibitions. Added to this total of 6,000 animals will be about 1,000 head of horses, 350 rabbits, and 150 mink. Some 200 poultry exhibitors will show 3,000 birds.

Poultry and fine arts entries close Aug. 15. Baking, canning, needlework and handicraft applications are due Aug. 17. Agriculture and horticulture deadline is Aug. 19, and bees and honey Aug. 21.

Ask Picnickers to Clean up Litter in State Parks

The Minnesota state parks division today issued its annual plea to campers and picnickers urging them to leave camp and picnic sites clean. Park officials offered the following suggestions to those who camp or picnic in areas where no garbage facilities are provided:

1. Carefully burn all paper.
2. Put tin cans and other cast-offs in one place. When breaking camp throw all refuse but glass in the fire. Most food remnants will burn. Tin cans will lose their rust proof tin, their lacquer, and labels.
3. Put cans, bottles and jars in a sack and take them with you.
4. Do as thorough cleanup job as you can. Don't bury food containers still containing food scraps, as they may be dug out by animals and scattered.

Refectory at Old Mill State Park Needs Enlarging

The Old Mill State Park refectory is badly in need of enlargement to handle the ever increasing crowds of people who are getting more and more into the habit of using the park's fine facilities for their picnics, outings.

When crowds of 2,000 and over of people are becoming commonly place on Sundays the refectory's small 6x8 space becomes rather inadequate to properly care for those who patronize the place, stated Park Superintendent Ernie Jewell.

The inadequacy of space makes it a hardship on the refectory workers and an annoyance to the many who would like to patronize it. Last Sunday there were over 600 cars which entered the park.

Artificial Dairy Herd Breeding up

528,719 State Cows Bred Artificially During 1956

Artificial breeding has made big strides in dairy herd improvement in Minnesota during the past 15 years.

Harold Searles, extension dairyman at the University of Minnesota, points out that more than a half million dairy cows—528,719—were bred artificially in the state during 1956. That's about a third of all Minnesota dairy cows, Searles explains.

This compares to 495,330 in 1955, 453,000 the year before that and less than 300,000 in 1951.

For the nation as a whole, Minnesota since 1953 has been second only to Wisconsin in number of dairy cows served by artificial breeding associations.

Artificial breeding made its start in Minnesota in 1939, with the organization of the Floodwood Cooperative Breeding association. By 1943, there were 43,000 cows in the state reported bred artificially. The small local bull studs have been replaced by large, more efficient organization. Most of the breeding in Minnesota is now done by Minnesota Cally Breeders and Consolidated Breeders Cooperative.

Searles says that the better sires through artificial breeding have been a factor in our increased milk production per cow.

By employing artificial breeding, better herd sires are available to more dairy farmers. And for all except dairymen with exceptionally large herds, the cost is lower for artificial breeding—usually around $5-$7 per cow.

Keeping a herd sire would cost a farmer from $150-$175 annually just for feed. In addition, there is the initial expense in buying or raising the bull.

Hidden Tax Load Most Expensive

$488.81 in Hidden Taxes Reported on $2,000 Car

It's the taxes you don't know you are paying that make up the bulk of today's excessive tax load, Norman A. Borgen, executive secretary of the Minnesota Taxpayers association, said today, quoting a number of national and local sources.

"The Automobile Manufacturers Association states that an automobile with a Michigan price tag of $2,000 includes a figurable tax of $559.83 of which $488.81 is hidden as far as the purchaser is concerned. This figure includes estimated taxes on materials and parts and estimated income and other taxes paid by the manufacturer and dealer", Mr. Borgen said.

The Tax Foundation, a private research organization, estimates that the average man earning $4,500 a year pays total federal, state and local taxes of $1,393 of which $1,006 is concealed and only $387 of which he is conscious of paying. The Tax Foundation points to 151 identifiable taxes on a loaf of bread which are passed along to the consumer.

"Telephone taxes will serve as an illustration of indirect taxes paid in Minnesota", Mr. Borgen went on to state. "A recent study made of the taxes paid by the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company in Minnesota shows that 27 cents out of every dollar paid for telephone service here during 1956 went to the local, state or federal treasuries in the form of taxes. These direct and indirect taxes paid by this company during the year in Minnesota average $2.42 a month per telephone or $29.19 for the year, and amounted to almost two-thirds as much as the Company paid to its 9,000 employees in Minnesota.

Turkeys Are Good Buy During August

University Specialist Tells of Plentiful Foods

If you want to take advantage of one of the best protein buys this month, you'll feature roast turkey, hot or cold, in salads and sandwiches in family meals this month.

Turkey is the leading item on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's list of plentiful foods for August. An all-time record supply of turkey is in sight for the year, and more of it will come to retail stores this month than in any previous August.

Mrs. Eleanor Loomis, extension consumer marketing agent at the University of Minnesota, reports that the big birds will be in large supply and generally the best buy for those who can make use of a great deal of turkey meat. For others smaller turkey will be available.

To keep company with turkey, a great variety of locally grown vegetables will be harvested in home and market gardens—tomatoes, sweet corn, green beans, cabbage, lettuce, beets, summer squash and many others.

The largest peach crop in 10 years will come to markets during August and early September. Elberta and Hale peaches are in now from California and later in the month will be coming from Colorado. Bartlett pears from a larger than average crop will be plentiful for eating fresh and for preserving. There will be an abundance of lemons and limes, both fresh and processed, for refreshing cold drinks.

Editorials . . .

There is an ancient legend that tells us that when a man first achieved a most notable deed he wished to explain to his tribe what he had done. As soon as he began to speak, however, he was smitten with dumbness, he lacked words, and sat down.

Then there arose—according to the story—a masterless man, one who had taken no part in the action of his fellow, who had no special virtues, but afflicted—that is the phrase—with the magic of the necessary words.

He saw, he told, he described the merits of the notable deed in such a fashion, we are assured, that the words "became alive and walked up and down in the hearts of all his hearers." Thereupon, the tribe, seeing that the words were certainly alive, and fearing lest the man with the words would hand down untrue tales about them to their children, they took and killed him.

But later they saw that the magic was in the words, and not in the man.

Parent Responsibility

The father of a 16-year-old boy and the mother of a 15-year-old girl spent the weekend in the work house in Minneapolis because their children were curfew violators. They were found out-and-about together at three o'clock in the morning. It evidently had happened before.

The municipal judge who imposed this drastic punishment no doubt had in mind the need for impressing upon other parents their responsibility for the conduct of their children.

Not all youth delinquency can be attributed to delinquent parents. It is in the home however, that the prime responsibility for youth behavior rests. The church and the school serve merely as agencies that can be helpful.

The imprisonment of these Minneapolis parents should serve as an effective warning to other parents. Repeated curfew violation must be considered a serious offense, not because, for any one individual, late hours are necessarily an evil, but because curfew enforcement is essential to delinquency control.

Speaking of Savages

In commenting on the civil rights bill as it has been amended by the Senate the Minneapolis Tribune makes this unusually candid comment:

> By a series of amendments the senate has greatly dulled the keen cutting edge of the civil rights bill as it emerged from the house. But even as amended, the bill can still cut. It is not a savage instrument or even a broadly effective one. But it is better than no bill at all, beyond any doubt.

Cutting this paragraph down to fewer words, what the Tribune says is this,

> "It is not a savage instrument, but it is better than no bill at all."

In this frank admission of the real purposes of the backers of this bill we find the best reason for a more moderate approach to the problem.

The Tribune is entirely in character in favoring a more savage instrument. It is consistent with the position it took a few years ago as cheer leader for the advocates of a more savage fair-employment-practices measure here in Minnesota. They favored swinging a broadaxe to remove a few warts, and the extreme punitive measures they advocated would have done much to create a serious race problem here in a state where no serious race problem has ever existed.

Fortunately the better judgment of our legislators has prevailed and more moderate measures, that have proven themselves to be adequate, have been adopted.

In dealing with matters about which there is so much bitterness and so much misunderstanding it is well to proceed slowly. Certainly there is no emergency at the present time that could justify the savage approach and, unless we wish to make matters worse, the savages should be restrained.

Youth is Radical

It is interesting to learn that one of the American delegates to the World Youth Festival in Moscow took issue with his Russian hosts on the question of disarmament. This Minnesota-born young man, whose parents left Communist Russia by choice in the 'twenties, is reported to have "disagreed" in an argument that ended in a deadlock in the early hours of the morning.

The incident is interesting mainly because it is unexpected. We do not know how the delegates to such a festival are selected, but it is natural to assume that those who are invited to attend a Communist gathering of this kind would be thoroughly indoctrinated with the tenets of the Red program.

It is surprising, therefore, to learn that one of the delegates to such a meeting approached the problems of world peace with some skepticism about the altruism of the Communist disarmament proposals.

Secretary of State Dulles discouraged participation by Americans in this Youth Festival, and his opposition is understandable. But maybe he was wrong. Possibly the good that might come from participation in activities of this kind would outweigh the evil, providing that normal young Americans would be encouraged to take part.

It is normal for young people to be radical. It is as we become informed that we grow conservative.

A banker, for instance, may have impractical ideas how a farm should be managed, and a farmer may have impractical ideas about how a bank should be operated. Each is likely to be a little foolish about the problems about which he is only partially informed.

But bankers who have radical ideas about banking, or farmers who have radical ideas about farming, or lawyers who have radical ideas about legal procedures, are very unusual people. Our radical thinking generally reflects our guesses as to what is wrong with the other fellow.

Our unusual, or queer, people, will always be a small minority group, and we don't have to worry about them providing our normal people are informed. The most effective way to keep our normal young people from becoming Communists, we think, would be to expose them to Communism.

Easy Way May Not Be Best

(Sleepy Herald-Dispatch)

"There is tendency in modern education to 'make things too easy' and to 'let the pupils determine the standards,'" Dr. Gould, president of Carleton College, Northfield, told a group in Minneapolis.

"One of the dismal results," he said, "is that nearly half the high schools in the United States teach neither physics or chemistry."

"If today's children do not learn to like mathematics and science, their children may have to speak Russian," he warned.

"We have become too occupied with group values and with surrender to the average—education should make a person restless, not tranquil," he said.

Dr. Gould is right. One of the disturbing bits of information brought back from China by newsmen who went to that country without state department approval is that the Chinese are working hard; that they are looking toward a better day, a better day which only hard work can bring.

Meantime we are cutting the work week, cutting the production per hour even for the hours worked. Many educators explain the letdown in schools with this statement: "so many wouldn't be able to finish high school if they had to take subjects which required real thinking."

We have a better form of government than Communist China and Russia and we have the Christian religion which is responsible for most of the world's improvement, but if their children—and adults—work and we don't,—Dr. Gould's assertion that our children's children "may have to speak Russian" may well come true.

Our Land

Pasture Improvement

A need for grasses in hay and pasture seedings was brought out clearly this spring, reports Arnold Wiebusch, Goodhue county soil conservation agent. Red clover and alfalfa suffered heavy winterkilling in that county, Wiebusch says, but many fields survived, thanks to grasses filling in where legumes went out. He explains that brome and timothy make a good quality hay crop if cut early and help keep the fields in the right spot in the rotation.

Improves Soil Structure

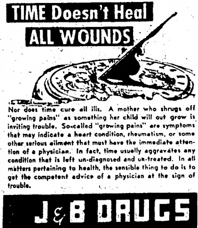
Alfred Longren, cooperator with the Pennington county soil conservation district, says grass, used in a rotation with alfalfa, improves soil structure. He states, "When the rains come, water soaks into the ground instead of staying on top." He says he can work heavy land two or three days sooner after a heavy rain than he could before using the grass and alfalfa. According to Don Lawrence, U. S. Soil Conservation Service worker, Longren's first step in soil management was putting in a good drainage system to remove surplus water, so he could establish alfalfa in all parts of the field.

Wheel-Track Planting

Wheel-track corn planting saves one disking and one dragging in the Bennie Johnson in West Otter Tail county, according to Ervin Junkans, county extension soils agent. Also, the soil doesn't wash as much during a heavy rain, compared to a conventionally-prepared corn seed bed. Wind erosion is less serious because the wheel tracks catch the drifting soil.

Oats Silage Fine For Beef

Nels Wollum, Lincoln county farmer, finds that he can fill his silo with from only a few more acres oats for silage than used to be necessary when he used corn silage. Wollum fed oat silage and hay to his beef calves during the first winter, says they got along fine. His hay is an alfalfa-timothy-brome mixture, according to Arnold Cliausen, Lincoln county agent.



TIME Doesn't Heal ALL WOUNDS

Nor does time cure all ills. A mother who shrugs off "growing pains" as something her child will out grow is inviting trouble. So-called "growing pains" are symptoms that may indicate a heart condition, rheumatism, or some other serious ailment that must have the immediate attention of a physician. In fact, time usually aggravates any condition that is left un-diagnosed and un-treated. In all matters pertaining to health, the sensible thing to do is to get the competent advice of a physician at the sign of trouble.

THE MINNESOTA STORY

Prepared by the

Minnesota Historical Society

Foreign Students in 1858

Minneapolis had reason to boast of its growth in 1858, for after less than five years of existence it had a population of four thousand. The editor of the "Minnesota Republican," published at St. Anthony across the river from Minneapolis, pointed out in the issue of November 5, 1858, that the population of Minneapolis had quadrupled every year.

But perhaps the most striking evidence of the town's growth, said the editor, might be found in the fact that "over 400 children now attend the Minneapolis Union School, ranging in age from four to twenty-three years of age, not one of whom was born in Minneapolis."

Rival Twins

For many years after its founding, St. Paul was indisputably the largest and fastest growing city in Minnesota, but in the late 1850s when Minneapolis and St. Anthony began to grow, a bitter rivalry arose between St. Paul and the two towns at the falls.

The rivalry is reflected in the newspapers of the day. In the late 1850s and early 1860s the columns of the St. Paul papers are filled with references to the anarchy and lawlessness prevalent in St. Anthony and Minneapolis, where "decent people are afraid to live."

The papers of Minneapolis and St. Anthony, on the other hand, lost no opportunity to use such headlines as "Another Whiskey Murder in St. Paul," or "Frightful Atrocity in St. Paul." They called St. Paul "that town of rum and rowdyism, tobacco, ginslings and easy virtue," and pointed out that at every election it "polled an average of two votes per citizen." Papers in all three towns, of course, never failed to counteract their rival's charges by blowing their own horns, pointing out that each of them was a cultured and refined city with "extensive improvements."

Board of Immigration

In 1861 the Minnesota legislature decided that the state should undertake an aggressive campaign to persuade immigrants to settle on its rich, vacant lands. Accordingly, the secretary of state was designated as the commissioner of immigration.

The commissioner's first project was the organization of a state-wide contest to secure the best essay on the history, beauties, and prospects of Minnesota. The prize-winning essay was published in a pamphlet for distribution to prospective immigrants. It was printed in German, Norwegian, Swedish, and Welsh, as well as English.

After 1866 the secretary of state, the governor, and a varying number of appointees or advisors made up the state board of immigration. The board was very active in 1867 when fifty-nine thousand immigration pamphlets were distributed throughout the eastern United States and Europe. The state also employed an official letter writer, whose glowing descriptions of Minnesota were sent to newspapers and magazine editors everywhere.

State immigration agents were stationed at such key ports as New York City, Chicago, Milwaukee, and Quebec to assist inexperienced foreigners in securing their baggage, buying tickets, selecting routes, etc. In this way, many immigrants were protected from the machinations of unscrupulous persons seeking to defraud them, and many, doubtless, were started on their way to Minnesota. Local authorities in St. Paul built a hotel which was used as a temporary shelter by newly arrived immigrants awaiting transportation to their final destinations.

In 1868 the board decided that the activity which accomplished most of the money expended was the distribution of pamphlets, so it concentrated on that work in succeeding years. Although Minnesota's promotion of immigration lapsed from time to time, some form of this work was carried on well into the twentieth century.

Pierre Bottineau

"With the passing of Pierre Bottineau," read an obituary in the "Minneapolis Journal" of July 27, 1895, "the days of the voyageurs and coureurs du bois pass into history."

Bottineau was the most famous of Minnesota's half breed scouts. He was born in the Red River settlement in 1817, and while still a boy learned to find his way unerringly through the northern wilderness. In the 1840s, with many years of scouting experience behind him, he bought land at St. Paul and St. Anthony and sold lots. He continued, however, to spend large portions of each year guiding hunters, prospectors, and explorers.

In the early 1850s he staked a claim at Bottineau Praire on the site of what now is Osseo in Hennipen County and built a large house. Legend has it that at the housewarming party he gave his guests ten-dollar bills with which to light their cigars. He is said to have also enjoyed skipping silver dollars in the Mississippi River.

During the 1850s and 1860s he played an important part in almost every major expedition that set out from Minnesota. Among the well-known men he guided were Hendy H. Sibley, James Liberty Fisk, and Governors Lewis Cass of Michigan, Alexander Ramsey of Minnesota, and Isaac Stevens of Washington. Tales abound of his mental and physical courage when confronted with trackless wastes, howling blizzards, fierce animals, and Indians.

By 1876 Bottineau Praire had become too populous for the old frontiersman, and he moved to a farm near Red Lake Falls. There he lived for some twenty years. He married twice and had twenty-seven children.

The lands Bottineau owned in Hennepin and Ramsey counties could have been the foundation of a great fortune, but he was not a businessman. He preferred the freedom of the unsettled frontier to the comfortable but to him crowded confines of a growing town.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representative at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—I have a World War II GI endowment policy which has matured, and which is paying me a monthly income. Must I pay taxes on these insurance proceeds?

A—No. Proceeds of GI insurance policies are not subject to taxes.

Q—I am eligible for a GI loan under the Korean GI Bill. I understand my deadline is January 31, 1965. Is that the deadline for applying? Or must the entire deal be completed by that time?

A—You must do more than apply for your GI loan by the January 31, 1965, deadline. Unless the present law, the loan actually must have been made before that date, with only the VA guaranty to be completed.

Q—Under the War Orphans Education program, who makes the decision whether a son or daughter of deceased war veteran needs special restorative training to overcome a handicap?

A—VA makes the determination. Where the need for special restorative traing exists, VA will prescribe a suitable course, tailored to the individual.

Q—Is it possible to take Korean GI training while on active duty with the armed forces? I meet all the eligibility requirements.

A—You may not take training under the Korean GI Bill while on active duty, even though you meet eligibility requirements. The law prohibits it.

BUTTERFAT VOLUME GROWS

Growth of Minnesota butterfat volume is pretty well indicated by a University study of 128 creameries covering a 20-year period. Fourteen creameries studied in 1934 produced more than 500,000 pounds of butterfat a year—45 of those same creameries were above that figure in 1954—increasing from 10.2% to 32.7% of the total. A further study of operating costs in 47 of these creameries shows a range from 6.11 cents per pound of butterfat in creameries with a volume of 600,000 pounds and over, to 9.76 cents in the group 150 to 299 thousand pounds annually. Average operating costs for all plants was 7.30 cents per pound of butterfat.

R. L. SHUMWAY

REPORT from the GOVERNOR

Workmen's Compensation

The 1957 Legislature made substantial improvements in the Workmen's Compensation Law. This act, which covers all Minnesota workers except domestic, casual and farm labor provides certain benefits for an injured employee or for his dependents if he is killed in the performance of his job.

Weekly Benefits Increased

Among other things, this law provides that an injured employee, in addition to having all his medical expenses paid, shall receive a weekly payment during his absence from work equal to 66 2/3 of his weekly wage subject to a maximum of $45.00. Prior to April 28, 1957 the maximum was only $40.00.

To qualify for this maximum, an employee must earn $67.50 or more per week. An employee earning $45.00 per week, for example, would be subject to the 66 2/3 limitation and receive $30.00. The law also provides a minimum benefit of $17.50 regardless of an employee's earnings. The 66 2/3% rule does not apply if it would reduce payments below $17.50 per week.

Benefit Schedules Improved

For certain kinds of injuries resulting in permanent partial disabilities, the law has a schedule of weekly payments covering some 39 cases of loss of members of the body. The 1957 Legislature raised 20 of the schedules by amounts ranging from five to sixty weeks.

Prior to the 1957 amendments to these so-called schedules, the loss of a toe was compensated by payment for 10 weeks; under the new law payments will be made for 15 weeks. Largest increases in these schedules were made for multiple injuries. When, for example, a worker suffers the loss of both hands, he will receive compensation under the schedule for 500 weeks under the new law instead of the 440 weeks previously allowed.

Coverage Broadened

Other changes made in 1957 were to broaden coverage to include employees exposed to tuberculosis and create the presumption that when a nurse who becomes tubercular, has been in contact with tubercular persons or materials that this is an occupational disease and is covered by the Workmen's Compensation Law.

An amendment was also passed broadening coverage to include as an occupational disease heart attacks suffered by policemen on active duty immediately preceding his disablement or death.

Room for Improvement

These are the important improvements made by the 1957 Legislature in the Workmen's Compensation Law. The amendments are fully justified in terms of our expanding economy and our responsibility to injured workers. We can and we must do everything possible to hold industrial accidents to an absolute minimum. When accidents do happen, the unfortunate victim must not be further penalized by suffering economic hardship. Benefit levels must not be allowed to lag during the last two sessions of the Legislature, there is still need for improvement.

When Crisis Comes

When crises come to families parents can help children weather them.

Give them nothing but the truth but not necessarily the whole truth. Stay well within their understandings, and keep information as matter of fact and as concrete as possible—children take literally such statements as "He has one foot on the grave," or "they may never be back," when they may be only adult conversation. Details about such things as hemorrhages, blood pressure, pain, surgery, or oxygen tents have no real place in discussions with children under 12 and can be received calmly in the teens only when they are a logical and necessary part of a larger story.

Give them somthing to occupy their time and to make them feel useful. Children usually live up or down to what we expect of them, and will rise to occasions when they know what to do and why they are doing it. For the smaller children, watering flowers, or running errands to and from the sick room give actual aid to the household. Older children may take over cooking or dishwashing, keep the sick room properly ventilated and lighted or they may even read aloud or play records.

Keep their routines as normal as possible. To children familiar things are comforting, and sudden changes of routines are upsetting in themselves. Disturbed or fearful persons are justifiably advised to "go through the motions and the emotions will follow." And so it is with children in family crises—the more familiar motions they perform, the more their sense of stability.

Know that adult attitudes and fears are contagious. Research in disasters, continued deprivations, or temporarily shocking circumstances—all show that the most fear-producing factor for the child is fear showing on a known and loved adult. The greatest aid to morale in any crisis is the presence of an adult showing faith instead of fear. When crises come, as they must, dignity and courage work best. Children can and will follow, once adults take the lead.

The '57 Ford was redesigned from the ground up . . . with a completely redesigned frame—new suspensions, front and rear—and a new built-for-keeps body. And at the heart of this new "Inner Ford," you can have the Thunderbird's own V-8 engine!

Long, lean and lovely! Not only does the '57 Ford act like a fine car . . . it looks the part, too—with over 17 feet of longer beauty in all Fairlane models.

With a low, low price that's an old Ford custom! It's a new kind of Ford . . . for the old kind of money. Model for model, Ford's actually the lowest priced car of the low-price three.* Any wonder the '57 Ford outsells 'em all?

Crippled Housing Industry

Latest figures from the Bureau of Labor Statistics show a continuing decline in housing starts — while our population continues to grow, construction workers are out of work, and home-builders are trying to find people with enough cash to make high down-payments to buy the houses they have already built. During the first six months of this year, only 506,800 home units were placed under construction, 13% less than the first six months of 1956 and the lowest half-year total since 1949. The decline was entirely in privately-financed housing, and it is quite clear that the housing industry is in serious trouble.

Report From Industry

The President of the National Association of Home Builders recently declared: "not only is the home-building industry being crushed by an inflexible policy of tight money, but we are laying the ground-work for a housing shortage that will plague the country for years to come." He said that every working day that elapses without corrective action means the loss of 1,000 new homes and costs construction workers $5 million every day in lost wages.

GI Housing Nearly Stopped

The Administration's deliberate policy of raising interest rates (the latest Government bond sale to the big New York banks was at 4% interest) has nearly wiped out the market for VA-guaranteed mortgages, which carry a 4½% interest rate. My friends in the building industry say that even with large discounts, the banks say they can't handle a GI mortgage because the local banks themselves have to pay so much for their own money. Thus we have the vicious upward spiral of interest rates started by the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board, who apparently are convinced that a little depression might be good for the country!

Strange Spectacle

Congress worked hard to come up with a bill which would get the housing industry back on its feet. I introduced legislation which would have permitted veterans to get GI home loans, through a Government program of increased purchases of the GI mortgages from local banks—in effect, supporting the market. This proposal failed to pass, but my proposal to lower the down payments on FHA mortgages was acted upon favorably. Under the new Housing law, FHA down payments are authorized at 3% of the first $10,000 of appraised value, 15% of the next $6000, and 30% of the remaining value. That should mean a reduction in down payment on a $16,000 house from $2200 down to $1200, and it would be a great help to the industry and to home-buyers. The trouble is, however, that the Federal Housing Commissioner has been told by the White House not to put the new down payments into effect. Why? Because, the Administration says, lower down payments "would add to inflationary pressures." It looks as though windfall profits to the big banks with 4% bonds is not inflationary, but a program to provide this country with new homes—privately-financed, at that—is somehow bad for us.

How many of these iron ore terms do you know?

One of nearly 300 Lake Superior Ore Boats

DIRECT SHIPPING ORE: Iron ore that can be used in blast furnaces just as it comes from the mine without treatment of any kind. Because steel mills have raised their standards of what constitutes "usable" ores, most of the remaining Minnesota iron ores can no longer be considered "direct shipping."

Search for new reserves is continuous

IRON ORE RESERVES: Iron ore still in the ground, which can be mined and is either merchantable in its natural state or can be made so by present methods of beneficiation. Millions of tons have been added to Minnesota's reserves as discoveries of new processes make more of our lower grade ores usable.

Concentrating Plant

CONCENTRATION: Any process of treating an iron ore bearing material to remove silica and other impurities. This raises the iron content. Today there are over 65 concentrating plants in operation in Minnesota, representing capital investments of many millions of dollars by our iron mining companies.

High-pressure water gun used in scramming

SCRAMMING: A term applied to any method of getting the very last amounts of usable iron ore out of a mine. A "clean-up" operation important in the conservation of Minnesota's iron ore reserves.

Blast Furnaces set iron ore standards

MERCHANTABLE ORE: Iron ore that is acceptable for use in making steel. This term includes both direct shipping ores and ores that have been concentrated. In 1956, 43% of all Minnesota ores shipped were concentrates produced from low-grade ores and taconite.

Pellets made from taconite

TACONITE: An extremely hard, iron-bearing rock. It could become Minnesota's greatest source of iron ore in the future. But, this can not become a reality until many more millions of dollars are invested in Minnesota for more plants to produce usable ore from taconite. Minnesota's great problem is to see that this money is not invested elsewhere.

RESEARCH AND INVESTMENT CAN KEEP MINNESOTA'S IRON ORE FUTURE BRIGHT!

4-H Leaders Group Seeks Later Start of Pennington Fair

A request that the county board use its influence with the fair board to arrange for a later opening date for the Pennington county fair was made at the commissioners' meeting Tuesday by Lloyd Nelson and Mrs. Adam Landsbela, appearing in behalf of the 4-H leaders' council.

The board indicated it would invite members of the fair board to discuss the matter with them at the October 8 meeting of the county board.

The leaders' council spokesmen offered numerous arguments in support of their position, and pointed out that a later date would permit the display of much better agricultural exhibits.

Other action taken at the session was approval of the request of the Mayfield township board that the county share in the cost of regrading a two-mile section of road in the township. The county board agreed to pay half the cost of the work.

20 Certified Seed Growers in County

Seed production in Pennington county is gaining in importance. The number of certified seed producers has increased from eight two years ago to twenty in 1957.

Eli Hanson, president of the Pennington County Crop Improvement association, who farms in Silverton township, has grown an excellent stand of Forrest Barley. Forrest and Parkland barleys being grown this year were developed in Canada and have shown promise in trials in Minnesota. Conly wheat, Minhafer oats, and Bolley flax are other varieties the seed growers are increasing this year.

After experimental stations have selected a variety of grain which shows desirable characteristics, the variety is increased by seed growers. To become a registered grower a farmer is required to have five years of completely satisfactory certified seed production. Certified growers need one year of successful certified seed production. The fields used for seed must be kept free of weeds and generally good fertilization and farming practices are expected.

Crops and Fertilizer Tour Monday Evening Was Well Attended

The crops and fertilizers tour held Monday evening revealed revealed to the large group in attendance that the crops varieties showed varied degrees of resistance to diseases and varied adaptability to soil and climate.

Herb Johnson, plant pathology specialist with the University of Minnesota, pointed out the differences in the varieties. In the one year comparisons Forrest and Parkland barleys, imports from Canada which are being increased this year, showed straw strength, well developed heads and resistance to lodging. All barley was retarded in the trials by excessive rains in June. This same condition is true throughout the county.

Minhafer, an early oats showed resistance to rust which is far better than Andrew Garry and Rodney, both late oats, have clean straws and fine head and have been excellent yielders in this area.

Branch, Ransom, Ajax, Simco, and Bonda also look good in the trials but they are not outstanding in their performance.

Sugar beets have shown excellent development to the present time and are expected to produce a good crop.

Soybeans, both Acme and Flambeau varieties recommended for this region, showed excellent development with no signs of serious disease infection.

Stewart and Ramsey durum wheats were found to be infected heavily with stem rust, while Langdum durum shows some resistance to rust.

Only one spring wheat was planted in the trials. Selkirk spring wheat has a clean stem and shows some resistance to rusts now prevalent in the area.

In the flax section most of the flax varieties looks like good performers. B-5128 is the latest and Bolley and Marine show most maturity.

Diseases in the plots explained by Johnson were aster yellows pasmo on flax, stem rust, and leaf rust on grains, septoria and leafblotch on barley and bacterial blight on soybeans.

The fertilizer results were reviewed by Charles Simkins, soils specialist with the University of Minnesota. Variations in fertilizer response may be observed in the plots. Generally nitrogen and phosphate gave increases in growth and development of heads, leaf and stem.

The amount of increase in the test plots will be announced after harvesting and weighing of the barley crop.

Fifty-eight farmers and business men took time from their busy harvest schedules to attend the tour. First hand observations of these varieties will be valuable information in making decisions on crops next spring, said County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

A meeting of the Red River Valley Association of Optometrists was held at Warroad, August 6. The subject for discussion was pre school screening examinations. In attendance from this city were Drs. O. D. Beich and E. L. Gilbert.

Civil Defense Agency Assists Goodridge in Securing Fire Truck

Not too long ago the "city fathers" in the village of Goodridge decided it was about time their small community had a fire truck. Well, ready made fire trucks run well into five figures financially . . . so they decided to build their own.

Tuesday night, Bruce Reski, county civil defense chief, handed over the keys to a property surplus heavy duty GMC truck to Carl Elg, mayor of Goodridge. This will be the frame for their firetruck.

During the next month the people of Goodridge will convert the vehicle into a first-class fire-fighting rig, complete with 800 gallon tank, siren, spotlights, ladders, etc.

Under the civil defense set-up, the truck was purchased at the federal property surplus depot in St. Paul. Reski drove the truck to Goodridge and the village paid for the transportation costs.

In the event of a CD emergency, air raid or natural disaster, the area commander in Bemidji or Reski, the county chief, may, if the need arises, activate the truck and operating personnel. Under the agreement the Federal government will pay half the expenses necessary to convert the truck.

Highway Patrol to Station Plane Here Three Days

Plane to Be on Lookout for Traffic Violations from Friday Thru Sunday

Officers of the state highway patrol in this district will be instructed this week in traffic control directed from the sky, according to Captain Walter R. Anderson, district chief. One of the two state planes now being used in this service will arrive here Friday and will remain in service in the district through Sunday.

Two squad cars will be assigned to the particular areas to be covered by the sky patrol, and traffic violations will be reported by radio. Squad cars will be marked so as to be easily recognized from the air.

Capt. Anderson says the air patrol is proving to be very helpful to the squad car operators, and he believes it will be an important factor in highway safety. Speed can be checked from the air, he says, and cars weaving dangerously in traffic are easily spotted, as are trucks travelling too close together for long distances.

The planes are two-seated Pipers and will fly at altitudes ranging from 500 to 700 feet. The present schedule has been set up largely for training purposes, and when this is completed they will be patrolling all areas of the state without advance notice to motorists.

Mrs. Emil Hedlund has been named to serve as Christmas Seal chairman for Thief River Falls this year, it is announced by Mrs. Margaret Hilleboe, field representative for the Minnesota Tuberculosis and Health association.

The announcement was made when Mrs. Hilleboe was in the county late last week to discuss TB program and organization with local Christmas Seal chairmen and officers of the Pennington county TB association.

Volunteer workers donate their time to raise Christmas Seal funds for fighting tuberculosis and to promote health projects in their county, the state field representative said.

Christmas Seal money raised in Minnesota counties is used to conduct tuberculin testing in school throughout the state, to provide chest x-rays for medically indigent persons, to finance health education programs, and to aid in financing research, aimed at learning more about tuberculosis—how to prevent it and how to treat it.

3 Officers of Co. Red Cross Are Reelected

Mrs. I. R. Geving Is Retained as Chapter Chairman Tuesday

Reports of committee chairmen and election of officers for the coming year were the two most important items on the agenda at the annual meeting of the Pennington county chapter of the American Red Cross, held Tuesday evening at the courthouse.

Officers reelected for the coming year are Mrs. I. R. Geving, county chairman; Lester Gustafson, secretary, and R. J. Dryden, treasurer. To be elected at a future chapter meeting are vice-chairman to replace Mrs. Vern Lindquist, St. Hilaire, who has been an officer for six years and is thus ineligible; and two other board members.

Quentin Jones, chairman of the nominating committee, recommended retention of all officers for the coming year but the bylaws prohibit officers and board members from serving more than six consecutive years.

J. P. Rosengren suggested that an efficient disaster committee be organized and that heads be named to the various divisions of such an organization, but was advised that such was more in line with the work of the local civil defense organization.

It was pointed out that the Red Cross is for the purpose of providing only temporary emergency relief and that an organization such as recommended by Rosengren would [illegible] civil defense functions to a great extent. Rosengren recommended that improved liason be carried out between the two groups.

A complete treasurer's report by R. J. Dryden was also deferred until a later meeting due to the records being audited at present. He made a brief rundown of present finances with a detailed report to be made later.

Mrs. A. C. Matheson was appointed Junior Red Cross chairman, replacing Mrs. Ray Jude, who had served in that capacity the past five years. The board also expressed their appreciation to Mrs. Lindquist for her six years' service as vice-chairman.

Jones, chairman of the water safety program, reported 422 persons participating in the pro-

Visiting Rural Nurses Voice Opinions of City

Would you like to be a rural nurse? What do you think of the city? What aspect of the city impressed you the most? And how does Thief River Falls compare with your home town?

These were some of the questions put by a Times reporter Wednesday to six attractive student nurses representing three Minneapolis hospitals: General, Northwestern and Fairview. The student nurses will complete a six week rural nursing course at Northwestern hospital here next week.

The course is designed to acquaint the students with the health and social problems in a rural community. The six girls age 20 to 22 arrived in Thief River Falls July 7th.

Yesterday the six girls received a brief orientation in the functioning of the county probate court when they held a short session with probate judge Herman A. Kjos.

After the scheduled court session the girls remained in the court room to take part in friendly proceeding known as "The Thief River Falls Investigation Case," (a little informal round-table discussion conducted by a Times reporter).

Miss Sue Lee, a Norwegian girl from Stewartville, Minn. (Pop. 1,500) was the first of nurses to be interviewed.

Sue Lee thought her six weeks training at Northwestern hospital was an interesting experience. One aspect, said Miss Lee, which surely differs from the large city hospital is that most of the patients and hospital personnel are neighbors or relatives. This, said Sue, gives the hospital a more informal and friendly atmosphere . . . "often a visitor feels obliged to visit not one, but 4 or 5 patients," said Lee.

What does she like about Thief River Falls "The beach", said Sue "is tops!" "And the playground facilities are ideal."

Making a general comment on the town Sue thought Thief River Falls to be a friendly, well organized city for its size."

And the golf course, said Lee, is very challenging . . . especially the tee across the Thief River. As a parting comment Sue said she surely expected to have cooler weather in this North country.

Representing the South, Miss Ruth Renslo from Sequin, Texas (Pop. 15,000, one-third Negro, one-third white and one-third Mexican) Miss Renslo commented on the good bathing facilities, nice parks and golf course. She did, however, think the city was lacking in social atmosphere. "Sequin is a college town," said Renslo, "so there are many cultural activities such as plays, concerts, etc." Comparing Thief River with her home town in Texas, Renslo thought her town had more recreational facilities and stated that Sequin had a swimming pool, air conditioned bowling alleys, recreation halls . . . and a river.

Two girls from LaCrosse, Wisc. (Pop. 60,000) Bea Stark and Helen Vaaler, both agreed that Thief River Falls is a very clean, well kept town with a nice residential district. And both spoke favorably of the parks and beach. Miss Stark thought the people were very friendly and Miss Vaaler felt she was unable to compare her hometown with Thief River because of the difference in population. Both agreed, however, that more recreational facilities would be nice.

Another Wisconsin girl, Miss Genie Wilson, Amery, Wisc. (Pop. 2,000) thought the people in Thief River were very friendly, and found everyone wonderful to work with.

In comparing her town with Thief River Miss Wilson thought there was a need for more recreation facilities, "especially entertainment for young adults." Wilson, who enjoys knitting as a hobby, was surprised to find a lack of knitting yarns in a town of this size.

A big city girl, Carolyn Carlson, Minneapolis, when asked what aspect of the city impressed her the most replied: "the beach and the loyalty to the Soo Line."

Comparing Thief River to Minneapolis, Miss Carlson thought it to be most quiet and relaxing here." Said Miss Carlson," you can go barefoot downtown without tangling with the law." Policemen here, she said are very friendly and sociable.

When asked if they would like to be rural nurses, three of the six girls interviewed said yes—but not right now. As one nurse so aptly put it: She would like to be a rural nurse when she was older and more stable. She also agreed that Thief River Falls would be the ideal place to settle down. "I would send the kids to the beach and enjoy the low cost of living and peaceful atmosphere."

Creamery at Gatzke Notes 50th Birthday

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the Rollis Co-op Creamery of Gatzke was celebrated on July 28 at a picnic held on the school grounds with a large crowd in attendance. Clarence Lian, president of the board, presided at the program, including opening remarks by Mr. Lian; invocation by Bernard Engevik and an address by Cleave Johnson of Clitherall, Minnesota.

A pageant was given depicting 16 different ways of hauling cream, beginning with oxen to the airplane. All persons taking part in the pageant dressed according to the year they were representing.

Past buttermakers who were present to take cream in the pageant were Nils Mugaas, Paul Lundmark, Raymond Gordon, Wallace Johnson and Henry Grondahl, the present operator.

An address by Stuart McLeod and remarks by John Lager followed.

Gifts were presented to Nils Mugaas and two of the oldest board members, Ole Eastby who served 20 years as Secy.-Treas., and Ed Ruud who served over 20 years as president, vice president and director.

Musical numbers for the program and pageant were furnished by Henry Grondahl, Mylan Ruud, Mylan Abrahamson, Harold Polansky and Mrs. Glenn Larson.

The Rollis Creamery was organized in 1906, and the first cream day was June 5, 1907, the first cream patron being Ole J. Aune. Mr. Aune went to see his neighbor Ole Eastby the evening before to see if he could borrow his wagon to haul cream with. The next morning Mr. Aune came to Eastby's with his oxen at 5 a.m. to get the wagon and drove 5 miles to Gatzke to deliver his cream.

The first president of the creamery was Halvor Naeseth; Louis Stardahl was secretary and Mike Nelson was treasurer. The first buttermaker was O. M. Loyd. He was succeeded by Karl Westergaard, followed by L. Rodum. Nils Mugaas was hired as manager 1916 and continued until 1934 when Hugo Lundmark was hired.

While Lundmark was manager, a new creamery was built in 1939. The managers following him were Paul Lundmark, Raymond Gordon, Herbert Minarik, Henry Grondahl and Wallace Johnson and at present Henry Grondahl is manager, Orvis Mugaas is helper and Mrs. Ingvald Anderson as bookkeeper.

The present board consists of Clarence Lian, president; John Dahl, vice president; Bernard Engevik, secretary; and Glenn Larson, Thorfin Ostby, Ingvald Anderson and Edwin Monson directors.

Mercury Hits 92

Thief River Falls had the dubious honor of being the hottest spot in Minnesota Wednesday, with a 92 reading in mid-afternoon.

Temperatures in the area have been in a steady climb since Monday when a high of 77 and a c-o-o-l 41 low were registered, following passage of a cold front the past weekend. The low here this morning was 56.

A few very light showers fell around the Thief River Falls area but the rain was insufficient for measurement.

It may not be so warm here today, although the weatherman, according to the North Central Airlines office here, has predicted temperatures in the 80's or 90's, along with partly cloudy skies.

Lows tonight will be in the 55-60 range and some light showers activity is possible later today or tonight.

The Friday forecast is for more of the same.

Municipal Court Has Big Volume of Cases

Several persons charged with furnishing beer to minors, illegal sale of beer, and also, one minor charged with possession of beer and drunkenness, were among the many who had their day in court in a Monday session that lasted until early evening before Municipal Judge H. O. Chommie.

Lightest docket of all was brought by the highway patrol, who charged John P. Moe, Oslo, with having no drivers license and with illegal parking. He was fined $25 plus $4 costs on each charge, of which $10 of each fine was suspended, the balance paid. Moe pleaded guilty to the charges.

County Sheriff Charles R. Richards brought in the beer law violators. All pleaded guilty. They were:

Clifford J. Johnson, Rt. 1, Goodridge, furnishing beer to a minor, sentenced to 30 days in jail, suspended, $5.50 costs paid.

Leonard A. Morstad, city, same charge, fined $100, plus $5.50.

Gerald Stromberg, Strandquist, same charge, 15 days suspended, $5.50 costs paid.

Clarence Walker, city, same charge, $100 plus $5.50 costs, of which $50 was suspended.

Louis Carpenter, charged with selling beer on Sunday, was fined $50 plus $5.50 costs.

A Strandquist juvenile charged with possession of beer drew a 10 day jail sentence, suspended, plus $5.50 costs, and the same juvenile on a charge of drunkenness was fined $10 plus $5.50 costs.

Brought before the court by city police were: Rodney R. Halverson, Bay City, Oregon, driving under the influence of liquor, pleaded guilty and was fined $100 plus $5 costs.

Sigurd P. Wik, Rt. 5, city, chared with driving under the influence, pleaded guilty and was also fined $100 plus $5 costs.

Delman Cote, city, same charge, also pleaded guilty and drew the same sentence.

Dallas L. Wikstrom, Holt, charged with speeding, pleaded guilty and was fined $10 plus $4 costs.

Howard M. Hasby, city, charged with illegal brakes which led to an accident, was fined $10 of which $5 was suspended, $5 plus $4 costs paid.

Alf I. Anderson, Glendale, Ariz., pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $10 plus $4.

Three persons who pleaded not guilty to charges against them stood trial and were all found guilty. These were:

Otto F. Netteland, city, driving under the influence, fined $100 plus $6.75 costs.

Robert Bakke, city, charged with same offense also fined $100 and paid $7.50 costs.

A St. Hilaire juvenile charged with careless driving which led to an accident, was fined $10 plus $6.87 costs.

In court a week ago (Aug. 1) on a charge of petty larceny was Harvey V. Uglem, Goodridge, who pleaded guilty and drew a 30-day jail sentence now being served. He was brought into court by Sheriff Richards.

To Explain Federal Potato Marketing Proposal at RLF

Meeting Slated in Court House at Red Lake Falls Monday Evening, Aug. 19

Evening meetings are announced by Minnesota county agents and Red River Valley Potato Growers Association to explain how the proposed federal marketing order-agreement may affect their future operations if approved.

The meeting for this area will be held Monday, August 19, at 8:30 in the Red Lake Falls, court house. Meetings are also scheduled for Marshall and Kittson counties at later dates.

Assisting association directors in presenting the referendum question will be Lyle W. Currie, executive secretary of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association. Unofficial word from Washington, D. C., indicates that an area-wide referendum on the proposed order-agreement will be held on or about August 28.

If approved, the federal order-agreement would honor present permissive authority of growers to regulate their marketing business granted them by state law. In addition, growers would have (1) more flexibility in adjusting to problems or needs of a particular marketing year or season; (2) closer cooperation with the federal government in adjusting supply to demand for better price treatment; (3) opportunity for program change without holding special referendums now required under state laws; and (4) the right to participate on potato diversion programs subsidized by the federal government in the future.

Hickory Woman Sees 'Thing' in Sky

Mrs. Arnold Helgen Sees Football-shaped Object

What was it; where did it come from; and did anyone else see it? These are the questions Mrs. Arnold Helgen of Hickory township, would like to have answered.

Here is the story as told by Mrs. Helgen to a Times reporter.

At 6:45 Monday morning she and the family dog went into the field to bring in the cows. It was cold and foggy. As she was returning from the field, the dog looked up and started barking. Wondering what the barking was about Mrs. Helgen looked up too. Then she saw it.

It was a strange object floating over a wooded area about a half a mile away. She described it as being shaped like a football, only the ends were pointed and hung down toward the ground. It was still quite foggy said Mrs. Helgen, and its' hard to judge size at that distance, but it appeared to be about eight-foot long.

She first saw the shiny, noiseless object above the Neptune bridge, it was drifting in an easterly direction and passed slowly out of sight over the Indian reservation.

Mrs. Helgen said she is sure it isn't a flying saucer and thinks it might have been some type of weather balloon.

Lions Hear Story of Atomic Blast

Fred Mittelstadt Gives Club Eye-Witness Account

An eye-witness description of a recent atomic blast in Nevada was given by Fred Mittelstadt, director of the local ground observer corps, at the luncheon meeting of the Lions club Wednesday in the Elks club rooms.

Mittelstadt, who witnessed the blast as one of a group of 500 persons from thruout the world who were guests of the Atomic Energy commission, was stationed at a point 15 miles distant from the explosion, which he said created a flash 100 times more brilliant than the sun, followed by a gigantic cloud in the shape of a monsterous purple flower.

He said that the object of the demonstration was to show the destruction power of nuclear explosions, and he urged his hearers to be alert to the danger and cooperate in every way possible with the ground observer corps and civil defense agencies.

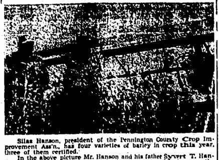
Certified Barley on Hanson Farm



Silas Hanson, president of the Pennington County Crop Improvement Ass'n., has four varieties of barley in crop this year, three of them certified.

In the above picture Mr. Hanson and his father Syvert T. Hanson, inspect a field of Forest barley in the process of being swathed, with Harold Harder operating the machine. This is the first year for Forest barley in this country. It is a Canadian product, developed by the University of Manitoba. Hanson was allotted 30 bushels, giving him a 28 acre tract.

Other certified barley varieties being grown by Hanson are Parkland and Trail. The fourth variety, U.M. 570, is not certified.

Seven-year Old Helps with the Harvest

Ross Hanson, 7-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Hanson, has had a busy week helping his father with the barley harvest. He and his grandfather, Syvert Hanson, operate the trucks while Silas operates the combine, and there is no lost motion in this combination.

Ross, who will be eight years old in December, is limited in his driving to the field operations, and his grandfather makes the more complicated trips to the granary, but the youngster does a good job in getting the big truck spotted for loading.

FARM FINANCES VARY WIDELY

Analysis by Farmers Home Administration shows average cash income per Minnesota farm ranging from $1,630 per year on northern dairy farms through $3,960 on northwest field crop farms, $5,560 for southeast dairy farms, to $6,870 for southwest livestock farms. Operating costs run in proportion, from $1,370 through $2,610, $3,320, to $4,630. This leaves the southwest dairy farm with the highest net, 40%, against a low of only 16% on the northern dairy farm. Northwest crop and southwest livestock farms fare about the same at, respectively, 34% and 33% net returns. Living expenses are listed as lowest in the north, highest in the southwest. Highest investment is in southwest livestock farms, highest farm indebtedness in the southeast.

BARLEY TOPS 70-bu. YIELD

Varietal trails reported by University of Minnesota show Vantmore topping the barley field with a yield at Morris of 70.3 bushels per acre; Trail, however, chalked up the best average for the five southerly stations, at 54.2 bushels. In the three northern stations yield honors go to Herta variety, with an average of 43.3 bushels. Herta also takes barley weight honors, averaging 48.1 pounds per bushel in the south, 48.7 in the north. Mars led the heading in the south with a June 21 date, and tied with Kindred barley at a July 2 heading date in the north.

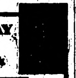
FARMING TODAY

by your County Agent

Paul Stolmaschuk



We had a fine turn out of farmers for our variety and fertilizer tour Monday evening. The plots were in good condition, showing marked differences in varieties, and also response to fertilizer was well marked. If you were one of the farmers who could not come because of combining why not take a check of the plots on your own. Or come into the office some rainy day and we will take time to check the plots.

You can see the new varieties of Forrest and Parkland barley, Minhafer oats, and Bolley flax. Also you can see sugar beets and soybeans.

All will agree that the fertilizer trials are pretty bumpy. Different fertilizer rates and combination had different affects. The plots with no fertilizer can be found with your eyes shut, I think.

Why not take a check on them?

Dairy

Better herd sires are available to make dairy farmers through artificial breeding. There are other economic advantages, too, in artificial breeding: Keeping a herd sire costs from $150 to $175 annually, just for feed. In addition, there's the initial expense in buying or raising a bull. Artificial breeding usually costs around $5-$7 per cow.

Stilbestrol For Beef

Stilbestrol is a "must" for getting the most profit out of beef cattle feeding these days.

Feeding stilbestrol to beef cattle has increased daily rate of gain by an average of 17 percent.

Also, on the average, you can make a 12 percent saving in amount of feed required for a pound of gain, by using stilbestrol.

Stilbestrol is so inexpensive that a beef farmer can't afford to pass up the advantages he would get from using it. If stilbestrol is mixed with the protein concentrate at a level which will provide 10 milligrams of this drug to each pound of concentrate, the added cost of the material is just $8.00 per ton.

Figured another way, that's less than half a cent per animal daily.

Recommended feeding rate for stilbestrol is 10 milligrams per animal daily if it's started when the animals weigh about 700 pounds apiece. But some experiments show, that if you start feeding it when the steers and heifers weigh only 400 pounds each, you can feed just 5 milligrams per animal daily for the entire feeding period and get just as good results.

To use stilbestrol, tell your feed dealer how much concentrate you're feeding daily. Then he can mix the material so that the animals will get the recommended rate.

Bridgemans Win D-Ball Title from Len's Tire

In a ten-inning game of championship caliber, the Bridgeman's, scoring two runs in the last half of the 10th inning, defeated Len's Tire Service team, 3 to 2, on the East Side diamond Tuesday evening to win the city softball league playoff championship. The win gave the Bridgeman's the best-of-three series by a two games to one margin.

The Bridgeman's opened the scoring by plating a run in the 3rd inning, when Larry Thorstenson drew a walk, stole second and, after Gail Anderson and Irv Wilson had flied out, scored on Len Brekke's ground single inside third base. That single by Brekke was the only hit that slow-ball pitching of Dave Bridgeman's garnered off the Clough.

The Len's forced the game into extra innings by evening the score at 1-all in the top of the 7th inning. With two men out, Jerry Tygeson hit a looping fly ball into left field, and when Nicky Carlson just missed a shoe string catch, Tygeson sped into second with a double. Jerry Furuseth singled into center field to score Tygeson.

In the top of the 10th, Wally Grovum was safe when the Bridgeman's first baseman dropped a throw. Joey Poole popped to first base, Don Engelstad popped to the infield, and when the fly was bobbled, Engelstad was safe at first, and Grovum was tagged out at second. Jack Erickson singled sharply to left center, and when Gilbertson made a wide throw to second in an effort to get Erickson, Don Engelstad scored the tie-breaking run. Sid Vraa lofted to center to end the inning.

The Bridgeman's came back with their game-winning effort in the last half of the 10th inning. Clough walked, Anderson, Wilson, and Brekke to load the bases. Wally Grovum came in to do the hurling for the Len's, and he issued a walk to Bob Carlson, to knot the score at 2-all. And when Gilbertson hit a ground ball to second base, Wilson came in with the winning run.

The local golf club will conduct its annual mid-summer shortstop golf tournament on Sunday. Golfers wishing to participate in the championship flight, which is slated to tee off at 9:00 a.m., should submit their qualifying scores to club house, phone 983, or to Donald L. Olson, phone 1193.

An added feature of Sunday's shortstop tourney will be a "hole-in-one" contest. Each golfer entering the shortshop tournament will be permitted to compete in the "hole-in-one" contest. The individual golfers aren't limited to one try in the "hole-in-one" contest, but if they wish to re-enter they must pay the fifty cents entry fee for each additional try.

Merchandise prizes will be awarded to the flight winners, runners-up, and consolation winners.

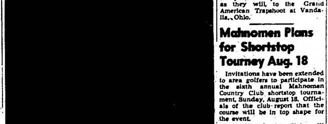
They Decided To Build Their Own



Recently the community of Goodridge village decided it was time to have their own fire truck. So they decided to build their own. It's strictly a man sized do-it-yourself project.

Last Tuesday Bruce Reski, county CD chief, handed over the keys to a GMC heavy duty truck to Carl Elg. The truck was obtained through property surplus, an agency of CD. It will be converted into a first-class fire fighting rig by the community. Men in the picture are: Bruce Reski handing keys to Carl Elg. Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Champions

That was a blue ribbon brand of softball that the Bridgeman's and the Len's Tire Service teams presented to a large crowd of fans at the East Side park on Tuesday evening. The Bridgeman's, scoring a pair of runs in the last half of the 10th inning, after the Len's had taken a 2 to 1 lead, won the game, and the series, by a 3 to 2 score.

That triumph capped a "jubilee" year for the Bridgeman's, for the team, with Bob Carlson pitching and Nicky Carlson providing the strategic moves, also won the league championship.

Tuesday evening's victory, which gave the Bridgeman's the final playoff series by a two games to one margin, was hard-earned, and the orange-and-black clad performed like true champions.

An indication of the game's outcome, and the caliber of the Bridgeman's play, can be judged by the 8th inning. The score was in a 1-all knot, the Len's having evened the game in the 7th inning. Wally Grovum led off for the Len's with a base hit, and took second on a wild throw; Joey Poole was given an intential walk; and Don Engelstad, attempting to sacrifice, was safe when Bob Carlson fumbled the ball.

There's the set up, bases loaded, none out, and the number four, five, and six batters, in the persons of Jack Erickson, Sid Vraa, and Pinky Adolphson, coming up. What happened? Erickson lofted a foul pop to third baseman Larry Gilbertson. Vraa hit into a force play, Gilbertson to catcher Irv Wilson. And Adolphson skied to Arne Engelstad in right field. That was championship defensive softball.

Now that the season has officially closed, and the Bridgeman's declared the champions of city softball, we would like to see a special challenge game between the Bjorkman's, with their full complement of players, including catcher Jimmy Anderson, and the Bridgeman's.

The Blue Chips

The Northern Minny league's top four teams—Bagley, Thief River Falls, Fosston, and Erskine—are primed for the opening games of the league's double elimination playoffs. Sunday's first round schedule will find Fosston playing at Bagley in an afternoon game, and the Erskine Merchants meeting the Thieves at Thief River Falls in a night game.

These are the games that will determine which team will win the "blue chips", and represent the league in the Region Two Class B tournament.

Unfortunately, the playoffs will begin with an under current of bitterness pervading the league. And this bitterness had its genesis at the league meeting that was held last Monday, at which time the league representatives, by a three to two vote, declared Erskine's Corky Johnson an ineligible player; and declared further that all the games in which Johnson had participated were in forfeit.

That was drastic action, but it was perhaps the right action. The unfortunate part of the protesting, and the consequent vote and the declaration of ineligibility, is that the Bagley Merchants were guilty of questionable practices last season when they had Dave Severud, a Concordia college student on their roster. Erskine feels that they have been made a "whipping boy" for the league.

Loot

Last Monday's edition of the Times carried the report of the newsworthy performance of young Stan (Sandy) Wilson in winning the handicap event of the Mid-west Trapshoot held at Fargo.

That wasn't a minor shoot, either, for in the handicap event on Sunday, young Wilson had to compete against a field of 108 shooters. Included in this group were such internationally-ranked shooters as Wisconsin's Vic Reinders, Minnesota's Bard Higgins, and Manitoba's Al Smith.

We were a bit curious about the loot that young Sandy brought back, and investigation revealed that the boodle was considerable. For winning the preliminary event, with a 93x100, in the low-yardage division, Sandy won a Model 77 Winchester 22 cal. rifle. In the "big" event, the handicap, he won another rifle, a Winchester Model 63, 22 cal. In addition he won a sterling silver pitcher, given by the F-M hotel, as well as a purse of money.

Stan Wilson Sr. also stands to win a wad of money as a result of his son's victory. Stan Sr., at the Calcutta auction, purchased Sandy for thirty-five dollars, and with Sandy's winning of the handicap event, Stan will perhaps win several hundred dollars.

The prize winning money has already been ear-marked for the expense account of Stan and Sandy when they make the trip, as they will, to the Grand American Trapshoot at Vandalia, Ohio.

North Minny League Playoffs Open Aug. 11

The Northern Minnesota baseball league's playoffs, to determine the league's entry in the Class B regional tournament, will find four teams—Bagley, Thief River Falls, Fosston, and Erskine, competing. The teams were ranked in that order, too, with Bagley the league champions as the number one team, Thief River Falls number two, Fosston number three, and Erskine number four.

The game scheduled for Sunday will find Fosston, the number three team, playing Bagley, the league champions, at Bagley at 2:30 p.m. 2At 8:00 p.m., on the Fair Grounds diamond at Thief River Falls, the fourth place Erskine Merchants will meet the runner-up Thieves.

The second game of the series will be played on Wednesday night, August 14th. One of the games will have the winners of the opening round's games playing. The sites for these games have not been announced, with the outcome of Sunday's games being a factor in determining the playing fields to be used on Wednesday.

It was decided, by a vote of three to two, that Erskine's Clark (Corky) Johnson is an ineligible player, and that all of the games in which he participated as a member of the Erskine team, have been declared forfeited. And further, Johnson is ineligible to participate in the league playoffs. The vote of the league representatives, with Red Lake Falls failing to have a representative at the meeting, found Fosston, Bagley, and Winger voting to declare Johnson ineligible; while Erskine and Thief River Falls cast votes in favor of his eligiblity.

The Northwestern Minnesota umpire's association will "call" the playoff games.

Drive on Litterbugs Makes Some Headway

Public and privately sponsored campaigns against litter tossed on Minnesota highways apparently are bearing fruit.

That was the word today from George Meskal, chief maintenance engineer of the highway department. His crews have the time and money consuming chore of cleaning up litter along the state's 11,000 miles of trunk highways.

According to tabulations just completed, he said, the number of truck loads of litter and refuse collected from the state's trunk highways in the first half of 1957 was 6,000, a reduction of 126 loads from the same period in 1956. The cost of the operation was correspondingly reduced from $156,084 for the first half of 1956 to $150,395 for the first half of this year.

Making up the $150,395 cost was 106,317 man hours of work and 44,078 truck use hours.

"The gain against litter this year has not been spectacular, but it's encouraging," he said. "It apparently shows a public realization that throwing litter on the highways costs Minnesota taxpayers a large sum of money each year, as well as marring the highways' appearance and creating safety hazards."

It was the revelation earlier this year by the highway department that trunk highway litter cost the state's taxpayers $225,800 for 1956 that spurred the drive against throwing debris on the highways—a drive spearheaded by Governor Freeman and supported by public officials, newspapers, radio, television and civic organizations. County and local roads are included in the effort.

Meskal said the cleanup costs for the first half of each year comprises a major share of the yearly total because they include the heavy spring-time cleanup of the winter's accumulation.

To curb activity of litterbugs, the state highway department is now installing new, more legible signs along trunk routes to warn motorists that it is a law violation to deposit rubbish on the highways. Such a violation is punishable as a misdemeanor. With the posting of the new signs, the highway patrol has launched an intensified drive against litterbugs.

The department also plans, Meskal said, to place refuse cans at various points along the trunk highways. Some business firms and civic organizations also distribute litter deposit bags to be carried in automobiles and trunks.

Minnesota Banks Largest Lenders to State Farmers

Elmer Bratsch, County Associate Councilman, Cites Banks' Leading Role

Again in 1956, Minnesota farmers met the bulk of their credit needs through loans from their local banks, according to Elmer W. Bratsch of the Union State Bank, who represents the Minnesota Bankers association as Pennington county associate councilman. During the year, the state's banks remained the leaders in farm credit service by providing far more financial aid to farmers than any other lending agency, he noted.

Using figures from the sixteenth annual farm lending summary of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers association, Bratsch pointed out that on January 1, 1957, Minnesota banks had a total of $229,117,000 in loans outstanding to farmers, compared with $222,732,000 a year ago. On the same date, $117,074,000 was held in Minnesota farm loans by insurance companies, the second largest lender to the state's farmers; $89,188,000 was held by Federal land banks; $20,203,000 by production credit associations; and $22,334,000 by the Farmers Home Administration.

The total of farm credit outstanding in banks was made up of $168,969,000 in production loans and $60,148,000 in farm mortgages. In addition, Minnesota banks held $82,512,000 in C.C.C. paper not included in the above total.

Bratsch commented especially on the increase in farm capital requirements to the present very high levels. "This increase," he said, "has created a growing need for loans with repayment periods of longer than one year. Banks are meeting this need in part by using a larger proportion of real estate credit to finance non-real estate investments."

Oil Spraying Keeps Eggs Fresh Longer

Poultry Researcher at 'U' M. Reports Findings

Farmers can market higher quality eggs by spraying them with oil shortly after they're gathered, a University of Minnesota scientist said today.

Milo Swanson, poultry researcher, told the annual Poultry Science association meeting at the University of Missouri, August 619, that in recent experiments, spraying eggs with egg-processing oil kept them as high in grade as did complete dipping in oil. Both methods resulted in eggs that were much higher in quality after storage than were untreated eggs.

Spraying, though, is easier for the farmer to do, makes certain that fresh oil is used for each treatment, and costs only a fraction of a cent for each dozen treated.

Swanson compared spraying, complete dipping in oil and covering one-fourth, one-half and three-fourths of the egg surface with no oil treatment at all. The eggs were naturally clean and treated the same day gathered.

After storage for 12 days at 75-85 degrees, sprayed eggs were 95 percent grade A or better and dipped eggs were 92 percent grade A. Untreated eggs were only 12 percent grade A or better and partially oiled eggs varied between no oiling and dipping. Untreated eggs lost five times as much weight as did sprayed or dipper eggs.

All eggs were edible after storage; the only difference was in grade.

Spraying was done by placing eggs small-end down in one-piece "filler flats" and spraying with a hand-operated insecticide type sprayer.

Swanson said oiling helps maintain high quality because it prevents natural carbon dioxide in eggs from escaping. Carbon dioxide keeps the albumin and yolk in eggs more stable, meaning that if the gas isn't lost, the eggs stay fresh longer.

He emphasized, though, that oiling won't prevent spoilage in dirty eggs or spoilage that results from poor washing practices. It's most effective, he said, when done on naturally clean eggs the same day they are gathered.

July Traffic Deaths Lowest in Ten Years

Minnesota traffic deaths for July were the lowest for that month in ten years, almost 40 percent lower than July of 1956, the state highway department announced today.

The 50 fatalities on Minnesota's streets and highways during July were 32 below the 82 charged against the same month last year, and lower than any year since 1947, when 41 deaths occurred in July.

At the same time, the department announced that the death rate per 100 million miles of vehicle travel had dropped for the month from 6.7 rate of 1956 to a preliminary figure of 3.7 fatalities per 100 million miles.

The 50 deaths in July occurred in 39 fatal accidents, compared to 73 fatal accidents last July. This brought the fatal accident rate down from 5.9 per 100 million miles to 2.8 for July of this year.

July and August are the two most heavily traveled months in the year, the department reported. It estimated that motorists traveled 1,342,195,000 miles on Minnesota highways during July, and that they would travel 1,355,225,000 miles during August. The estimates show an increase of about 10 percent over the summer of 1956.

The same two months showed the highest monthly fatality totals during the past two years, with 81 in August of 1956. (61 and 00 in July and August, 1955).

CARE Seeks Funds to Buy Tools for Needy Overseas

Express Agency Taking Donations for Support of Self-help Program

A drive to spur public support here for the current overseas "Self-Help" program of CARE has been launched at the local Railway Express Agency office, which serves as a collection center for CARE donations, it was announced by A. W. Dahl, Agent.

Contributions in any amount are solicited to provide needy people in other lands with the tools to increase their own food supply and earnings and to improve their health and education so they can stand on their own feet and build a future independent of direct outside assistance.

While CARE food packages continue to bring immediate aid to the hungry, the express official pointed out that the "self-help" type of gift is an essential step toward lasting improvement.

CARE donors now can contribute toward plows and hand tools for farmers; tool kits for carpenters, mechanics and other craftsmen; books and school supplies; and medical and public health supplies and equipment.

Contributions for this drive as well as for continuing food and relief packages, may be taken or sent to Railway Express Agency, Thief River Falls, for forwarding to CARE, New York.

BAGLEY DUDES TO STAR IN "DONKEY BALL"

(Farmers Independent)

"You can laugh for an hour and a half" says a poster being put out this week by the Bagley Merchants baseball team calling attention to "Donkey Ball" to be played at Bagley Monday, July 29, at 6:30 p.m. on the local diamond.

Billed as the world's only white donkey show the promoters claim that this show is better than a rodeo and, with all local riders, the world's funniest ball game. There will be plenty of bucking donkeys.

It's Nice To Be Missed

Withdrawal of the last American division from Japan will soon be under way and that is a thing we all should feel good about. It is not surprising to learn however that in in Japan this departure of the Yanks is looked upon as a mixed blessing.

For some communities it means the loss of a substantial payroll. A division of American soldiers is a big industry upon which a large segment of civilian population becomes dependent for its livelihood.

There is a little consolation for us in knowing that the folks who didn't like us will us miss us when we are gone.

All Is Forgiven

We are sorry for all the mean things we have said about the fellows who tell us what the weather is going to be. The American Meteorological Society, speaking for its 6,-500 members serving as meteorologists in universities, government weather agencies and in private industry thruout the country, has issued a statement admitting that its members do not know much about what they are talking about.

> "The position of the American Meteorological Society," the statement says, "is that individuals or organizations that publish forecasts for conditions more than one month in advance mislead the public if they do not clearly describe the forecasts as experimental and of unproven value. Futhermore, the society holds that the issuance of detailed day-to-day weather forecasts for more than two or three days in advance is misleading and is not justified by present meteorological knowledge."

Such an admission of inability is refreshing, and does much to restore our faith in the integrity of the scientists who admittedly are still groping for answers in this field about which so much is said and so little is known. It means that at last we are beginning to make progress.

It is interesting to know that these weather men are their own most severe critics. At the end of the year they review their work, checking their predictions with what actually occurred, and keeping a score on their own hits and misses.

Such a program of retrospection probably would be helpful for all of us.

Another Import Problem

Foreign competition is a headache in the oil industry too. American wells produced 2.6 billion barrels of the world's total production of 6.0 billion barrels last year, nearly half. But this domestic production still was not adequate for our own needs. Imports are necessary. But there are differences of opinion as to how large these imports should be.

A special committee appointed by President Eisenhower to study this problem, reported last week, and on the strength of this report the President asked the oil companies to voluntarily cut imports by ten per cent. The excuse for the reduction is that it will encourage exploration in our country and make us more self-sufficient in the event of war.

It is a little difficult to follow such reasoning. Presumably a scarcity of oil in our country would result in higher prices and higher prices no doubt would encourage exploration and, eventually, increased domestic production. But oil is not a crop that can be grown like cotton and wheat. Oil is a limited mineral resource that is irreplaceable.

Under the circumstances it would seem that the crafty thing to do, considering our long-range future needs, would be to encourage imports at this time rather than discourage them. Our undiscovered oil reserves will be reserves only as long as we let them remain in the storage vaults that they now occupy.

Curbing imports at this time probably will be helpful to the oil industry but higher prices will not benefit the American public.

Is Socialism Coming?

Don Brown of the Waseca Herald, says that stopping Socialism in this country is a hopeless cause. This statement is challenging enough to justify a good argument on the occasion of our next meeting. While we admit the prospect is discouraging, we would not agree that the cause is hopeless.

As a necessary preliminary to any meeting of mighty minds there should be an agreement on definitions. Socialism, as a term defining a particular political theory, is almost as meaningless as Republican and Democratic.

By some standards our government is already socialistic, but the Communism of Russia is also socialistic. Among those who worship at the shrine of Karl Marx there are wide differences of opinion.

We are sure Don Brown is not resigned to our present free enterprise system being replaced by Communism. And we can see nothing in the present trend that would justify the fear that our free enterprise system is in serious danger of being replaced by any form of government ownership.

As our society becomes more complex we are being subjected to more regulations and more regimentation. It is to be expected that this trend will continue.

There no doubt will be expansion of co-operative activities, but the cooperatives are very much a part of our free enterprise system.

There are some danger signals that justify concern about the survival of our form of government. Emerson observed that while a nation may suffer because of the greed or corruption of a few men, only when the masses of the people become corrupt is there any real danger.

There is danger now in the fact that a large and steadily increasing number of our people are directly or indirectly supported by public funds. Some divisions of this numerous body are already vicious pressure groups. They are strong politically and lack the restraint that generally is associated with responsibility.

We are headed for a battle between those who pay the taxes and those who are on the receiving end when the tax money is distributed. But tax payers will eventually win the argument. When the burden gets too heavy they will quit paying, and then we will start over again, as we have done before.

We may have to go through the financial wringer again, but we don't think that Socialism, as such, is just around the corner.

Leadership Needed

Senator Edward J. Thye thinks the Republicans will have a better chance of carrying Minnesota in the next election because the market for farm products has firmed. It is true that beef and pork and eggs are up, and some other prices have advanced, but so what?

The lines on the price charts of some of these products, that mean much to the economy of our state, are now moving up. If they follow the usual pattern they will reach a crest, level off, and then go into a decline.

For each of these commodities a period of high prices is followed by a period of low prices. Unless they are influenced by unusual conditions these cycles of ups and downs follow a fairly consistent pattern. And while some prices may be favorable now, we have no assurance that they will continue to be favorable until next election day.

This is true of course only for those products that sold on a free market. And there is no reason to believe that this free market is affected by elections, that beef is worth more today, or was worth less yesterday, because the President happens to be either a Republican or a Democrat.

It is important that we understand that the present higher prices for beef and pork and eggs are due entirely to the normal functioning of the law of supply and demand.

Not so long ago, when the prices for these products were depressed, there was agitation for government price supports. It is significant that the demands for government aid at that time were vigorously opposed by the organizations that represented the growers of these products.

The opposition to price props by the organized producers was based on a recognition of the fact that government price supports would lead inevitably to government production controls. They preferred the natural supply and demand adjustments to the chaos that would come with government tinkering.

Most of our farm products are sold on a free market, without government guarantees or interference. It is the crops that are regulated by the government that are giving us most trouble, and the crops that are regulated by the producers themselves, through their own organizations, are giving us the least trouble.

We think the prospects for the future of the Republicans would be much brighter if in their campaigning they would be more concerned about the farm facts and less hopeful about getting a lucky break in the market. We are satisfied that they would find more favor with the voters, and with the farmers themselves, if they faced the issues realistically.

Most of us agree that the government has no business being in the price support business for any industry, except on a temporary, emergency relief basis. Agriculture has needed help in making the adjustment from a war time to a peace time economy, but there is no justification for assuming a price support program to be a permanent government obligation.

Agriculture needs help mainly in getting itself organized to help itself. Direct aids should gradually be changed to indirect aids, in the form of assistance to growers in organizing as commodity groups for the control of their own production and marketing problems.

Up to the present time neither of the major parties deserve much credit for leadership in the sponsoring of measures that actually would bring about sound solutions for the farm problems. Both parties have been too much interested in relieving the pain and not enough interested in effecting a cure.

SENATOR THYE Reports TO YOU

Strong Civil Rights Bill

The second climax in the Civil Rights debate came at approximately midnight last Thursday when the Senate voted to extend jury trial to the injunction procedures designed to assure the right to vote by all citizens. — This further weakened the Civil Rights bill. 39 Democrats and 12 Republicans voted for the amendment to provide for a jury trial in contempt cases. 33 Republicans and 9 Democrats voted against the jury trial amendment. I voted against the amendment. The issue involved in the last week of debate was discussed in terms of the jury trial. Actually, the issue was whether all citizens are to enjoy the right to vote in free elections.—This was a classic and historic debate in the Senate which went to the very heart of America's heritage. My votes and the great majority of the Republican Senators' votes were cast to insure that all citizens be assured of their human rights under our Constitution and laws.

Thye Moves to Extend SBA

A story interwoven in the Civil Rights debate is that of the Small Business Administration. This Agency was due to expire at midnight July 31. In order to extend its existence, the Senate had to pass a bill, but the parliamentary rules of the Senate would not allow this during the Civil Rights debate unless there was a unanimous consent to set aside Civil Rights long enough to consider the SBA bill.—Unanimous consent could not be obtained due to objection by Senator Morse and SBA did go out of existence as of midnight July 31.— During debate last Thursday night, the Senate decided to take up the SBA bill the next morning. This was accomplished through the concerted efforts of Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Minority Leader William Knowland, and myself. —I also introduced the amendment which would reactivate as well as extend SBA so that it would have an uninterrupted life.

There were good developments in connection with the Bethel Air Base in the last ten days. $550,000 is in the military appropriations for the needed planning funds. A conference was held in my office with Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles and other high governmental officials. Following this conference the necessary papers were signed and forwarded to Governor Freeman for his signatur. I have introduced a bill in the Senate which proposes to provide for funds to reimburse the State of Minnesota for the purchase cost of the approximately 7,000 acres of land at an estimated $1 million cost. I do not feel that the people of Minnesota should pay the land cost of the new defense installation. It has not been so required of other states. The Bethel Air Base will be ready for occupancy on about July 1, 1959.

If the Senate and House accept the Committee's recommendations, Elk River will be faced with delay, added expense, and a less beneficial contract.

COUNCIL DECLARES WAR ON MOSQUITOS

(The Kittson Enterprise)

Hallock's City Council met in special session Monday night of this week to consider means of handling the terrific mosquito infestation existing here as a result of past continued rains and high water backing up into draws and sloughs. Public sentiment was so great the council feels that it has acted entirely within the demands of the people.

The council agreed to have certain sections of the city sprayed. Residents will be charged $1 for spraying and this will be added to their water bills.

The Council is considering the purchase of a spraying machine of the fogging type for pest control the coming spring and next year the charge of $1 will be made for the months of June, July, August and September.

All the beautiful sentiments in the world weight less than a single lovely action.

Marshall County Has Nearly Finished Its Soil District Setup

Organization activities of the new Marshall county soil conservation district were nearly finished at a meeting held at the Warren courthouse on July 30. All supervisors were present as well as county attorney Warren Satre, who is the new district's legal advisor, and Herb Halverson of the Soil Conservation Service.

Business at hand consisted of the adoption of the new district's work plan and program of work for the next year. Halverson viewed the Soil Conservation Service memorandum of understanding with the supervisors and with Satre helping in interpreting legal phases of the memorandum.

Each local district board of supervisors must sign this memorandum with the Soil Conservation Service in order to receive the services of the technician furnished by the Soil Conservation Service.

Halvorson also informed the group that it is hoped that a new technician can be supplied by the month of September.

The following paragraphs are from the memorandum of agreement signed by the supervisors.

"The Marshall County Soil Conservation District, of Minnesota, and the Secretary of Agriculture, United States Department of Agriculture, have entered into a memorandum of understanding, which was signed by the District on the 30th day of July, 1957. That memorandum establishes a basis for the cooperation of agencies of the department with the District. Under the terms of the U. S. Soil Conservation Act of 1935, and other acts, the Soil Conservation Service is authorized to cooperate with and to furnish assistance to governmental subdivisions or agencies, such as the District for soil and water conservation work.

What The Service Will Do

1. The service will make available to the district the services of technical personnel especially trained in the science of soil and water conservation and provide such facilities as its employees may require for the efficient performance of their work. Through its state conservationist, the service will designate a conservationist as its primary staff member for assistance to the district.

2. As may be needed, service personnel will assist the District (1) in making necessary soil and other surveys; (2) in developing guiding conservation plans for watersheds or other natural areas; (3) in helping owners and operators of lands within the district to develop conservation plans for farms and other land units with the guidance of such surveys and plans; (4) in explaining cooperative agreements and working arrangements; (5) in aiding landowners and operators to perform operations which require technical skill beyond the experience of the individuals involved; (6) in preparing conservation plans for land owned or leased by the district, and in applying such plans; (7) in determining the adequacy of soil conservation practices which have been put into operation pursuant to conservation plans; (8) in recommending necessary revisions in such plans; (9) by installing certain of the words where agreed by the service and the District to be necessary; (10) as consultants in improving its program and in keeping the work plan current; (11) by serving, upon request, on such advisory committees as the District may establish; (12) in keeping records and preparing reports; and in other related activities.

3. Within the limits of its authority and available resources, the service will make available to the district such additional assistance as may be mutually determined to be necessary and desirable to enable the district to attain its objectives. This additional assistance may include (a) planting materials suitable for field observation or trials, seed increase, and similar conservation plantings, and (b) field equipment of a kind not generally owned by owners and operators of land within the District.

Rehabilitate 967 Persons in State

Total is up 42 Per Cent Compared to Year Before

967 persons—an all time high—were rehabilitated in Minnesota during the fiscal year of 1956-57. The increase of 42.5 per cent over the preceding year was reported to the state board of education meeting in St. Paul on Wednesday, August 7. The new record was included in the annual report of the state division of vocational rehabilitation presented to the board by Ben R. Brainerd, associate director.

Two of the 967 rehabilitants were residents of Pennington county.

Not only was there a sharp increase in the number of rehabilitants but 8,807 cases were processed during the year by the division which was an increase of 17 per cent over last year. This indicates that in the years to come an ever increasing number of handicapped persons will be becoming wage-earning, self-supporting, members of their communities.

As a group these 967 Minnesotans have increased their earnings tenfold as a result of the training or services provided by vocational rehabilitation; from an estimated $252,772 per year to $2,036,036 after rehabilitation. And on these earnings they are paying state and federal income taxes at the rate of $311,218 per year.

And assuming that they maintain at least their present level of income it will take them just three and half years to repay the entire cost of the rehabilitation program for the year—$1,132,501. This total includes over $75,000 in grants that the division provided to rehabilitation facilities in the state so that they might provide better treatment or training services for the disabled.

Rehabilitants range in age from the late teen's to the upper 60's with a median age of 33. They are filling an amazing variety of ocupations ranging from laborers and handymen to doctors, college instructors and highly skilled machinists with wages from $5 to $147 weekly and average weekly wage of $52.43.

Bids Sought on 3 Interstate Spans

Bridges Are Included in Federal Highway Program

Three bridge projects for development of two of the new interstate highway network routes in Minnesota are in a call for bids issued yesterday by the Minnesota Highway department. The call includes 11 state trunk highway projects in nine counties, to be completed at an estimated total cost of $1,700,000. The bids are to be received August 23 in St. Paul.

The biggest of the three interstate projects is for construction of gravel base and the bituminous resurfacing of 8.4 miles of the present two-lane roadway of T.H. 52 between Sauk Centre and Melrose as a part of the future four-lane Interstate 392, to extend across Minnesota from the Wisconsin border east of the Twin Cities to Moorhead on the North Dakota line.

A second interstate project is a 234-foot prestressed concrete girder span bridge to carry Rice St. over Interstate route 393, the Twin Cities circumferential link, just north of St. Paul.

The third interstate project is for the fabrication and delivery of steel for two grade separation bridges to carry Interstate route 393 under the Soo Line railroad tracks at two points near Rice St. at Cardigan Junction, north of St. Paul. Construction of the bridges will be provided in a separate, later project.

Sunday, Aug. 11th: Joint Mission Festival service at St. John's, 2:30 p.m., Luth. Church of Red Lake Falls. Guest speaker, Mr. Jesse Cornish of Mankato, Minn. Topic: "My Brother's Keeper."

Mr. Cornish is a native of Minnesota. After attending elementary and high school, Mr. Cornish studied theology, philosophy and social science at the University of Washington. In 1941 he entered military service, and served for over six years, participating in the invasion of Normandy. He remained in Germany and Czechoslovakia for more than a year with the Allied Military Intelligence Forces. After his return to the United States he served with the Army Public Relations Dept. until his discharge in 1948 because of disability from wounds sustained in action.

For the past four years he has been going into the heart of Africa in search of rare carvings in ebony and ivory, as well as other native art work. In Africa he slept in huts of native tribes and studied their cultural background of which he writes and lectures.

From first-hand experience he has come to know of these people in the heart of the world's second largest continent and has found the answers to some of the many pressing problems of the missions. Mr. Cornish speaks openly about racial problems. He has lectured extensively to schools, colleges, civil groups and church organizations.

FRONT and CENTER!
Front and center in this little community stands the Church.
Your church may not be so centrally located but all that it stands for is front and center
in your community life:
The worship of the God who made us and all that exists . . . The teaching of love and unselfishness as the highest good for all men . . .
The preaching of the worth and dignity of each individual . . . The motivation for service in the community . . .
The battle against evil in high places and low . . .
Your community needs the Church and all that it stands for—front and center!
And the Church needs you!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Driver Rela[illegible]iver Mishap

Twenty-two year old, James Kensal, operator of the boat related the tragic details of Sunday's boating accident shortly after he was helped to shore. Kensal didn't know exactly what happened but believed the mishap was caused by the boat's backwash hitting the concrete bridge piers. He said the boat went over easy and at first it appeared to be nothing serious. The boat went under the bridge betewen the first and second piers. Other members of the party recalled seeing Borgen immediately after the boat tipped over.

Harold Borgen, 37 Drowns in River

Local Man Loses Life When Boat Capsizes Near 3rd St. Bridge

The Red Lake River claimed its second victim of the year here, about 4:45 p.m. Sunday when Harold W. Borgen, 37, a city resident, drowned just below the Third st. bridge, following the upset of the boat he and five others were riding in.

The accident occurred when the boat driven by James Kensal was going south under the bridge behind a boat driven by Phil Hess, city.

Kensal said he slowed down when rough water threatened to swamp the boat but that when he throttled back the boat's outboard motor, a combination of the other boat's wake and the backwash of his motor caused the boat to roll over slowly on top of its occupants, with the stern going first.

The other five occupants of the boat, two of whom were nonswimmers, clung to the overturned boat, but Borgen attempted to swim to the west bank. Meanwhile, Hess, in the other boat had seen the accident and circled to aid the victims. Those in the water pointed to the floundering Borgen and Hess went to his aid, first diving for him where he had disappeared; but was unable to find him in the murky waters.

Hess then helped the other victims to shore and rescue operations for Borgen were begun. Dragging parties under the supervision of the city fire department draggerd the river about two hours before the victim's body was recovered at 6:30 from 20 ft. of water about 50 ft. offshore.

Three boats and 11 divers were involved in the search for Borgen.

In the boat with Kensal and Borgen were Marvin Borgen, uncle of the victim, Butch Trickle, 14, Phillip Hyder, 17, and Donny La Fave, 14. The boat is owned by William La Fave, father of Donny.

The victim was one of several persons at a picnic for the employees of Bridgeman Creameries being held at Tindolph Park Sunday afternoon. He had been employed at Bridgeman's since late May. He is survived by his wife, Gladys and daughter, Beverly 7, two brothers, and a half-sister. (Obituary elsewhere in this Times edition.)

The site of the Borgen drowning was less than a half-mile from where James Zavoral, 18 drowned Memorial Day, May 30. Zavoral drowned while attempting to swim from the north bank of the river pool to the Tindolph Park beach.

FLOODED OIL BURNER

The fire department was summoned Friday evening at 6:15 to the Lea Pahlen residence at 513 Markley av. S., where an oil burner on a hot water heater became flooded. No damage was reported.

16th District PTA Conference to Be Held Here Oct. 12

Preliminary Details Are Arranged at Meeting in Rex Cafe Last Thursday

Officials of the sixteenth district, Minnesota congress of parents and teachers, met Thursday afternoon at the Rex Cafe. The purpose of the meeting, called by district chairwoman Mrs. Vernon Smith, was to formulate plans for the district conference scheduled to be held in Thief River Falls this fall. Meeting with the district officers were representatives of the local PTA council and the four member groups of Thief River Falls.

It was decided that the fall conference should be a PTA workshop, working on several phases of activities. The date was set for Saturday, October 12, in the new Washington grade school.

District 16 is composed of 41 PTA units, and each unit is to send four delegates to the conference. The group will meet at 8:30 a.m. for coffee and donuts, after which a business session will be held. A noon luncheon will be served and the final session of the conference will start at 1:15 p.m.

In charge of local arrangements for the meeting will be a committee of the PTA council representing all of the member schools of Thief River Falls. Ormand Johnson, president, announced that a special meeting of the council will be held in August in order to complete plans.

Centennial Train to Visit City Next June

Local Committee Makes Preliminary Plans Thursday

At a meeting Thursday evening of the Pennington county committee for the Minnesota statehood centennial, Herman A. Kjos, chairman, stated he had been informed that June 7, 1958, had been selected as the tentative date for the Centennial exhibit train to visit Thief River Falls. The train, sponsored by Minnesota railroads, will carry a display of Minnesota resources and relics of the past.

C. E. Hellquist was named temporary chairman of a committee to enlist the cooperation of railroad workers and other groups to assist in the project.

Selection of a local candidate for the title of Minnesota Centennial Queen was left in the hands of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The girl chosen will compete for the title at the St. Paul Winter Carnival next January.

Bill LaFave reported on progress of negotiations for the acquisition of a seven-acre tract between the old and new highways east of the Eighth st. bridge as the site of a roadside parking area, where the state highway department has agreed to set up a stone historic monument. The property is owned by the Longren and Myrin families.

The committee went on record in favor of requesting the Pennington county board to approve a half-mill levy to cover expenses in connection with the centennial observance.

Added to the committee at Thursday's meeting were Robert J. Lund, Alf Borry and M. C. Gulbranson, representing the Rotary club; and Anton Hall and Supt. Irwin Mickelson.

P. P. Assessed Values Reveal Little Change

Equalization Board Accepts Assessor's Figures Unchanged

The Pennington county board, sitting last Thursday as a county board of equalization, accepted without change the 1957 figures on personal property assessments submitted by County Assessor Gunnef Gunstenson.

Full and true valuations for the current year aggregated $5,209,740, while assessed valuations amounted to $1,400,897, compared with $1,424,116 for 1956, or a decrease of slightly more than $23,000. These figures, said Gunstenson, do not include the substantial total of pipeline assessments, which will be considerably higher this year due to new construction completed since the 1956 assessment date.

He estimated that when all the figures are in, and taking into consideration new building construction, the total assessed valuations for the county should be fully equal to the 1956 figures.

The rural areas of the county this year had a total of $508,196 in assessed valuations of personal property, compared to $861,607 for Thief River Falls; $23,198 for St. Hilaire; and $7,896 for Goodridge.

The assessment covers 1,080 rural households, 1,692 in Thief River Falls, 62 in St. Hilaire, and 31 in Goodridge.

TRF Represented at U. S. Visitors' Day in Winnipeg

Thief River Falls was well represented in the American Visitors Day crowds at Winnipeg Saturday. Mayor Orlon D. Belch rode in the section of visiting mayors in the parade and Bridgeman's Half Pints strutted creditably through the streets in that procession as one of the two visiting marching units.

Professional football was the featured evening entertainment and the visitors enjoyed a thrilling game played under Canadian rules. The Winnipeg Bombers defeating a favored Ottawa team 36 to 6. Bob McNamara, former Minnesota star, played an outstanding game for the Bombers, coached by Bud Grant, one of Minnesota's great ends.

There are 12 men on a Canadian team compared to our 11, the extra man being in the backfield. There was no penalty for backfield in motion and the 10 yard advance had to be made in three downs. The playing field was wider than ours and 10 yards longer. Failure to run a ball out of the end zone gave the opposing team one point. The visitors agreed that the Canadian game had much to recommend it.

Social Security for 637 County Citizens Hits $27,586 Monthly

A total of 637 beneficiaries in Pennington County were getting monthly social security payments totalling $27,886 at the end of 1956. The number of beneficiaries increased by 119 over 1955 and the total monthly benefits being paid in the county at the close of the year was $6601 over the total being paid a year ago, Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the social security office in Grand Forks announced today. These increases, he noted, result in part from the protection provided to farm families by the coverage of farm employment and self-employment under social security.

He pointed out that self-employed farmers were first brought under social security in January 1955. Those over retirement age at that time, or who reached retirement age before the end of 1956, became insured if they reported self-employment income of at least $100 for 1955, and again for 1956. These insured persons were able to qualify for old-age benefit payments during the latter year. The number of farm claims filed in 1957 will be much greater Kistler said. For example, during the 6 months, January-June 1957, 4131 farm claims for benefits had been filed.

Noting the impact of farm coverage in general on essentially agricultural areas like Pennington county, Kistler said that a farm employee, for instance, who was already at retirement age by mid-1956 became insured as of April 1 of that year if he had taxable wages of $400 or more in 1955 and at least $200 in 1956. Benefits paid to farmers and their dependents, moreover, figured in the nationwide totals for 1956. At the close of the year, over 9 million people were receiving almost one-half billion dollars in monthly benefit payments.

In Pennington county for the month of December 1956, 401 retired workers were getting $20179 monthly. Also, 112 wives or dependent aged husbands of retired workers were being paid a total of $2820 monthly; in the same county for December, a total of $778 was being paid to aged widows or dependent aged widowers and parents of deceased workers. This was an increase of 36% in monthly payments to aged workers and their dependents and 82% to dependent aged survivors of deceased workers in this area. The lowering of the age at which a

New Washington School Building Accepted Shortly

To Start Installing of Furniture and Equipment in Structure This Week

Following an inspection last Thursday of the new Washington school by architects and members of the board of education in company with the contractors, it was indicated that final acceptance of the structure will be made within a week, following the adjustment of a number of minor items.

In the meantime, Supt. Irwin Mickelson stated, the big task of installing furniture and other equipment will get under way this week. The various items are now on hand and in storage in the high school gymnasium and garage.

While in the city, Maurice Mandel, general contractor on the new area vocational school addition, predicted that the major portion of the structure would be completed in time for occupancy at the start of the fall term Tuesday, September 3.

Area Hot Weather Relaxed Sunday

Cooler Temperatures in Prospect for This Week

A gradual decline in the day-to-day high temperatures is becoming more noticeable in the weather records as Old Sol makes his way south again. This doesn't mean we won't have hot weather for the remainder of August but area residents welcome the slight decreases which have occurred so far.

The drop the past week was from the low 90's into the mid-80's and over the weekend a vast cold front brought winds that were, to some, downright chilling, along with several degrees cooler temperatures.

The high temperature recorded at KTRF since Thursday was 86 on that day, followed by an 83 reading Saturday. The low temperature, 56, was also recorded last Thursday. Only a trace of precipitation fell, that occurring Saturday as a light shower.

The forecast is for mostly fair weather locally cooler temperatures today with highs ranging from 73 to 83. We will have partly cloudy skies with scattered showers of thunder-storms tonight and Tuesday.

Little temperature change is expected tonight with lows about 62. Moderate easterly winds today changing to southeasterly Tuesday with little change in humidity is predicted.

Lincoln Students Asked to Register

Those Not Registered Last Spring Asked to Report

Students who are new here or failed to register at Lincoln high school last spring are urged to do so within the next two weeks, F. Miles Nelson, principal, stated today.

Any students who have not registered for a course in French are asked to call or see Mr. Nelson as soon as possible.

A change has been made from German, which was originally scheduled, to French because of the availability of a teacher of that language.

Dragging Operations Ended at 6:30 p.m.

The body of Harold Borgen, victim of a Sunday afternoon boating accident, was recovered after two hours of dragging operations in the section of the Red Lake River near the Third street bridge. The man was one of six people who were thrown into th water when their motorboat ran into rough water and tipped over. Borgen attempted to swim for the river bank, a distance of some 50 feet. The other members of the party stayed with the boat until help arrived.

Black River and Polk Centre Group Starts Work for New Ditch

Farmers in Black River and Polk Centre townships agreed last week to begin legal procedures to construct an entirely new drainage ditch leading into the Black River.

The action took place last Thursday night when 16 farmers from the area met with Pennington county officials in Black River Township.

Don Lawrence, county soil conservation agent, presented the proposed drainage program as outlined by a soil conservation field survey group three years ago. At that time the farmers had asked the soil conservation service to conduct a survey and make recommendations.

Other officials at the meeting were Ralph Hauswirth, area engineer for the soil conservation service and Joe Seidel, Pennington county engineer.

During the meeting the farmers named a steering committee to begin signing up farmers in the area affected. Members of the committee are John Steiger, Edgar Naplin and Fred Eckstein.

According to officials, the proposed drainage ditch will be completed sometime in 1958.

Statue of State Woman Is Planned

Maria Sanford Statue to Be Placed in Washington

Initial steps toward sculpting of a long-planned statue of Minnesota educator Marie Sanford, to stand in Statuary Hall in Washington, D. C., have been taken with formation of a five-member Centennial Commission committee.

Miss Sanford was a professor of rhetoric at the University of Minnesota who became known as Minnesota's "Apostle of Culture and Patriotism." She died in 1920.

State Sen. Elmer L. Andersen of St. Paul heads the new group which will choose a sculptor and have the statue installed in Washington during the 1958 Minnesota Centennial.

Sen. Anderson said his group will hold its first meeting in September. He said the sculptor "most probably will be a Minnesota artist."

Members of Anderson's committee are state Rep. Leo. Mosier of Minneapolis, past president Mrs. E. R. Starkweather of the Minnesota Federation of Women's Clubs, Dean Melva Lind of Gustavus Adolphus College of St. Peter and Director Arthur Smith of the Tweed Art Gallery at Duluth.

Maria Sanford was designated by the 1917 Legislature as the second Minnesotan to be honored in the Hall of Statuary. Each state is allowed two statues. Henry M. Rice, territorial pioneer who later became a U. S. Senator, holds the other place of honor.

Persons with Special Interests Invited to Minneapolis Sessions

Anyone with a special interest from poetry to Africa or from stewardship work to college teaching will find opportunity to discuss this topic with others of mutual taste during luncheon and meetings of "interest groups" during the Lutheran World Federation's international assembly in Minneapolis August 15-25.

There will be 37 different "interest groups" meeting during the Assembly period. Most of these are open on a first come, first served basis for those who get their tickets before they run out. These are obtainable at the LWF interest groups booth in the Minneapolis Auditorium, where Assembly sessions are held, for the cost of the meal. Where there is no luncheon, the doors are open to those who come. Speakers for the groups are leaders in their fields. Exact topics, speakers, location and time are listed in the assembly handbook available to all visitors and also published in the Assembly Daily Bulletin.

Among the meetings scheduled are those for nurses, church editors, missionaries, youth workers, Scandinavians, Deaconesses, poets and hymn writers, musicians, artists, Stewardship and Evangelism directors, rural and urban church members, lay workers and parish workers. Persons interested in the political, social and church life of Africa and Asia are also invited to hear speakers from these continents.

Between 5-6,000 persons are expected each day of the Assembly including the 670 delegates, official visitors and guests from overseas. Representatives from 50 countries will be attending the Assembly, which is being held for the first time in the United States. The Concluding Festival Service, August 25 at 4 p.m., will be held on the State Capitol Approach in St. Paul and is expected to attract up to 100,000 worshipers.

Miss Overum earned 17 points for her exhibits, including several first prize awards.

FOR MINNESOTA'S PRE-SCHOOL CHILDREN

Research has shown that most children who fail in the first grades of school have vision difficulties. The number of reading failures runs as high as one out of four.

To help you determine if your pre-school child is "Visually Ready" for reading, members of the Minnesota Optometric Association are offering free "vision screenings" to all Minnesota Children who will enter school for the first time this year.

These optometrists will conduct tests to determine if the child sees well at a distance, at near; will determine if the child uses both eyes in coordination, and will examine the general condition of the eye. This is NOT a substitute for a complete visual examination, but the parents and children will learn if vision care is necessary before the child has lost a valuable year of school.

Make an appointment for August 19 with an optometrist who displays the emblem shown below, or drop in at his office at your convenience August 19.

These Free Vision Screenings are offered as a Public Service to the Children of Minnesota by Members of the

MINNESOTA OPTOMETRIC ASSOCIATION

State Farm Bureau Is Seeking Early End of Daylight Saving

Gov. Freeman has the power and should use it, to end daylight saving time ahead of the Oct. 26 deadline originally set, the head of Minnesota Farm Bureau federation believes.

Attorney General Miles Lord, meanwhile, said he would have to check the lawbooks and report this week on the governor's request to him for an official opinion on how soon clocks can be re-set to standard time.

James Morton, Hancock farmer who heads the state Farm bureau, said Saturday, "We think the governor, who was authorized by the legislature so set the opening and closing dates for daylight saving time, has the power to change his original Oct. 26 closing date to a September date to fit school re-opening.

"The law is quite open that the governor can match neighboring states. Both the Dakotas are on regular time, and Wisconsin will go off daylight time a month before the late-October Minnesota date."

On the contrary, said Thomas Hughes, the governor's secretary, "the law says the governor must set daylight saving time in conformity with the majority of the other states of the country."

That clause may rule out any "discretionary" power of the Minnesota governor to set an earlier date than late October to go back on standard time, it was argued.

Morton, in a letter to Freeman, asks standard time be resumed with the start of school the first week in September.

Minnesota State Grange, through its master, farmer William Pearson of Oglivie, agreed with the Farm Bureau stand that daylight saving time should end both to aid harvesting and get children off to school late enough in the day to avoid waiting for school buses in darkness.

In harvesting farmers don't want to start their day an hour earlier than sun-time. Dew on small grains, and second-crop hay means a wasted hour in the morning.

"Your hired help wants to go by the clock, and late in the afternoon, when the farmer himself has to go right on working, his help wants to call it quits under daylight saving," Pearson said.

J. D. WINTERS

W. H. ALDERMAN

Among the many authorities on gardening who will speak at the Horticultural society convention in Lincoln high school Thursday are W. H. Alderman, former head of the 'U' of Minnesota horticulture department; and J. D. Winter, a present member of the department. Dr. Alderman will speak at Thursday morning's session on "What's Going on in the horticultural world?" Dr. Winters will speak at 3 p. m. on a fruit and vegetable symposium.

At a diner Friday evening at 6 o'clock in Zion church, J. M. Witmer of Minneapolis, member of the executive board of the state society, will serve as moderator in a discussion of garden club leadership problems.

As an added feature of the convention, exhibits pertaining to horticulture will be on display Thursday and Friday at Lincoln high school.

M. C. Gulbranson, committee chairman, is arranging a series of three post-convention tours for Saturday, August 17. If a sufficient number are interested, a bus tour will be made to Morden, Manitoba, experiment station; while private cars will be used for trips to the Northwest experiment station at Crookston and Mud Lake national wildlife refuge east of Holt.

Many Residents of County Collect Social Security

woman without an entitled child in her care can start getting benefits in these figures, Kistler pointed out. Effective with November 1956 benefits could be paid to women starting at age 62.

Monthly payments of $815 were being made to 17 widowed mothers with children under 18 in their care and minor children of retired or deceased workers. Nine out of ten mothers and children in the United States now have social security protection. At the end of the year, nationwide, about 1,341,000 children under 18 were receiving monthly social security insurance payments.

Of these, 131,000 were being paid monthly benefits because of the retirement of an aged insured parent. Children who become totally disabled before age 18 may now be eligible for disabled child's benefit payments after age 18. This type of security insurance benefit, however, did not become payable until January 1957 and such benefits and beneficiaries are not included in the figures quoted above.

Commenting on the steady growth of the social security insurance program, Kistler said that three-fourths of all men becoming 65 this year will be eligible for social security benefit payments.

Shootin' the Breeze

Saturday a.m. . . . from our office window we see bank and courthouse employees stroll by in their casual clothes, which seems strange until one remembers — they don't work Saturdays any more.

Bully for 'em . . . it's nice to see somebody get a break. We've always believed working people can do just as much work in five days as they can in five-and-a-half. Their minds aren't on their work Saturday mornings, anyway!

We hear the governor has asked the attorney general if he can decree a return to Central Standard Time before the official Oct. 26 date as specified by the law putting Minnesota on Daylight Saving Time.

Whether he can or not doesn't make too much difference to us—but we do like DST in the summer. As for its upsetting the farm folks we can't see that it should make too much difference . . . they work from sunup to sundown anyway so why should one little old hour be of so much concern?

Daylight Saving Time has been greatly enjoyed by most working people and we can't see why anyone would want to deny the working folks a little more time each day to enjoy this wonderful summer weather!

This week comes the annual Back-to-School promotion by local merchants. There's one group that probably isn't nearly so enthusiastic as the merchants — and another group that might be even more enthusiastic. As Jim Sollie says, the kids will go — but not willingly, they'll drag their feet at every opportunity! It's probably a different story with harassed mothers, tho.

Seriously, kids, we'd gladly shed a few of our growing years just to go back to school again. Enjoy it while you can!

Can you imagine . . . just a little over a month from now the Sharptail Grouse hunting season opens. While we enjoy hunting very much we'd prefer to have a couple more months of fishing weather. One has to buy heating fuel and shotgun shells at about the same time—that's too much of a financial burden with the prices on each what they are!

We don't envy our local police—or police anywhere for that matter. Of all the nice folks in the world one can associate with our boys in blue all too often get the other kind. No wonder some policemen are soured on humanity in general!

Speaking of policemen, there's a nice little essay on "What is a policeman" pinned to the local station's bulletin board. It really goes to the heart of the matter, too, — if you're ever over that way read it sometime.

Thief River Falls is lucky to have such a nice, friendly, efficient bunch of boys on our police force and we find 'em most cooperative in helping out with our news-gathering job.

We're sorry we ever mentioned the Saint Loole Cards in our column a week or so ago. Since then the Redbirds have dropped back into second place by 2½ games (at this writing.) Maybe this column is a hex, after all. So long!

Small Scale Threshing Operations In The Valley

Last Friday a group of men gathered at the Jens Kierk farm to harvest the barley being grown on the fertilizer test plots. Members of the threshing party were: Frank Fanberg, man with pitchfork, Minnesota crop improvement service; Don Lawrence, Pennington county soil conservation technician, filling and assorting the harvest; Frank Heck, feeding machine; Arnt Aune, handing up the barley, and Erling Weiberg, county extension agent from Warren, who stopped in on the party to talk things over. Paul Stelmaschuk, was in the field with other members of the party cutting the barley.

Optometrists Note Vision Day August 19

As a part of its state-wide public service program, the Minnesota Optometric association has designated Monday, August 19 as "Vision Day" for all pre-school children in the area. On that day member optometrists will conduct in their own offices in the various communities of the state a special pre-school vision screening program to determine the "visual readiness" of children who this year will be entering schools throughout Minnesota for the first time.

Participating member optometrists will conduct the screenings without charge in their own offices. Parents of pre-school children may call in advance for an appointment, or they may bring their children to the optometrists offices at any time during the hours of 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Monday, August 19th.

All Thief River Falls optometrists are cooperating in this program and will set that day aside in their offices to conduct the screenings. This program has already been conducted in Thief River Falls for all local pre-school children. Those who did not take advantage of the service at that time may do so along with pre-school children from anywhere in the territory.

It was emphasized that the "screenings" do not substitute for a complete visual examination, but will determine if a visual problem exists or if the child is suffering from an eye condition which needs treatment. Optometrists specialize in vision, but do not treat diseases of the eye, it was explained.

The "screenings" also will determine a child's readiness for school and particularly will aid in forecasting his potential reading ability. Reading is the most difficult visual task children face during their first three years in school, it was pointed out. Modern visual science can readily determine if the child possesses the visual skills necessary for reading, as well as the ability to see clearly.

Cites Inequities in Property Taxes

State Taxpayers Group Points out Variations

"Inequities in the administration of the property tax are probably greater than in any form of taxation" Charles P. Stone, general counsel of Minnesota Taxpayers Association said today in discussing property tax assessments in Minnesota and elsewhere.

Mr. Stone quoted a June 1957 article in the National Tax Journal as authority for figures indicating that in states where the statutory standard of assessment is 100% of market or sales value, actual assessments vary from a low of 6.1% to a high of 80.59% of such value, and the statewide average of such assessments in these states varies from a low of 13% to a high of 57.28%.

In Minnesota the statewide average of real estate assessments (assessors' true and full values) is 33.7% of sales value, according to a summary report of an assessment-sales ratio study recently made by the department of taxation. By counties, the assessment-sales ratios vary from 1.8% in St. Louis County (excluding Duluth) to 47.3% in Lac qui Parle County.

"This means that a property in Lac qui Parle County will be subjected to a state property tax of almost 2½ times the amount which a property of identical market value located in St. Louis County will have to pay." Mr. Stone said. "While the state mill levy on property is a relatively small part of the total property tax levy, this manifestly is unfair and inequitable."

"Even wider discrepancies are to be found in the assessments within Counties," Mr. Stone went on to point out. "In Carver County, for example, the assessment-sales ratio of residential property in one village is 28.7% and in another village 69.8%."

Explains U. S. Pact on Potato Marketing

The "flexibility" feature of federal marketing agreements is important to the potato industry in working out marketing programs which will give growers reasonable returns in years of surplus production, according to Lyle W. Currie, executive secretary of the Red River Valley Potato Growers association.

Under a federal marketing agreement the industry may, if it desires, loosen or suspend any regulatory action in only 24 hours; of if it desires regulatory action or desires to tighten up a regulation, do this in 15 days. This is in contrast to the present time requirement of 60-90 days under the state program which Valley potato growers are operating.

Market conditions can change materially during a shipping season due to many unforeseen reasons. Growers have experienced good early season prices with serious drops coming after first of the year, and also poor early season prices with strength coming later in the season. Since the potato deal is subject to extremes, the flexibility feature provides an industry the opportunity to regulate or not regulate itself as market prices and a sensible marketing program dictates.

Contrary to some belief, a federal marketing agreement does not automatically impose regulatory action. The agreement grants the industry permissive authority to use none, parts of, or the whole package, of market practice regulations covered within the agreement. It may be compared to a fishing license. The license gives the authority to fish, but it isn't mandatory that you fish. The same is true of a marketing agreement, it gives the industry the authority to use the tools provided, but it isn't mandatory that they be used.

Potatoes are subject to wide variance in total production, due to weather, insects, and disease conditions which are never predictable. Potatoes are also extremely sensitive pricewise to slight surplus. The marketing agreement, with its flexibility, gives the industry, under surplus conditions, the chance to withhold part of the crop by grade regulation and adjust supply flow to market demand. Such withholding reducing supply of potatoes available in the market usually results in better prices.

Northern Region Firemen Met in Crookston Aug. 8

117 Members from 26 Communities Attend Annual Summer Session

The summer meeting of the Northern Region Firemen's association was held at Crookston Thursday, August 8th, with President Wm. Herbert presiding.

The ladies auxiliary served dinner in the apparatus room of the fire hall. One hundred seventeen visiting firemen were in attendance, representing 26 towns.

Alderman Peterson welcomed the visitors and Chief Roy Langevin of Thief River Falls gave the response.

Chief Herbert stated that plans were under way to have a fire school in Crookston sometime in October. He said he would have a house to burn for demonstration purposes, and that Chief Newark of Grand Forks would be in charge of this phase of the school.

Chief Remley and Orville Neset of the Moorhead fire prevention bureau showed a training movie entitled "Train we Must" Chief Remley also discussed "The ten qualifications a fireman should have."

C. A. Cherry, deputy state fire marshal, spoke on the recent Governors Conference. Cherry also talked on home inspections and about the two fire instructors now working in the State. He urged every chief to put in an application to have one of the instructors come to his town and train his firemen.

Others who spoke briefly were Pete Johnson, Bemidji; Chief Newark of Grand Forks and Orville Neset of Moorhead.

Rain, Heat, Virus

Too much rain; too much hot, humid weather and now a crop destroying virus, Aster Yellows, are taking a heavy toll of the flax harvest in many parts of Pennington county. Flax plants affected by the virus, which is spread by leaf hoppers and other insects, lose their buds and dry up. Agricultural officials estimate the virus will take 25 to 80 percent of the flax harvest in parts of the county.

Cadillac

Keeping Current . . . For Economy!

In the illustration above, you see a very happy man at a very wonderful moment.

The title, the keys and the car are his—and he's starting out on his first journey at the wheel.

Of course, there's not much doubt as to why he decided to purchase a new Cadillac.

Like everyone else who selects the "car of cars", he did it to "keep current", so to speak, on all of Cadillac's new miracles of performance and beauty and comfort.

But coming to Cadillac, as he did, at this particular time of the year, we also suspect that he was inspired by the added motive of practicality.

For in addition to the normal Cadillac economies of modest purchase price, low operating cost and high resale value—Cadillac dealers are, at this time, seasonally prepared to make Cadillac ownership even more attractive than ever.

Because of the demand for used cars and because of increased production of the Cadillac car itself, the odds are that this gentleman received both a generous allowance on his previous car and prompt delivery of his new Cadillac.

Have you considered how wonderful it would be to step into a Cadillac of your own? Then, you should pay your dealer a visit—spend an hour on the highway in the luxury of Fleetwood coachcrafting—and get the facts for yourself.

You'll agree, we know, that the car is Cadillac—and the time is now!

James W. Clark Arranges Conference for Oct. 24-25

J. W. Clark, commissioner of the department of business development, today announced that the second annual industrial development clinic is scheduled for October 24 and 25 in Moorhead. This clinic will be called The Minnesota and Upper Midwest Industrial Conference and special emphasis will be placed on the part the various segments of our state can play in the industrial development field. The clinic will attempt to point out ways to help agriculture, business, mining and others correlate their efforts.

A number of nationally known industrial experts representing various fields have been invited to participate as panel members in this conference. Clarence G. Ivey, vice president of the Commercial Bank and Trust Company of Hartford, Connecticut has indicated he will attend.

His topic will be "A Banker Looks at the Industrial development Credit Corporation". Mr. Ivey has appeared at clinics and conferences of this nature in various cities around the nation this past year. Minnesotans recognized as leaders in this field will also discuss topics of interest to all registrants.

A similar clinic held last September in Albert Lea attracted over 300 delegates, interested in means by which communities can secure new industries and expand those which they already have. Because of the great interest in industrial development in the state, the registrations for this October clinic are expected to exceed that number.

Midsummer Is Turkey Time

Turkey time is midsummer, so far as the monthly list of plentiful foods for August is concerned.

Turkey is given the top position on the monthly list issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A record number of turkeys is expected this year. Many of them already have been marketed and more turkeys is expected this year. Many of them already have been marketed and more turkey will come to retail stores during this month than in any previous August.

August always brings generous supplies of locally grown fresh vegetables of many kinds. Sweet corn, tomatoes, peppers, snap beans, and summer squash are only a few of the vegetables that will be good buys during the month.

The largest peach crop in 10 years will be harvested during August and early September and Bartlett pears also will be plentiful for eating fresh and for preserving. An abundance of lemons and limes will keep all of us supplied with refreshing cold drinks during the hot weather.

Although milk production may be past its peak, supplies of milk are greather than the demand. Milk and dairy products of all kinds are included on the list of plentiful foods.

Fresh fish will be about at the peak of supply during August, along with frozen salmon and halibut.

Peanut butter and vegetable fats and oils, which have been regular items on the lists for many months, complete the August roster of plentiful foods.

Black Butter Sauce

Vary the vegetables you serve your family with different sauces. For green beans or broccoli, try this black butter sauce suggested by extension nutritionists at the University of Minnesota: Melt 3 tablespoons butter and brown it lightly. Stir in a tablespoon vinegar, add ¼ teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper. Pour over cooked green beans or broccoli.

Cool Fabrics For Hot Weather

What fabrics are coolest in hot weather?

All-cotton, all rayon and cotton-synthetic blends are most comfortable in warm weather because they absorb moisture, according to a cooperative study by textile researchers at the University of Minnesota and South Dakota college Agricultural Experiment stations. Cotton compared favorably with the newer fibers for blouse and shirt fabrics in both comfort and durability.

Fifteen fabrics selected as typical of those used for men's shirts and women's blouses were compared in the study—cotton, rayon, nylon, dacron, blends of orlon and rayon and of dacron and cotton.

The comfort of a shirt or blouse, particularly in warm weather, may depend considerably on whether the fabric is porous enough to permit air to move freely through synthetics, need to be constructed so the air may circulate through them. Otherwise, moisture on the skin will not evaporate and the wearer will be uncomfortable. For cotton and rayon fabrics an open weave is not essential because these fabrics absorb moisture which movement of air on the outside of the garment can evaporate.

Facts About Flu

The epidemic of Asiatic flu has the whole world on the alert. The U. S. Public Health Service and the World Health Organization have set up a network to trace and prevent U. S. outbreaks.

According to the American Medical Association, attack rates in other countries have been as high as 19 per cent of the population, but mortality rates have been less than 1 per 1,000 cases. Most deaths occurred in infants and persons already weakened by age, chronic illness or hunger. Uncomplicated flu rarely causes death.

The killer is usually pneumonia which follows the flu. In 1918 we had no effective way of treating pneumonia, the USPHS notes. Today with potent antibiotics such as tetracycline and Terramycin, doctors usually can clear up pneumonia in a matter of days. In addition, the virus responsible for the current epidemic has been identified and vaccines already are being produced.

Thieves Take Erskine 8-0 in Playoff Game

Three-hit shutout pitching by Bobby Hallameck, a pair of triples by Joey Poole, and a pair of four-run innings provided the Thieves with an 8 to 0 win over the Erskine Merchants in a Northern Minny league playoff game played on the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday night.

As a result of their victory, the Thieves move into the winners bracket in the league playoffs, and will meet the Bagley Merchants under the lights at Fosston on Thursday night. In a Sunday afternoon game played at Bagley, the league champion Bagley team defeated Fosston by an 11 to 5 score. On Wednesday night, on Fosston's lighted field, the Erskine Merchants will play Fosston, and the loser of this game will be eliminated from the playoffs.

Sunday night's game was a well-earned triumph for Hallameck and the Thieves. For five innings the two righthanders, Hallameck for the locals and Lyle Westrum for the Merchants, were hooked up in a scoreless duel. And Hallameck had a no-hitter on the scoreboard until the 7th inning when, with two men out, Ed Kroeger lofted a wind-blown fly ball into right field that was misjudged and which fell for a double. In the 8th inning, Erskine's Dick Evenson bounced a single through the box, and Dave Sigado lined a single into right field.

The Thieves, although picking up four hits, a double by Ross Sloan in the 1st, a single by Curly Gasperlin in the 2nd, a double by Frank Gunderman in the 3rd, and a beat out bunt by Poole in the 4th, failed to score in the first five innings.

Came the 6th inning, and lead-off batter Duane Emard gained a life on Roger Bagne's bobble of a ground ball; Dale Peruse singled into right field, moving Emard to third. Poole then slammed one of Westrum's fast balls to the fence in right center, scoring a pair of runs. Duane Glass' sacrifice fly plated Poole, and on a throwing error, Gasperlin, who reached base on a fielder's choice, tallied the fourth run of the inning.

In the 7th, a single by Sloan, an error on Gunderman's slow roller, a line-drive double down the right field line by Emard, a throwing error by the shortstop, and another double to the right-center field fence by Poole accounted for another four-run cluster, and brought Ed Kroeger in from left field to take over the Erskine pitching duties. Kroeger, a righthander, put out the fire, and retired the Thieves without any further scoring.

Softball Echoes

While the softball season's theme song, "Go Bridgeman's, Go" has officially ended, the melody still lingers on, for there are to be a couple of exhibition games played on the East Side diamond this week.

On Tuesday evening, with play ball time set at 6:30 P. M., the city champion Bridgeman's will play the league All Stars (and get beat). The All Stars will be selected by Lowell (Mukkett) Collins of Bjorkman's, Harold (Pinky) Adolphson of the Len's Tire Service, and Chuck Erickson of the T & S Implement. These three managers had their teams in the league playoffs.

And on Thursday evening, also on the East Side diamond, the Keggers of Grand Forks, N. Dak. will meet the Bridgeman's in an inter-state exhibition. The Keggers are rated very highly over at Grand Forks, and you can be sure that they aren't coming over here just for the ride.

Speaking of softball. Don't forget that the girls are having their playoffs, too. The first game in the first round playoffs will be played this evening at the old Lincoln high school athletic field. As far as softball form is concerned, the girls are much classier than the men.

Most Valuable Player

We were in attendance at most of the regularly scheduled softball games, and at all of the playoff games. After scrutinizing the plays and the players, it's our considered opinion that Len Brekke, the second baseman of the Bridgeman's, was the most valuable player in the league. He's our nominee.

Being named the most valuable player doesn't necessarily mean that he was the league's best player, which he wasn't. Joey Poole, the far-ranging shortstop of the Len's Tire Shop, was probably the league's best.

In the valuable player category, it must be agreed, that Brekke was a vital factor in the Bridgeman's team success, and Bridgeman's, you know, swept all of the city's softball honors. Len had the faculty of coming up with the base hit when it was needed, and making the defensive play when it was required to halt an opposing team's rally. He was the spark that exploded the Bridgeman's. Or as the slick-paper writers would say, he was the catalyst that fused the Bridgeman players into a team. Slick-paper or rough-paper, Brekke was a good one in that Bridgeman lineup.

Pressing Brekke quite closely for most valuable honors, in our opinion, was Wally Grovum of the Lens'. Grovum, who played in center field for the most part, was a veritable burglar in robbing batsmen of base hits. Fact is, that outfield of the Len's — Grovum, Sid Vraa, and Jack Erickson — was what kept the Len's in the league race, and carried the club into the finals of the playoffs.

In addition to his ability to go-and-get-em in the outfield, Wally was strong enough at the plate, too.

He's a Hard Man, John

We wish to offer these few words of advice to Johnny Halder, and to warn him of the difficulties he will encounter in collecting the modest wager he won from Bill LaFave.

John and Bill had a small consideration placed on the outcome of the Floyd Patterson vs. Tommy Jackson fight, with John picking Patterson. Patterson, of course, won the fight on a TKO. And now it is up to John to collect the wager.

It's probable, John, that Bill will make an effort to pay this wager by offering you Confederate money, or Indian beads, or stock in Goose Lake. Refuse all these tokens, and make Bill pay in "legal tender" and "In God We Trust" currency.

And, John, as if you didn't have enough trouble in collecting your wager from Bill, you will have just as much trouble with Garf Benson. You made the same wager with him, Patterson over Jackson, and won. Make your demands on Garf some day after the New York Yankees have won a game and Mikey Mantle has hit a home run, then he may make a small installment payment on the bet. He'll be in good humor then.

Note to the Antelope Hunters

Elsewhere in this issue of the Times are some excerpts from a letter that Jim Lee recived from Fred Morrow of Baker, Montana, and it furnishes some important information to the local hunters who intend to make the long jaunt to Montana for antelope hunting. The new regulations provide that the application for the license must be sent to the Montana Game & Fish Department not later than Aug. 15th. That's only a couple of days away.

Jim received some additional application blanks and maps, and he may make those available to the hunters intending to go antelope hunting.

Aug. 15 Deadline on Montana Antelope Hunting Licenses

Local Hunters Advised $20 Fee Must Be Sent in Earlier Than in the Past

Of interest to local sportsmen who are contemplating a Montana antelope hunting trip would be the information contained in a letter received by James Lee, R.R.1, Thief River Falls, from Fred Morrow of Baker, Montana.

There have been some revisions made in the Montana nonresident hunting provisions, and they will affect local hunters who intend to make the trip to the antelope range.

The pertinent information contained in the letter is as follows: "I am enclosing a map showing the areas open to non-resident antelope hunting along with some application blanks. This year it will be necessary that you fill out this application blank and send it with your twenty dollars to the Montana Game and Fish Commission, Helena, Montana. This letter must be postmarked not later than August 15th, so you don't have munch time.

"The deer permits you can purchase here in Baker when you come to hunt antelope. However the deer season doesn't open until Oct. 20th to Nov. 20th, so plan to hunt antelope during that time also. I am sending some additional maps and application blanks. Also call anyone you might think will be interested and give them the necessary information as I'm afraid a lot of people will come out here this year expecting to be able to purchase their antelope permits here as they have in the past."

When the team scores of Wednesday evening's city golf league play had been compiled it was found that five top teams in the standings had maintained the positions that they had gained the previous week. The Brooks Cheese team, though, had its first place margin over the runner-up Hardware Mutual squad pared to two strokes.

The low net team total for the evening, and for the second week in succession, was posted by the Bridgeman's team, a 130. The individual scoring for the Bridgeman's was as follows: Phil LeGault, 39-33; L. L. Tygeson, 45-31; Doug Tegtmier, 42-32; and Lloyd Brunsberg, 49-34.

The second low team total was chalked up by the Tunberg Motors squad, with the following individual scores: Roger Tunberg, 42-32; Roy Lee, 49-33; Bob Bredeson, 47-38; and Jerry Tygeson, 37-32.

The evening's individual low net score was carded by Milt Reierson, who shot a fine 39, and with a nine-stroke handicap, had a net 30. Jerry Tygeson's 37 was the low gross score, while Stan Larson and Bill Watzke had 38's.

SKUNK GETS "CANNED"— Mrs. Leroy Jenkins was awakened early one morning at her cottage on Lake Shamineau near Staples by a commotion outside her window. Looking out, she saw a skunk with a cocoa can on its head doing a rumba against the wall in an effort to free itself. The intruder was shot and taken away, but it had already "paid" for the chocolate—one scent.

Ted Listug of Roseau Wins Shortstop Here

Ninety golfers participated in the mid-summer shortstop golf tournament played over the local course on Sunday. Roseau's slender Ted Listug, by a 2-up margin, won the championship flight honors by defeating the local club's Stan Larson in the finals.

In the "hole in one" contest held in conjunction with the tournament, Roseu's youthful Don Ross won first place money, with Phil LeGault in second place, and Plummer's H. L. Matt in third place. Ross placed his ball within two feet of the temporary cup that was installed on the driving range.

The sixteen-man championship flight, composed of the following golfers—Stan Larson, Paul Fedje, Jack Walters, Wally DuChamp, Jim Lundbohm, Pete Fritzell, Bob Wurst, John Glick, Jerry Tygeson, Jack Lundbohm, Ted Listug, Terry Anstett, Wes Zeman, Larry Perkins, Paul Reiersgaard, and Eugen Bennett. The first round losers in championship flight play moved down into the first flight.

In the championship flight competition, Larson defeated Fedje in a first round match, bested Walters in the quarterfinals, and eliminated Roseau's Jim Lundbohm in the semi-finals. Listug in his first round match defeated Grand Fork's Anstet, eliminated the local club's Tygeson in a second round encounter, and scored a 1-up win over Zeman in the semifinals.

The tourney's lowest score was the 34 shot by Grand Fork's classy southpaw, Wes Zeman, as he defeated Perkins in a first round match.

$1 Wetlands Stamp Is Required of Hunters

Wetlands acquisition stamps are being distributed to hunting and fishing agents throughout the state, to be placed on sale immediately.

The stamps or stickers sell for $1 and everyone who hunts small game in Minnesota during the remainder of this year must buy one, even if he already holds a regular $2 license to hunt.

The 1957 legislature ordered the $1 increase to provide extra funds for purchase of wetlands and some of the rabbit hunters who bought licenses last January and February have been hoping they would not have to pay the additional dollar this year.

The same $2 small game licenses will continue to be sold, but the conservation department asserts the $1 wetlands stamps now must be attached to all small game hunting licenses used during the remainder of the year, regardless of the date of the license purchase.

Residents are not required to have licenses to shoot unprotected wildlife, such as crows and predatory animals, and so will not need to have permits until the first seasons open in September, on "protected" wild game.

Non-residents, however, ARE required to have small game licenses to shoot unprotected wildlife in Minnesota, including bears on which bounties are paid, and these permits will cost them $26 instead of $25.

Francis Johnson, chief game warden, said his department will be "reasonable" during the transition period, and especially until the new stamps have been available for a reasonable time.

Besides the $1 wetlands stamp, and a $2 small game license, those who hunt migratory waterfowl must have federal duck stamps costing $2.

Contrary to widespread belief, however, it it NOT necessary to attach the duck stamp to the hunting license. The hunter must validate the stamp by writing his name across its face. The stamps are good in all states and only one is required of those who hunt waterfowl in more than one state.

State Flax Fields Are Hit by Aster Yellows Disease

'U' of M. Pathologists Report Heavy Attack on Crop This Season

Aster yellows disease this summer is making the heaviest attack to date on Minnesota flax fields, reports Herbert Johnson, extension plant pathologist at the University of Minnesota.

There are signs of the disease in all areas of the state where flax is grown.

However, Johnson, says, no fields have been noted so far where damage from aster yellows is so great that the field shouldn't be harvested.

Where the disease hits, flowers stay green instead of turning blue and bolls fail to develop. However, a single plant may have some diseased flowers and still have others that develop normal bolls. Yield reduction is usually proportional to the number of diseased flowers.

The disease is spread by leafhoppers. The virus of the disease can live from one year to the next on perennial weeds, such as thistles.

From what is known so far, aster yellows doesn't affect the quality of flax seed for oil. Nor does the virus carry over to the next year on flax seed from infected fields.

The only practical way to control the disease is through resistant varieties. All flax varieties now recommended for Minnesota are susceptible to aster yellows, but plant breeders at the University are searching for varieties that will have some resistance to the disease.

Minnesota Fair to Start August 24

Ten-day Exposition to Offer a Cowboy Theme

The 1957 Minnesota State Fair will be wearing chaps and a ten-gallon hat during its 10-day run from Saturday, Aug. 24, through Labor Day, Sept. 2.

For the seventh year in succession, saddle clubs will be coming to the fair from all parts of Minnesota and western Wisconsin. Saddle club drills will be a feature of the western-style Horse Show in the Hippodrome on the fair's closing Sunday and Labor Day. Western horsemanship events will dominate the program, in contrast to the English-style horse shows held from Sunday, Aug. 25, through Friday, Aug. 30.

The fair's leading entertainment attraction will be "West-O-Rama", a musical spectacular on the grand scale, staged in authentic western frontier setting.

"West-O-Rama" will appear in front of the Grandstand on a block-long stage last nine nights of the State Fair. Nearly 200 singers, dancers, acrobats, sway-pole artists, trained animals, and novelty performers will kick up their spurred heels during the two-hour show.

A series of action-packed scenes will take place on the main street of the reconstructed cow-town. The program will include such features as a stage coach holdup, Indian pow-wow, horse auction, shivaree, comedy bank robbery, old-fashioned square dance, and plenty of music and dancing. Featured stars will be cowboy television stars Lofty Craig of the "Annie Oakley" series and Steve Donovan of the "Western Marshall" show.

Royal American Shows also is following Horace Greeley's advice by going west with one of its leading side-shows. Lash La Rue, cowboy movie star, and his horse, Black Diamond, will appear in the Western Show on the Midway all 10 days of the fair.

Aster Yellows Hurts Flax Crops in Region

In June the crops were adversely affected by too much rain; in July it was too much hot and humid weather; and now, the flax is being threatened by a plant destroying virus: Aster Yellows.

The flax destroying germ is spread by a leaf hopper or other insects and is taking a heavy toll of the medium and late flax harvest in the entire Red River Valley basin.

County agricultural agents estimate that 90 percent of the flax fields have been affected to some degree by the virus. Losses are reported to range from 25 percent to 80 percent in many areas of Pennington county.

According to Paul Stelmaschuk, county agent, the virus is not a stranger to this part of the country, however, the combination of too much rain followed by a period of exceptionally hot and humid weather has provided ideal conditions for the virus to multiply.

There will be a flax harvest in the county said Don Lawrence, county soil conservation agent, and there are some good stands of flax, but these are the exception. And all these are fields planted early in the spring.

There is no spray on the market to combat the germ and scientists are hoping to develop a breed of flax that will resist the disease.

Like rust pasmo, two other diseases which can cause considerable damage to the flax crop, Aster Yellows are a once a year infection, that is, each year it must make its appearance. A bad infection of Aster Yellows this year does not necessarily mean the infection will be twice as dangerous next year.

The bulk of the $53,655 will go to the big, Indianapolis-type care drivers, who will be in action six days counting the time trials on Friday, Aug. 23. A total of $1,500 will be given in the trials with the top qualifiers then shooting for $27,500 in the big car races on Sunday, Aug. 25, Tuesday, Aug. 27, Friday, Aug. 30, Saturday, Aug. 31 and Sunday, Sept. 1. The annual 50-lap grand championship and the Minnesota dirt track title race will be held on Sept. 1.

Stock car drivers will be after $20,955 when they race on Saturday, Aug. 24 with a 100-lap race capping the day's action, on Monday, Aug. 26 in the 90-minute marathon, Thursday, Aug. 29 in the 100-mile race and on Monday, Sept. 2 in the inaugural running of the North Star 350-lap classic. A Friendly City

Winnipeg rolled out the red carpet for visiting Americans Saturday, and we were among the group of Thief River Falls citizens who enjoyed the hospitality of the people of that friendly city.

The welcome was impressive not because of the official greetings, which followed the conventional pattern, but rather because of the obvious good will of the people themselves. A distinctive badge informed the natives that we were visiting neighbors. Wherever we went we were accepted with noticeable cordiality when our status as visitors was recognized. It was the sincerity of the unofficial welcome that made the visit especially worth while.

The Canadians have a knack for gracious hospitality. It carries with it the warmth of the greeting of the kindly old woman who welcomed visitors with "at last you have come", and said sadly on their departure, "so soon you must go?"

Adding to the enjoyment of the visit was a football game; the first game of football we have seen played under Canadian rules. It was a professional performance, and many of the top performers were former American college stars.

We liked the game as they played it. From the point of view of the spectator it is much faster and more thrilling than the American version. It has all of the hard-hitting body contact of the game as we know it. And it has been made a less plodding contest by adding a little of the zip of hockey and the fast ball-handling of basketball.

Our guess is that the Canadian rules will gradually be adopted by the professionals in our country, and that of course would lead the similar changes at the amateur level.

To the planners of football fields of the future we suggest that allowance be made for the larger area called for by the present Canadian rules.

Winter Sports Problems

Speaking of sports reminds us of our need for improved facilities for winter recreation here in our own Sleepy Hollow. That there is a need is generally recognized. The fact that we are not making progress in providing the more adequate facilities most of us want is due mainly to our lack of organized effort and the inability to agree among ourselves as to what should be done.

The most important present need is an enlarged skating arena, providing a larger ice sheet for hockey, and better and larger seating facilities for spectators. Until these are provided there probably will be no more high school hockey tournaments staged in our city.

An inexpensive by-product of such an arena expansion could be suitable facilities for curling, a sport that is increasing steadily in popularity hereabouts.

Progress in obtaining such an expansion has been delayed because of some of the conflicting views of those who agree generally that better facilities should be provided. There are advocates of grandiose plans that are very appealing but that might be too costly to meet with public approval. Some of these advocates are reluctant about accepting anything less than perfection.

We are satisfied that a less costly, but nevertheless practical, solution is the right answer to the problem at the present time. We have been assured by those who should know that we can provide adequately for these needs in a practical way, at a price we can afford to pay.

Another winter recreation proposal that we think should have serious consideration is an outdoors skating rink on the river. At Tindolph park we have a bath house for summer swimmers that could be converted into a warming house for winter skaters.

A large rink at this location might take the place of the small and unsightly rink on the Central school grounds where there are neither warming house nor toilet facilities—on land that was acquired for parking purposes and should be so used.

But, repeating again the most obvious need, the first step in securing more adequate facilities is to agree on what we can get for the dollars we can afford to spend, and then start moving in the same direction.

We All Have Troubles

Big league baseball is big business, but big business is not necessarily profitable business. Essential to profits are customers. And because the famous New York Giants are not getting enough customers in New York they are going to move to the Pacific Coast center of population, San Francisco.

The city of San Francisco is spending a lot of dollars building a ball park for its Giants. A new stadium will be built, providing seats for 45,000 customers, with parking lot facilities for up to 12,000 cars. At the Polo Grounds in New York there was parking space for only 1,200 automobiles.

Horace E. Stoneman, president, and for all practical purposes, owner of the company that owns the Giants, told stockholders at their annual meeting last week that they had lost money in five of the last ten years. Guess we all have troubles.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Additional information or assistance on veterans benefits may be obtained by writing or visiting the VA Contact Representatives at the Minot VA Hospital, or the Bismarck or Grand Forks VA offices.

Q—When I started college under the Korean GI Bill, my objective was BA degree, with English as my major. I recently decided to change to engineering and get a BS degree instead. Would this be considered my one-and-only change allowed by law?

A—If no extension of time is required to complete work for your new objective, you would not be charged with a change of course. If a time extension is necessary, you would be charged with a change.

Q—I am receiving retirement pay from the armed forces. Is it possible to pay my GI insurance premiums by having the government deduct the required amount from my retirement check each month, saving me the trouble of taking care of it myself?

A—Yes, Veterans receiving service retirement pay may arrange for payment of GI insurance premiums by allotment. Authorization must be registered with your branch of service.

Q—I want to sell my GI home, allow the buyer to take over my GI loan, and get a release from liability. My wife signed the note when the loan was made. Will she also be released from liability?

A—Yes. If you are released from liability, she also will be released.

Q—I'm over 18 and eligible to go to school under the War Orphans Education program. I understand that if I go, I no longer will receive death compensation payments from the VA. Is my selection of benefits considered "final" when I file my application for War Orphans schooling?

A—No. The election of benefits is final only after the first War Orphans payment has been made in your behalf, or after an administrative allowance has been paid to your school.

A Bird Is a Bird

A bird is a bird all right, but sometimes a bird is a robin or a blue jay, and there is a difference. It is from just such distinctions, beginning with very young children, that the sort of precision comes which makes good observers, good students, or even good scientists.

When Charles, age five, said, "Look, Mommy, the birds are here. They've come back," Mrs. Rider replied, "Sure enough, those birds are robins, and they seem to believe in the coming of spring long before people do. They sing a song to us that sounds like 'Cheer up!', as though they want to tell us not to be too impatient with snow or mud, because Spring is coming." Charles: "Do they really know?" Mommy: "We're not sure what they KNOW but by watching them carefully we CAN see what they do. If you watch the mother Robin use the soggy-ready-made mud to build her nest in the early spring, you wonder if she knows that she would have to make her own mud by scraping and scratching dry dirt and mixing it with water if she waited longer to build. They like to get choice spots for their homes, too, because robins like to eat about fourteen feet of earthworms a day.

Later in the summer Charles was deeply engrossed in the marauding antices of a blue jay. Mr. Jay was quite a mimic and his feigned cry frightened some birds and he finished their meal. Charles scowled. "They're mean birds, blue jays, and I don't like them one bit." Here again, Mrs. Rider was ready: "Yes, blue jays are impish and do a lot of thievery, but Charles, they plant many oak trees by hiding acorns and their huge appetites take away many of the little pests that spoil our gardens. They stay with us all winter, too, and their beautiful blue wings surely help our spirits around February.

Perhaps Mrs. Rider is merely being a friendly, interested mother, but whether she knows it or not, she is guiding Charles toward careful observation, fairness in judgement, the deeper satisfactions which a scientific approach to living can provide.

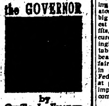
REPORT from the GOVERNOR



by Orville L. Freeman

I reported to you in this column last October on the efforts being made to encourage employment of the physically handicapped. As a part of that effort I appointed a committee to study what keeps employers from hiring more of the handicapped. Representatives of business, labor, insurance companies and the medical profession served on this committee.

Committee Findings

This committee found that one of the major concerns of employers in the hiring of handicapped persons was that their workmen's compensation insurance costs might go up. Some employers thought these people were more likely to get hurt than workers without handicaps.

Legislative Action

To relieve employers of the extra potential liability there might be in employing handicapped persons, the 1957 legislature amended the law governing what is known as the second injury fund.

This fund, which has existed for some time, was established to take care of cases where as a result of a previous injury, an employee becomes a permanent total disability case resulting from an industrial accident. The industrial commission administers this fund.

The 1957 amendment broadens the use of this fund to include payments to physically handicapped persons under certain conditions.

Employers' Liability Limited

Under terms of this amendment an employer or his insurance carrier is responsible for injuries or occupational disease incurred by handicapped persons for the first 104 weeks of disability only. To qualify, the physically handicapped employee must have been registered with the industrial commission before the accident.

If the necessary conditions have been met, then any liability for industrial accidents in excess of 104 weeks of disability is transferred from the employer to the second injury fund.

Interim Commission Established

The 1957 legislature also set up an interim commission to coordinate the study of problems in this area and to study the operation of the new law.

Enactment of this law and establishment of the interim commission are significant steps forward in this important effort to aid the handicapped. Helping handicapped persons become gainfully employed is a service to the employee, and his employer and the community.

Maximum Development

In my first inaugural address I set forth four general goals toward which I think our state government should work. Then, as now the foremost of these is the maximum development of human resources. Helping to make available job opportunities for handicapped persons is one of the important ways to achieve that goal.

Small Business Tax Load

The small businessman, fighting the problems of discriminatory pricing in favor of his big competitors, soaring interest rates which eat up his profits, and often government procurement policies which increasingly favor the large, well-established concern, also has to bear what I feel to be an unfair tax load. There is no doubt in my mind that the way the Federal tax structure is set up at present, a hardship is being imposed on the small business community.

Efforts to Ease Burden

Our Senate Small Business Committee established in 1951 a Subcommittee on Taxation to study the impact of Federal taxation on small business, as the first step toward a more reasonable tax structure. During the spring of 1952 the subcommittee undertook the most thorough and intensive study of the impact of Federal taxation on small business ever conducted, including a series of hearings in seven cities, and with testimony from 121 witnesses. The results of these hearings were summarized in June, 1953, by our full Committee on Small Business. The three major recommendations of the Committee were: 1) to do away with the excess profits tax; 2) to set up more reasonable policies on depreciation allowances; and 3) to clarify the provision in the Internal Revenue Code dealing with the unreasonable accumulation of corporate profits. These three recommendations have since been enacted into law—much to the benefit of small business.

Legislation in the Mill

But we have only made a small start toward effective tax relief. Since the first of the year I have introduced five bills which would help the small businessman, tax wise. These would permit stretching out payments of estate taxes; permit small corporations (less than 11 stockholders) to be taxed as partnerships; entitle proprietors to benefits of tax-exempt pension plans; permit rapid depreciation on used equipment; and substitute much lower tax rates for all corporations up to those with $375,000 net income. The latter would cut the tax, for example, on $25,000 net corporate income from $7500 to $4500.

New Tax Hearings

With steady Administration opposition to these proposals, it has been very difficult to secure the necessary support for such bills in Congress. What is needed is more support from the grass roots, and more up-to-date data, and this is what we hope to secure in a series of hearings in 16 cities this fall. One of these hearings will be set up in Minneapolis, sometime in early November, at which time we hope to hear testimony from about twenty Minnesota small business leaders. Our efforts will be to conclude the whole series before the end of November, so that we can draft a comprehensive tax relief bill based on the information and needs documented in the hearings.

Terraces Hold Rain

Arthur Quick, Dexter, Minn., took a good look at the results from terraces on his farm this spring. When a rain came before the frost was gone, he noticed muddy water draining into his terraces. When he checked the outlets, though, he found the water running out was clear, proving that terraces definitely can help hold soil. The Mower county soil conservation district helped Quick with the layout last year and again this spring. He now plans to terrace the whole farm.

Corn Yield Compared Well

Last year, the average yield in Minnesota X-Tra Corn Yield plots was second high in the nation for a contest of this kind, according to Charles Simkins and Curtis Overdahl, extension soils specialists at the University of Minnesota. Average yield was 121 bushels per acre in Minnesota, compared with 125 bushels in Nebraska's "Reach for Top Corn Yield" contest, and 113 bushels per acre in the Wisconsin Pacemaker Club.

Plastic Silos Reduce Spoilage

In last year tests with plastic bag silos at the University of Minnesota's North Central Experiment Station, Grand Rapids, alfalfa silage averaged only 5 percent total dry matter loss, according to Rodney Briggs, University agronomist. Also, there was no surface spoilage and none of the silage from the plastic bag needed to be discarded. Surface spoilage ranges from 5 percent in upright silos to 50 percent in outdoor bunker silos to 50 percent in outdoor bunkers silos and stacks.

Draining Farm Land

Electricity is an economical helper, when it comes to pumping water from a tile drainage station. In a two-year study on southern Minnesota farms a University of Minnesota agricultural engineer, Curtis Larson, found that average use was 26 kilowatt hours per acre, which figures out to less than $1 per acre, if the power is taken from the farmstead transformer. Where a separate meter is used, cost runs from $1.2 per acre, depending on the number of acres drained.

TALL TIMBER RUNS INTO BIG FIGURES

"Timber is a valuable crop," says Forest Industries Information Committee of Minnesota, and proceeds to prove it with complete 1956 figures. Fourteen different raw and processed forest products were marketed that year to the value of $197,435,000; plus another million and a half at least, from such interesting by-products as maple syrup, fruits, nuts, wild berries, cones, and so on. Pulpwood led in monetary return, and showed the greatest gain over previous years: 1,064,724 cords valued at $147,042,134; lumber at $30 million and fuelwood at $12 million followed, and trailing from $7 million down to $210,000 were Christmas trees and wreaths, posts, matchwood and cooperage, shavings-sawdust-stakes-novelties, mining timbers, railroad ties, chemical by-products, veneer wood, mill refuse (used as fuel), piling. Forest products industry is the third largest in the state—topped by agriculture and mining.

Watering Lawn and Garden

Careful watering will keep grass from going domant and help to keep flowers blooming through the drought of summer.

Water should be supplied when the grass is actually suffering from lack of water. When you water, water thoroughly. Soak the soil down to a depth of the grass roots. Two inches of water applied per week during periods of drought will supply the necessary water on a sandy loam soil. Frequent shallow watering can be harmful because it results in development of roots near the surface of the soil.

To measure the amount of water your sprinkler is providing, place an emty one-pound coffee can about half the distance between your sprinkler and the spread of the water. When the water in the can reaches a depth of two inches, the area has sufficient water if the soil is a sandy loam.

The soaking of flower beds is usually more practical than sprinkling. Soaking the soil with water can be done at any time of day without the risk of creating an environment which disease will thrive in more easily. Soak the soil to a depth of about 6 to 8 inches about once a week. If you sprinkle your flower boarders, do so during the morning. If you sprinkle late in the evening, the foliage may remain moist all evening long and give fungus diseases an opportunity to develop.

Shrubbery borders and foundation plantings may also benefit from a good watering during the drought season. Once again, thorough soaking of the soil is preferable to frequent light soakings.

Theatre Group at Warren to Offer 3 Plays Aug. 27-28

Something entirely new in this area will be presented when the Valley Little Theatre and the Creative Workshop present three Theatre-in-the-Round productions at the old high school gymnasium in Warren, Tuesday and Wednesday, August 27-28.

The workshop, consisting of a group of college and high school students from the Warren area, will present three 1-act plays: "I'm A Fool", "The Still Alarm" and "The Long Retreat."

All plays will be done "in the round," which means that the acting area will be literally surrounded by the audience. The plays will not be done on a stage, but rather on the gymnasium floor.

An angry man is Sylvester T. Bigg

Who today was sold a piece of "blue sky."

He'd stopped in a showroom—out of the rain,

Was sold a new car before he could explain!

How he hated the styling—so high and square.

And in new features it was really bare.

"I got a real bargain—the buy of my life—

But how do I ever convince my own wife?"

Moral: You're paying for a new car... make sure you get one!

When you buy a new car, put your money on tomorrow—not yesterday! Swept-Wing Dodge actually obsoletes other cars in its field. Should you invest in high, boxy styling when Dodge offers the low, low look of tomorrow? Should you invest in outmoded coil springs when Dodge offers new Torsion-Aire Ride? Should you invest in an old-fashioned lever-type transmission when Dodge offers the ease of Push-Button Driving? In other things, too—engines, brakes, interiors—Dodge is years ahead. So put your money on tomorrow. See your Dodge dealer. Join the swing to the Swept-Wing Dodge!

Vandals Damage Band Room at H. S.

Basement Also Flooded by Heavy Rain Monday

Vandals did considerable damage to the office of the basement bandroom at Lincoln high school late Monday evening, but the damage they did was partly overshadowed by water which poured into the basement later in Monday evening's heavy downpour which left about 10 inches of water in the school basement.

Police Chief Elton Cummings said the vandal or vandals broke a window of the basement to get at the lock and then opened the window to gain entry.

They then proceeded to forcefully shove a piano in the office against the door, wrecking door and case as well as damaging the piano. They then tipped the piano upside down and scattered sheet music and band instruments around the place before taking their leave.

Water, which poured into window wells during the literal cloudburst later the same night, added to the damage by soaking up the litter, including instruments, sheet music, etc., that had been strewn around the bandroom.

No estimate of the total damage to the school and school property has been given as yet, Cummings said.

Large Total to Be Paid under Soil Bank Plan

Culkins Estimates County Farmers to Get Nearly $500,000

Nearly half a million dollars is being paid to Pennington county farmers this year under the Soil Bank program, Pat Culkins, of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, told Rotarians at their regular meeting Monday noon. Approximately ten per cent of the tillable land in the county is taken out of production this year under the program, he said.

He estimated the payments to wheat growers under the Acreage Reserve plan at $96,000, to be distributed among 300 farmers. Per acre payments under this program vary from $16.50 to $24.80, the amount being determined by the county committee taking several production factors into consideration.

Under the Conservation Reserve program, which covers all other acreage reduction except for the six so-called basic crops, he estimated the payments to 274 participating farmers at $277,000, plus $122,000 for special planting or other necessary operations. This program takes out of production about 30,000 acres.

Mr. Culkins stated the Soil Bank program was not working out satisfactorily because on a nation-wide basis there is not sufficient participation. Most of the acreage reduction has been in parts of Northern Minnesota and the drouth areas of the Southwest. He expressed the belief that as farmers become better informed on the provisions of the program and its purposes it would be more generally accepted.

In Pennington county 87 land owners put all of their land into the Soil Bank this year, he said.

Traffic Control Directed From The Sky

Two Persons Die in Marcoux Corner Crash

Mentor Woman and Granddaughter Are Victims Tuesday

A 70-year-old grandmother and her 7-year-old granddaughter were killed late Tuesday when the car driven by the elderly woman crashed, broadside, into a concrete-culvert laden semi-trailer truck at the intersection of U. S. Highway 2 and Minnesota 32, popularly known as Marcoux Corner.

The truck driver, Casper Urdahl, Crookston, told investigating highway patrolmen he aimed for the ditch in trying to avoid the crash, shearing a power pole in the process.

Mrs. Joe Ovsak, Mentor, driver of the car, apparently failed to heed a stop sign at the intersection, which led to the fatal mishap. With her in the car were her two granddaughters, Rosemary, 7, and Charlotte Bratten, 10, of Lake Wilson, Minn. The girls, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Bratten, were spending part of their summer vacation with their grandparents on their farm near Mentor.

Mrs. Ovsak and Rosemary died in the crash while Charlotte was taken to Bethesda hospital, Crookston, in critical condition. Urdahl, the truck driver, was uninjured.

When informed of the accident at his home Ovsak collapsed and had to be taken to Bethesda hospital in Crookston by ambulance. Officers said he suffered from a heart condition.

The deaths made the Minnesota traffic toll 376, up 47 from the date a year ago.

From Thief River to Greenbush

The Great Northern steel relaying gang is traveling right down the line, 35 miles from Greenbush to Thief River. When the job is completed in another three weeks they will have laid some 371,000 lineal feet of track and driven in more than 100,000 track spikes. The machine in the picture is one of two dual spike drivers capable of driving 2,000 spikes an hour.

Great Northern Crew Relaying Track from TRF to Greenbush

From early April to late November the 58 men of the Great Northern steel relaying crew travel east from Minot, N. D. to Minneapolis in their 19 car "city on rails."

Last Thursday the 19-car unit, a completely independent set-up that can travel anywhere, with sleeping cars, dining cars, a combination tool and machine shop; a water supply of two 10,000 gallon tankers and two ice cars, pulled into Thief River Falls. Electric power for the unit is supplied by two 3,500-watt, 115-volt gasoline driven power units.

For approximately one month the crew will work their way up the line from Thief River Falls to Greenbush relaying 35 miles of track at the rate of 300 rails a day, or approximately one mile of railroad track a day.

"Gandies," railroad jargon for laborers, "chippers," "spikers," "men on lollipops," and "dead head men," more railroad terms for particular operations, work side by side each doing one of 21 separate jobs needed to tear up the old track and replace it with new 110 pound steel.

The approximate cost of the 35 mile stretch will be over $500,000 including labor and material according to Andrew Fiala, foreman and veteran of five years with the steel relaying crews.

How much steel does it take to relay 35 miles of track? According to materials listed on the AFE (authority for expenditure) it will take 100,000 track spikes, 50,000 rail anchors to keep the track from creeping; 199,000 tie plates to hold the rails together; 42,000 track bolts and 371,500 lineal feet of 110 pound steel rail. To drive in the 100,000 spikes the crew will use two dual spikers capable of driving 2,000 spikes an hour.

But a railroad does not travel on steel alone . . . it takes a lot of nourishment to keep the crews working 8 hours a day. According to Carl Bolzin, the chief cook, the 53 men that eat in the dining car can put away 200 pancakes at one sitting. The daily quota calls for 14 pounds of bacon and 10 dozen eggs in addition to 15 loaves of bread and up to 6 pounds of butter. Monday night Bolzin was getting ready to fry 20 pounds of pork chops for the evening meal.

The program will open with the invocation by the Rev. E. C. Mead, and will include group singing led by Dr. J. L. Norquist and songs by the Lions quartet, including Dr. Norquist, Wendell Olson, Herb Dill and Bryant Ulseth.

Area Vocational School Courses Filling up Rapidly

Practical Nursing, Auto Mechanics, Electrical Enrollment Nearly Filled

Stan Nelson, director of the Thief River Falls area vocational school, announced today that enrollments are nearing their limit in the auto mechanics, electricity and practical nursing courses.

There is ample room, however, he said, for additional students in business, carpentry, hair dressing and beauty culture courses.

Students, said Nelson, have enrolled to date from town as far north as Baudette and as far south as Detroit Lakes. He added that Thief River Falls students planning to attend should register without delay.

Out-of-town students are now being allotted rooms that have been arranged for by the housing committee, which reported it could use a few more housekeeping rooms if available.

The spacious new area vocational school building adjoining Lincoln high school will be nearly completed when the term opens early in September. Nelson stated that the enlarged quarters permit the addition of much new equipment for use in the various courses.

Hess Gives Version of Drowning Mishap

By Mack Draper

Further details concerning last Sunday's fatal boating accident below the 3rd st. bridge here were furnished the Times this week by Phil Hess, who was operator of the first boat at the scene and made an unsuccessful attempt to rescue Harold W. Borgen, 37, who drowned as a result of the accident.

Hess said he was just swinging into his turn about 150 yds. south of the bridge when a passenger in his boat told him a boat was sinking by the bridge. He said he was unaware there was a boat behind him until the passenger told him; then he circled back and saw the swamped boat and Borgen floundering in the water.

Those clinging to the swamped boat told Hess to go after Borgen, which he did, getting to within approximately 3 ft. but missing him. Borgen then sank and Hess dived, fully clothed, into the water in a rescue attempt but his clothing prevented his getting any depth so was unsuccessful.

Contrary to Monday's Times story, Hess said he did not pick up the survivors but another man in the Hess boat, Gerald Martin, Walnut, Ia., eased it into the west shore with the survivors clinging to it. Hess swam ashore, exhausted from his rescue attempt.

Some people in town have voiced the opinion, Hess said, that his boat's wake swamped the other boat. Actually, a combination of rough water and backwash from the swamped boat's own 30 h. p. motor being throttled back probably caused it to go down at the stern, is the theory advanced by local experienced boat operators.

During practice for the JayCee sponsored Aquacade boats with powerful outboard motors frequently followed each other under the bridge piers at very short intervals without a similar occurrence and under normal circumstances, according to local operators, there is little danger of capsizing.

The story published in Monday's Times is generally accurate but more condensed than Hess' personal account of what happened. However, persons inexperienced in boat operations on the river may have voiced the opinion Hess's wake had caused the other boat to be swamped, from what they had read in Monday's story, which may have been slightly misleading in this respect, thus leading to this explanation.

Hess not only risked his own life in a heroic rescue attempt but lost his billfold in the process.

Two Girls from This Area Are Scheduled to Compete at St. Paul

Forty-nine 4-H club members have been selected to take part in the statewide 4-H Share the Fun festival scheduled for Wednesday evening, Aug. 28, during the Minnesota State Fair.

The young people were chosen on the basis of their performances at district events at Faribault, Redwood Falls, Aitkin and Ada.

The University of Minnesota agricultural extension service and Cargill, Inc., are sponsors of the Share the Fun program.
